While playing around some wheelbarrows at the brick yards yesterday a 6-year-old son of Jos Miller, fell over one of them and broke his left arm. He was immediately brought to the city. Soon after another boy of the same age, a son of Eugene Monisette of Ripley was brought to some doctor's office, having broken his right arm in falling out of a little express wagon.

Lincoln's Advice to Lawyers.

John G. Nicolay contributes to The Century some fragments that Lincoln wrote from time to time. Often they were penned for the mere purpose of practice in literary composition. Through painful, rugged ways the solitary man educated himself in a pioneer's cabin and from his own deep thoughts in the fields and woods.

One of the fragments is a set of notes on a lecture to lawyers. Lincoln tells lawyers never to accept a full fee in advance and nothing more than a small retainer, because the man must be more than a common mortal who can feel the same warm interest in a prepaid case as in one where he is working for his fee. A good hint is conveyed here also to those who hire lawyers.

In the following sentences there are suggestions which, if lawyers adopted them, would make the world better off and happier than it is now: "Extemporaneous speaking should be practiced and cultivated. It is the lawyer's avenue to the public. However able and faithful he may be in other respects, people are slow to bring him business if he cannot make a speech. And yet there is not a more fatal error to young lawyers than relying too much on speech-making. If any one upon his rare powers of speaking shall claim an exemption from the drudgery of the law, his case is a failure in advance."

Discourage litigation. Persuade your neighbors to compromise whenever you can. Point out to them how the nominal winner is often a real loser—in fees, expenses and waste of time. As a peacemaker the lawyer has a superior opportunity of being a good man. There will still be business enough.

Never stir up litigation. A worse man can scarce be found than one who does this. Who can be more nearly a fiend than he who habitually overhauls the register of deeds in search of defects in titles, whereon to stir up strife and put money in his pocket? A moral tone ought to be infused into the profession which should drive such men out of it.

Little Worlds.

The bodies called asteroids are supposed to be fragments of exploded planets or comets that belong to our solar system. They circulate around the sun at intervals between Jupiter and Mars, filling gaps, so to speak. That they are round is a necessary consequence of the operation of the law of attraction; that they are worlds like the rest of the planets is a reasonable conclusion. They are discovered by means of photograph plates affixed to powerful telescopes. At last accounts there were already 372 of these baby planets, and they were still coming. Twenty-one undoubted new ones were discovered in 1893, and it was not a particularly good year for asteroids either. In size they are to the other planets as Rhode Island is to Texas.

It is quite within the bounds of probability that some of these little fellows may be inhabited. A toy terrier is just as much of a dog as a 850 pound St. Bernard dog, is he not? and he often makes considerably more noise. It is an interesting speculation as to the inhabitants of these toy planets. Many of them are probably not more than 15 or 20 miles in diameter, 60 miles around. It would be the easiest thing possible for an asteroidian to say to his friend: "Come, let us hitch up that last new pair of trotters and take a spin around the world today. Back in time for dinner." How charmingly sociable it would all be too! Everybody in the world could find out all about everybody's business.

The plan of Hon. Abram S. Hewitt for a rapid transit railway in New York city will commend itself to municipal authorities who want to know how to manage valuable public franchises. Mr. Hewitt proposes that New York shall borrow the entire sum necessary to construct the road, since it can do this cheaper than any private corporation can on account of the safety of the investment. Then after securing the money the city shall let the contract for construction out to the lowest responsible bidder. When the road is built, the private company constructing it shall have also the right to operate it for 30 years. They shall pay for rent to the city a sum based upon the cost of building the road. At the end of the 30 years the franchise returns to the city to be relet. The features Mr. Hewitt believes to be most commendable in this plan are that no grasping private company can ever juggle the city out of rent for one of its most valuable franchises; that the building and operating of the road by a private company will take the direct management out of city politics as a corrupting element; that the city will in a not long time get all its money back from the rentals, and that it retains the right to lease the road again for as long or short a term as seems desirable.

For several years the southern agricultural papers and experiment stations have been urging agriculturists to raise less cotton and more corn and pork. Any portion of the south is favorable for the production of grain, vegetables and almost every kind of fruit. By raising food products and not putting everything into cotton the planter would not be obliged to go into debt for what he ate, and the price of cotton would be higher besides. This advice begins to be taken. Less cotton will be grown in the south this year, and there will be large and varied crops of other things.

An agreement has been made among a number of prominent New York business men that in hiring boys and young men they will give the preference every time to those who do not smoke cigarettes.

It is not merely the facts you stuff into your brain from books or otherwise that will make you a cultivated person. It is the thinking over these facts afterward that you do by yourself.

Who Will be Named?

The apparent reluctance of any Republican from the Mississippi Valley section of the Sixth congressional district indicates that the choice of St. Louis county's convention will probably be endorsed by the district convention for the Republican nomination for congress. It is therefore of considerable interest to Republicans of this section to learn who will probably be the choice of the Republicans of the Lake Superior region. There are two candidates for the nomination—Hon. C. A. Towne of Duluth and Hon. A. D. Kinney of Ely. Both are well known men of ability and Republican leaders, and either would ably represent the district in congress. It might be judged from the newspapers of Duluth that Mr. Kinney had by far the strongest following in that city, but well posted citizens of that city claim that the newspapers do not represent the sentiment correctly in that respect. A prominent Republican of the state who has extensive interests in Duluth, Little Falls and other parts of the state was in this city a few days ago, and was very positive that Mr. Towne had the support of a large majority of the Republicans of Duluth. The papers, he said, were in the control of men opposed to Towne, but the most of the Republican voters and workers were firm in their support of him. It is natural that if any St. Louis county man is nominated he will be the one backed by that delegation, so the real fight will be in that county. With two good men to choose from that county will not make a mistake in taking either, but it is rightly a matter of general interest here to know who will probably be that man. Our informant is one who is in good position to know the condition at Duluth, and unless he is greatly mistaken C. A. Towne is the coming man.

Extemporaneous speaking should be practiced and cultivated. It is the lawyer's avenue to the public. However able and faithful he may be in other respects, people are slow to bring him business if he cannot make a speech. And yet there is not a more fatal error to young lawyers than relying too much on speech-making. BOARD OF HEALTH NOTICE.

The Board of Health of the City of Little Falls, hereby give notice that due regard for the public health demands a complete sanitary reform within the limits of the village.

Therefore it is ORDERED, that on or before May 15, 1894, every manure pile or other accumulation of filth within the limits of the City of Little Falls shall be removed from such limits, and that all such accumulations upon private property shall be removed by or at the expense of the owners thereof. The accumulations upon the streets and alleys of the city shall be moved by or at the expense of the persons who caused the same, where known, and where not known shall be removed by the Street Commissioner of the city at the public expense.

The Street Commissioner and the Police of the city are ordered to report to the health officers of the city every violation of any provision of this order which shall come to their knowledge after the time stated.

Every such violation will be punished according to law. Dated April 27, 1894. By the Board, O. C. TRACE, M. D., Health Officer.

Castoria. "Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children." Dr. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass. "Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves." Dr. J. F. KINCHELOE, Conway, Ark. "Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y. "Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
