COME AND GONE

The Sabbath night had passed, and in the east The first pale streaks of rose foretold the day. When from the city, Mary Magdalene And others, bearing spices, came to lay Them in the Master's tomb.

They marvel'd that the stone which had been sealed Was rolled away, and stooping down they saw Inside the tomb two angels robed in white, Whose radiance made them bow their heads in awe—"He is not here," they heard.

"Did He not say that He would rise again? Seek ye the living, then, among the dead?" And, trembling, Mary and the others went To His disciples, telling what was said. Yet one would not believe.

For Thomas told his brethren, "Till I've thrust My hand into the Master's wounded side, And felt the prints of nails inside His hands, I'll not believe He lives again who died." And later Christ appeared.

He bade the doubting Thomas make his tests, Who did and said, "My Lord," and Christ replied, "Because you have beheld me, you believe, But those who have not seen my hands and side And yet believe, are blessed." —Velma West Sykes in Kansas City Star.

HOME-GROWN EASTER LILIES

Experiments Made by the United States Department of Agriculture Have Been Successful.

When it first became known that experiments in raising Easter lilies from seed were being carried on by the Department of Agriculture, few florists were prepared to believe that the undertaking possessed any commercial value beyond the possibilities of producing new hybrids. The results of these experiments, which have now been carried on for four years, indicate, the department specialists believe, that this country can develop an important industry.

On the Arlington experimental farm, which is just across the Potomac river from Washington, department specialists produce the lily seeds in greenhouses by artificial pollination. These seed are planted about January 1, pricked out into small pots, and in May the young plants are set in the open ground. They develop rapidly, and by July or August some of the plants reach sufficient size to bear blooms. In October or November the American-Grown Lilies. plants are lifted, potted, and removed to the greenhouse. Without undue forcing the plants will come into full bloom the following February to April—15 months after the seed has been planted. Those plants which bloom in July or August and from which the bloom stalk has been cut may send out two or three stalks and can be forced to bloom again by Easter. Many commercial growers are much interested in the work which is being conducted on the Arlington farm, and officials of the department believe that it will not be long until an industry will be developed in this country which will make lily growers here independent of any foreign supply of bulbs.
