

CREAMERIES OPEN NEW YORK OFFICE

ASSOCIATION TAKES OVER MANAGER AND ENTIRE ESTABLISHMENT DANISH PRODUCERS

(Farm Bureau News Service)

The co-operative creameries of Minnesota at last have their own direct representative on the eastern market.

The Minnesota Co-operative Creameries Association, Inc., announced that M. Sondergaard, American manager for the United Danish Butter Association, Inc., has become its New York representative. The Minnesota association has taken over the entire establishment of the Danish organization, at 105 Hudson street, New York City.

For the first time in history, the dairy industry of Minnesota as a whole has its own agency to protect its interests on the important terminal markets of the east. Prices, freight charges, scurrings, supply and demand and every other phase of marketing in which the incomes of Minnesota co-operative creamery patrons are concerned will be watched by the New York office.

The new eastern office already has done service for Minnesota farmers, according to A. J. McGuire, manager of the state association. Mr. Sondergaard has reported the arrival in New York of the first carload of eggs shipped co-operatively by Minnesota farmers under the statewide egg marketing plan worked out by the creameries association at a conference last month. The carload came from Glencoe. The possibilities of this marketing plan were indicated by Mr. McGuire in the report from the New York office.

"The carload of eggs from Glencoe is receiving many favorable comments here because of the fine quality of the eggs," Mr. Sondergaard said. "I am informed that these eggs are some of the finest that have ever arrived in the market at this time of the year. If Minnesota can furnish this grade of eggs, I see no reason why it should not be doing a big business in eggs as well as butter."

Never before, Mr. McGuire said, have Minnesota farmers been allowed to find out, as a whole, that their eggs were recognized as a high class product on the eastern market. The presence of the Minnesota dairy farmers on the New York market, he said, will protect the interests of the farmers by seeing that Minnesota products are marketed at the highest price their quality commands. He said that the farmers get the full benefit of higher prices paid for high quality.

Grain Market Rules Issued

St. Paul, May 20.—The United States supreme court has held the federal future trading act unconstitutional, and as a result the Minnesota railroad and warehouse commission is taking steps to begin enforcement of the state law providing for public supervision of the grain exchanges.

As the first step, it has issued rules directing the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce, the Duluth Board of Trade and the St. Paul Board of Trade to require all members to make a permanent record of every sale or purchase of wheat and other grain, and to file it to arrive, or purchase or sales of grain for future delivery. The record must be in writing, and must show the date of purchase or sale, the quantity, the name of purchaser and seller, their respective addresses, and the price and terms of the purchase or sale.

Every exchange member is required to open these records at any time to the inspectors. The exchanges also are ordered to keep a record of daily receipts of all grain, the daily opening, high, low and closing prices of wheat and other futures including flax, and the total amount of wheat and other grains sold each day for future delivery.

Each exchange is required to post in a conspicuous place a bulletin showing the number of cars of spot cash wheat or other grain, and the number of bushels or cars of wheat or other grain sold to arrive, that have been sold during the day on that exchange. The injunctions brought by the Minneapolis and Duluth exchanges to prevent enforcement of the state law have been dismissed. The state rules are to go into effect June 1; state officials say they will be obeyed by the exchanges.

The federal law for regulation of the grain trade was held unconstitutional in that it sought to use the taxing power of the government improperly. Farm bloc leaders plan to prepare another law as rapidly as possible.

Farm Wifehood for Your Girl!
Would you want your daughter to

More than 3,000 farm mothers answered that question in a nationwide contest recently. And more than 90 percent of them said an "ambitious and wholehearted" "Yes!"

"Yes," wrote Mrs. Fannie L. Brundage, who won first prize, from a farm in Fairfield county, Connecticut. "Yes, even in the light of the hard years I have spent upon the farm, I would be willing for my daughter to marry a farmer because I believe in a constructive policy for farm homes, and that true happiness is found in well-rendered service. In something so vitally necessary to the growth and progress of our nation is agriculture, it is wisest for us farmers not to deprecate our occupation, nor to magnify our difficulties and molehills of our pleasures."

"The strength of our nation lies in the youth of our land and with intelligent care, nowhere can boys and girls be reared to a sturdier manhood and womanhood than on our farms."

"If our men are to till our farms to feed the multitudes, side by side with them must be women to do the work who are better fitted than our daughters who can bring to their task understanding hearts."

"Oh, but I hear some one say, 'it is such a hard life!' Have you ever known any great work or brave deed brain wrought by one seeking the 'easy job?' The making of happy homes is a great work."

"Our government is awaking to the fact that the farmer is to be reckoned with in our national policies. Our home demonstration agents are showing us farm women how to make becoming and inexpensive clothing; the automobile is making it possible to do so many interesting things—and get home for 'chores.' On many a lonely farm, our citizens-women are touching the lives of boys and girls, inspiring them with a keen interest in their work and surrounding interests."

"Last, but not least, the farmer is aroused as he never has been and is speaking for himself. He shall have spoken wisely enough, I hope the great lack in the life of our farm woman today—money—will be filled and she will have machinery to relieve the drudgery of her work and opportunity to enjoy some of the niceties of life. It is her due. To such a life I would gladly give my daughter. I love the country; take a keen interest in farmer folk; admit their sincerity, quick sympathies, and sane and clean thinking. I find true enjoyment in the changing seasons; the spot where the children find the first hepatica; the bird songs; the beautiful coloring of the skies; the refreshing spring water; the feeling of nearness to the Creator of all things good and beautiful."

"Because of this and because I am an American Patriot, I should like to pass this legacy on to my daughter's children."

Wool Pool at 35 Cent Mark

Another bright spot appeared in the wool market this week.

The National Wool Department of Farmington announced the sale of its entire 1921 pool at prices based on 35 cents a pound for medium wools. A week before it had announced offers of 30 cents a pound, but stated that it was insisting on at least 32 cents. The 1921 pool on the 35 cent basis followed.

The National Wool Department at Farmington is one of three co-operative agencies endorsed by the Minnesota Wool Marketing Committee, which was organized by the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation at the request of a conference of wool producers, to handle Minnesota's 1922 clip on the statewide pooling plan. The marketing committee was organized by the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation at the request of a conference of wool producers early this year. It unanimously recommended pooling of all Minnesota wool to take advantage of the rising market, strengthening of county wool growers' associations, and the organization of a state association in the autumn.

BRANDT, SLAYER OF RELATIVES, GIVEN LIFE SENTENCE

Ernest M. Brandt of Barrows was on Saturday sentenced to the state penitentiary for life for the murder of his wife's father James McPherson, and grandmother, Mrs. J. E. McPherson, May 8. Brandt was indicted on two counts by a special grand jury. He was brought before Judge Stanton of Bemidji and pleaded guilty to the murder charge.

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Diedrich of Bemidji arrived Saturday from Minneapolis, where Mrs. Diedrich submitted to surgical treatment. Dr. Diedrich returned to Bemidji Monday evening, but Mrs. Diedrich and daughter Catherine remained for a visit with relatives. They are guests at the P. J. Vassaly home.

Patriots in Peace
"We need patriots in peace as well as in war," said Judge Hughes. "Our most important work lies in the development of good citizens. We used to call the foreigners 'Wops,' 'Bohunks,' 'Sheenies,' etc., but we don't hear that any more. We have found out that they are human and our equals. We must approach them in the spirit of brotherhood. Sometimes they make better citizens than native born Americans because they have lived and suffered in other lands and can make comparisons with the Old World which help them to appreciate America."

Free Transportation
"We will furnish free transportation to anyone living between Minnesota's Sixth District and the Gulf of Mexico, who wishes to attend the Legion National convention," declares Milton Mahulin of Brainerd, Commander of Minnesota's Sixth District Legion.

Sixth Has Great Future
"The fastest growing district Legion organization in Gopherland" is the claim of Sixth District Legionnaires, who point to their virgin forests and streams and lakes and declare that though the Sixth sent just 6,000 men to army life, the coming development of Northern Minnesota will double the percentage of total veteran population and then Minnesota's Sixth will be the strongest as well as the peppiest bunch of Gophers in the North Star State.

Sympathetic Co-operation
"The American Legion of Minnesota," declares Dr. Arthur A. Van Dyke, Department Commander, will endeavor to commemorate with a special dignity the coming Memorial Day. The American Legion, in paying tribute to its own dead, appreciates the greater significance in the decoration of the graves of those veterans of '61 who died that the nation might live.

We appreciate that the day is peculiarly that of the Grand Army of the Republic and we have attempted our exercises only in the spirit of fostering and perpetuating their service to our own dead and those of the Grand Army of the Republic, the spirit of sacrifice so wonderfully evidenced within the thinning ranks of the veterans of the civil war.

Crawford Sheldon and E. P. Adams were at Mille Lacs lake the latter part of last week on a fishing trip. They brought back the limit of pike.
