THE QUILT LEGACY

By DORA LEFAVOUR.

Joshua Prism lacked the business acumen of his ancestors, and when he died the home which had passed down his line for generations was his only legacy to his two daughters.

The city came. Massive buildings towered menacingly above Miss Esther's wee shop, and homes of modern architecture rose around their weather-beaten hills.

After they'd eaten their toast, Miss Lucretia carried the tea things to the drawing room, while Miss Esther turned the oil lamps economically low.

"Let me see that, Esther," Miss Lucretia held out her hand. "Seems to me I've seen some just like it somewhere."

"Probably when you were a child," Miss Esther replied vaguely. "If I could match it anywhere it would be at Vail's in Boston, but its price would be exorbitant—quite prohibitive. No, it's no use—the game is not worth the candle."

"I think I'll retire, sister," Miss Esther said wearily very early in the evening. Miss Lucretia opined she, too, would go to bed.

Each took a small lamp and silently climbed the shadowy, creaking stairs. Miss Lucretia's brow wrinkled in memory-searching frown.

"Where in the world have I seen chintz like that?" she kept asking herself. "Esther," she fluttered, "don't you remember Aunt Anstiee Dolbear's legacy?"

Straight to an old brass-studded hair trunk they sped, simultaneously opened the creaking lid and dragged a bulky quilt from the place where it had lain untouched for twenty-five years.

QUICK TO SOLVE PROBLEMS

According to Woodmen, the Wolf is Capable of Displaying Sagacity That is Wonderful.

A correspondent having written a letter to the Star expressing doubt as to the truth of the story that a wolf, having chased a man up a tree, went away and brought back a beaver to cut down the tree for him so they could get the man, we have been much impressed by the number of witnesses, especially old-timers in New Ontario, who are sending us letters tending to add authenticity to the story.

Wild animals, these witnesses declare, are strong in instinct, and work out problems instantly which one would suppose could only be done by arithmetic. In one letter the writer, who lives in the Cochrane district, gives his theory as to the manner in which the wolves got the beaver to the tree. According to the story, a dozen wolves went off on this errand. This number was in order that they might kill a deer, and use its hide as a toboggan on which to haul the beaver to the spot and take him back again after he had felled the tree for them. This theory must be accepted as ingenious and interesting.—Kansas City Star.

Animals That Fly. Among the many odd animals perhaps the oddest are the flying animals. There is the flying fox or fruit-eating bat. In the moonlight stillness of the forest flying opossums may be seen gliding through the air. The flying mouse, able to sleep in a good-sized match-box, is decidedly Australian. It would be very interesting for all the children of other countries to see these strange creatures. Australia is peculiar also by reason of the animals which are conspicuous by their absence. There are in Australia no apes, no oxen, no antelopes, no deer, no elephants, no pigs, no cats, wolves or bears—none of the animals common in other parts of the world are found of talking about.

Simple Test of Cloth. To determine whether any fabric contains wool, mix a tablespoonful of lye with a quart of water in a granite pan. Boil a sample of the material to be tested in the lye solution. The wool in the material will be completely dissolved while the cotton will be left. If threads are left the material is wool one way. If a woven piece is left the material is either all cotton or threads of the warp and filling are cotton and wool mixture. Silk and cotton mixtures may be tested in this manner, but silk dissolves more slowly than wool. If the combination is artificial silk and cotton the fibers will swell, but the material will remain intact.

GILBERT. May 31—Mrs. Berg and son Walter of Little Falls came up Friday and stayed over Memorial day at W. H. Tuttle's. Mrs. D. Elliott of Bemidji arrived Saturday for a visit with her mother and brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Helmer Carlson left Friday for a trip to Dassel and Grosvonts, where Mrs. Carlson will visit relatives while Mr. Carlson brings their furniture by truck from Dassel to their new home here.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schelling and family were visiting in this neighborhood Sunday afternoon. The town board in pursuance of official business some time ago, met with such a serious mishap, that they had to postpone their trip for another day.
