

FARMERS' OWN FIRM WILL MARKET EGGS

STATEWIDE CREAMERIES ASSOCIATION CALLS CONFERENCE ON CHEAPER DISTRIBUTION

The thousands of Minnesota farm women who raise chickens will be especially interested in a co-operative marketing conference taking place in St. Paul on April 28 and 29.

This conference will make plans for the co-operative marketing of eggs through the Minnesota Co-operative Creameries association, Inc. The directors of the creamery association and the nine expert field men employed in its various marketing districts, will take part in the meeting, which will be held in the Old Capitol. Plans will be outlined by a special committee on co-operative egg marketing, made up of William Hengel of Glencoe, John Brandt of Litchfield, Henry Arens of Jordan and C. L. McNelly of Dodge Center. N. E. Chapman, poultry specialist of the University extension service, will lead discussions.

Large consignments of eggs already are being marketed through the statewide creameries association; they are included in carload lots of butter, and shipped through to the eastern markets at carlot rates with a considerable saving. The creameries association will have the co-operation and backing of the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation and the county Farm Bureaus in egg marketing.

Will Your Daughter be a Farmer's Wife? Do farm mothers believe in farming? Have they enough faith in farming to want their daughters to marry farmers?

They have, according to the results of a nationwide contest just concluded. A farm magazine, the Farmers' Wife, conducted the contest. More than 7,000 farm women wrote letters answering the question, "Do You Want Your Daughter to Marry a Farmer?" Ninety-four percent of them answered "Yes!" Two of the 98 prize-winning letters were from Minnesota.

One of them follows. This is what Mrs. Stuart Oliver wrote from her farm home near Olmsted: "I'm going to stop a bit, dear farm women, in the midst of my work, for wee daughter is having her nap and it's a good opportunity to tell you why I wish the best of all good things for our pride and hope and joy."

"It is because I have known the happiness which comes of service, that I want my daughter to know it, too. Is there any greater joy, I wonder, than that of a hard task well done? When I have hurried with my work that I might do something extra outside, worked until I felt old and cross and tired, and the best man in all the world has said, 'I certainly couldn't farm without you,' oh, how I've thrilled. It becomes a little song in my heart and lightens my work for days. And even if he weren't the best man, I think I could be quite happy with the thought: 'I've earned my way today; I'm helping with the most essential job on earth; I'm working for a better world.'"

"Then there's the beauty of family life on the farm. Instead of seeing my son rushing off with the fellows, my daughter going out for a good time that I'll know nothing about, and the younger children coaxing to go to the movies, we'll be spending our evening together with our music, books or mutual friends, or going to some amusement together."

"And last but not least, of the good things I desire for this daughter-of-mine, are peace, a love of nature, and time for quiet, happy thoughts. Can they be gotten by any other class of working people as easily as by the woman on the farm? She doesn't rush to finish her work that she may spend a day bargain-hunting—a day of hurry, worry and 'me-first' thoughts; of spending money she shouldn't spend and gazing at things she wants and can't have. No; she may sit on the front porch a bit while she sews or mends or reads. She will see and feel and hear the beauty of the world—her world—and with an unruffled spirit, she will go in and get supper for her hungry brood."

"And so, folks, I want my daughter to marry a farmer, a good man, upright, steadfast and true, with visions of the farm-life-to-be in his heart. Then, hand in hand, they can work to make their dreams come true, and she will know the happiness I have known. I could not ask for more."

Farm Bureau Asks Wool Freight Cut. The Minnesota Farm Bureau federation has protested against what it declares is an unjust freight classification, injurious to Minnesota farmers. It has requested a hearing before the railroad's Western Classification committee, to apply for a rate reduction. The Minnesota federation also has urged the Farm Bureau of the Dakotas, Iowa, Wisconsin, Missouri and Nebraska to join in the effort to cut rates on wool.

West of Chicago, the minimum charge for shipping wool is the rate on 25,000 pounds in a 60-ton capacity car. It is impossible for the Farm Bureau maintains, to load more than 18,000 pounds of wool into such a car, so that farmers are forced to pay freight on 6,000 pounds of wool that does not exist. East of Chicago, it is understood, the minimum rate is based on 16,000 pounds. The Farm Bureau asks that this 16,000 pound minimum be applied in Minnesota, to save money for the farmers.

HOW CREAMERY HAS HELPED THE FARMER. Co-operative creameries paid an average price during 1921 of from 7 to 10 cents more than was paid by cream stations, according to A. J. McGuire, dairy extension specialist of University Farm.

It is estimated that farmers of Minnesota received $20 a year more per cow for the last five years because they have 600 co-operative creameries in the state than they would have received had there been no such creameries," says Mr. McGuire. As a matter of fact, the poorest co-operative creameries pay as well as the best cream stations. Three conditions are necessary to make a co-operative creamery of the first class, namely, a sufficient amount of business, good business management and good cream."

BOWLING MAN HURT IN CAR ACCIDENT. A. Gravel, who pitched the first eight innings, did very well, holding Pillager to three hits and no runs. Abrahamson pitched the last inning, allowing two hits. Lasky at the backstop position did good work and was effective at bat, connecting for two hits.

Coe, mound artist for Pillager, did good work but he had poor support. Hull, third baseman, played a good game and connected for two hits.

WOMAN'S GUILD (Contributed)

A very interesting and instructive quarterly meeting of the Woman's Guild was held at the K. C. hall yesterday afternoon.

Miss Anna Nathe gave a piano selection at the opening of the meeting, which was encored and she responded in a most gracious manner. Prof. Bergquist's talk on the educational value of movies, was listened to very attentively and some very advanced ideas were gathered from his remarks. Then the usual reports of committees were read and approved. These reports showed an active winter's work in the lines of activity, which were taken up.

The ladies also invited our state president, Mrs. David Irwin of Lake City, to visit us in June to talk over the organizing of girls' clubs in the different parishes in the city. After this Mesdames A. Simonet and H. Hansen sang in a most soulful manner, an "Ave Marie" by Millard.

Rev. E. Mahowald of St. Cloud, secretary for charity and social work, then spoke very complimenting of our local work in the past and with the aid of Miss Bolten, a trained social worker from Washington, D. C. he hoped to be able to broaden our field of activities in the near future.

Lunch was served, after which Miss Bolten told of some of her plans for our help in a local way.

LEGION PLAY SCORES BIG HIT "Sittin' Pretty," farce comedy depicting life in the A. E. F. after the Armistice, which was presented at the Havana theatre here Thursday and Friday evening of last week, under the auspices of the local American Legion post, proved one of the most pleasing home talent productions ever staged both nights.

All the members of the cast handled their parts in an able manner and the show was smooth and snappy. The Mademoiselle and Doughboy choruses were very good and added much to the show. A blackface specialty by Bip Caldwell and Bob Davis made a big hit.

Credit for the splendid performance is due Rev. Bacon, who directed rehearsals, and Mrs. A. H. Vernon, who had charge of the music. Palmer Nelson as business manager handled publicity and other arrangements very well.
