

BIG CROWD HERE FOR CELEBRATION

likewise contribute to civilization by developing the neighborhoods of the city. C. M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, gave a resume of the road laws of Minnesota, after which he went on to tell how the paving is being done and how it is made possible. He pointed out that the hard-surfacing program will work for the benefit of the farmer in that it will make permanent those roads that are subjected to the heaviest traffic and thus lead to the building up of the feeder roads. He spoke of proposed changes in the automobile tax laws of this state, particularly in regard to revising of the tax to make it more fair and equitable, and he said that the next legislature will be urged to provide some means for taxing bus and truck lines which are using the highways continually and which are now only paying taxes on the cars or trucks used. Mr. Babcock reviewed the work that has been accomplished on the roads of the state with the funds available and showed that the money has been well spent. Mayor Leach of Minneapolis paid a tribute to Mr. Babcock, who, he said, has been responsible for the great program of road building in this state. He also complimented the Little Falls schools for the wonderful showing made in the parade, saying it was the best school turnout he had ever seen, and remarked that they will remember this occasion forever. He spoke of this paving as the connecting link between Minneapolis and Little Falls, bringing Little Falls into the corporate heart of Minnesota. He concluded with the remark that if the Little Falls people should take a notion to speed on the highway and get caught, near Minneapolis, he would come before the judge and say a good word for them. Senator Cashman of Owatonna spoke on the value of the Jefferson Highway to Minnesota. Mr. Cashman is a member of the board of directors of the Jefferson Highway Association. He pointed out that the Jefferson Highway is one of the greatest highways in this country and that its value to Minnesota cannot be underestimated from any standpoint. A. H. French, general manager of the Jefferson Highway Association, who came a distance of 100 miles to attend this celebration, gave a booster talk. He told of what he saw on a trip over the Jefferson Highway from his home town, Pittsburgh, Kan., to Winnipeg, and return. He said that the most he saw was Minnesota and the wonderful progress that this state is making in road improvement. "We are trying to get in the south what you have in Minnesota, namely good roads," he said, and he added that the aim of the states along the Jefferson Highway is to make it one continual paved highway all the way from New Orleans to Winnipeg. He concluded his talk with congratulations from the southern states on the Jefferson Highway to Minnesota on her accomplishment. H. H. Orme of St. Paul, general chairman of the Little Falls-Faribault paving celebrations and one of the best good roads boosters in Minnesota, was the last speaker. He thanked the people here for the splendid co-operation which made the celebration a success. He thanked those who had made this good roads proposition what it is and he especially thanked the newspapers of the state for the publicity given all good roads matters. At noon a banquet was tendered the visiting guests at the K. C. hall on First street southeast. At 2 p. m., a pleasing recital was given at Maud Moon Weyerhaeuser hall by Mrs. C. A. Weyerhaeuser of St. Paul, soprano, and Mrs. C. D. Robinson of St. Paul, pianist. After the speaking program the crowd went to the fair grounds where Little Falls and Faribault high schools clashed in a football game. A slow Ford race was held on a downtown street at 3:30 o'clock. This afforded considerable entertainment for those who did not go to the football game. The Federated Women's Clubs of Little Falls held open house at Carnegie library after 4 o'clock and tea was served to the visitors. In the evening a free band concert was given at the Harwa theatre by the combined city and juvenile bands and the celebration ended with a grand ball at the Broadway K. C. hall. An automobile from the St. Paul Pioneer-Press Dispatch equipped with a radio receiving station entertained a number of people on one of the downtown streets. A number of pleasing musical numbers were received. Among the cities that were represented by good sized delegations were St. Cloud, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Faribault, Staples, Brainerd, Wadena, Long Prairie, Royalton, Sauk Rapids. Credit for the success of the celebration is due to J. K. Martin, general chairman; the Board of Commerce and its secretary, Mr. Lucas; the several committees and all others who assisted in any way.

RED CROSS NURSING SERVICE IN MINNESOTA

Some facts not generally known about Minnesota's Red Cross Nursing Service have been given out today from Judge Hall's State Office in Granite Falls. He says: "Minnesota is known nationally for its active health education work, and Red Cross chapters and their Public Health Nurses have had a large share in these activities. Twenty-four counties have nursing service entirely supported from American Red Cross funds. Seventeen have a joint service where the county and the Red Cross share the expense. Thirteen counties maintain the work unaided and one nurse is financed by the sale of Red Cross seals. During the last six months, 89,867 school children were inspected by Red Cross nurses. 64,108 had physical defects of which 22,703 have been corrected under the care of a physician. Over half of the children have had courses in Home Care of the Sick and Hygiene financed by Red Cross funds. In the last year nurses report in rural communities a marked advance in approved methods of disease prevention throughout the state. The Red Cross roll call which is to be held Nov. 11-30 is a campaign for the registration of those who believe in the value of Red Cross service and better health in Minnesota.

ELKS HAVE RADIO RECEIVING OUTFIT

A radio receiving set has been purchased by the local Elks lodge and is now in operation in the club rooms on First street southeast. The set was purchased from the Radio Corporation of America. Installation of the equipment was completed the latter part of last week and on Saturday afternoon a number of football fans gathered there to hear reports of the Minnesota-Wisconsin game and listened to the election returns Tuesday evening.

A delegation of Little Falls citizens will go to Faribault tomorrow to attend the paving celebration. Any who are planning on going down there are asked to advise C. E. Lucas, secretary of the Board of Commerce, to that effect. It is desired to have a good sized delegation go down and an early start is necessary in order to spend any time there.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING BOOSTS EGG PRICES

Co-operative marketing of eggs serves to stabilize prices and to increase the returns to the producer. Prices paid at various primary points in Minnesota during fair week were posted by N. Z. Chapman, specialist with the agricultural extension service of the university, in his booth in the poultry building. These prices—the sums actually passing from the dealer to the farmer—ranged from 18 to 30 cents a dozen. The lowest prices were quoted in sections producing the most eggs. Daily reports of egg prices along the Pacific coast were also posted by Mr. Chapman for purposes of comparison and showed that eggs were bringing poultrykeepers 33 cents at Seattle, 37 cents at Los Angeles and 40 cents in producing districts around San Francisco. "These figures indicate what the co-operative marketing system is doing for California poultrymen," said Mr. Chapman. "Surplus Pacific coast eggs are being marketed in Atlantic coast cities, nearly 3,500 miles away. It is only 1,410 miles from the Twin Cities to New York. California has a milder climate than Minnesota, but Minnesota poultrymen have many advantages over egg producers along the western coast. This will become more and more apparent as the marketing machinery becomes more efficient."

HOW TO KEEP TUBERS FOR IMMEDIATE USE

Lucy Cordner of the university's home demonstration section advises consumers to lay in a store of potatoes selected with regard to the method of cooking. Store in separate boxes or bins raised slightly from the floor with an opening for ventilation, she says. Label each bin so that members of the family will make no mistake in selecting. For baking—Store potatoes that have an average weight of one-half pound. They should be smooth, preferably with netted skin, with few and very shallow eyes. For frying and boiling—Store potatoes of uniform size, with a smooth skin, few and shallow eyes and free from scab. For boiling in the jacket—Potatoes with deep eyes have practically no waste when cooked in the skin. For salads—Store the small potatoes which would be wasteful of time and of product if pared.
