

LOCAL AND PERSONAL.

Still snowing.
Good sleighing,
Editor G. H. Beaulieu is expected here next Monday.
Joe. Beaulieu and a Miss Roberts joined hands on Tuesday.
The Thanksgiving dance was well attended, and all report a good time.
W. F. Umphrey has received his appointment, as teacher, in the Philippine Islands.

"Uncle" H. H. Beaulieu suffered a serious attack of inflammatory rheumatism the fore part of the week but he is reported as being better.

Fred Belland of Poplar Grove and Miss Amelia Perrault, of Pembina, were married at St. Benedict's mission on Monday of this week.

And a wee little lady arrived and will make an indefinite visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sweet. Baby and mamma doing well and Ray smiles and hums "its nice to be a papa."

Every farmer who can afford to go to the Farmer's Institute, to be held at Detroit on Saturday, December 5th, 1903, should do so by all means. Some good and wholesome lessons of how to conduct farm work, practically and on paying basis, will be furnished, etc.

A basket party and social, for the benefit of St. Benedict's mission, was held at the residence of George Bellefeuille, Buffalo river, Wednesday night, of this week, and the net proceeds derived from the sale of baskets and raffle amounting to $109.30. And everyone who attended reports having had a most enjoyable time.

DENTISTRY—For first class dentistry, call on Dr. R. H. Phalon. Teeth extracted without pain. Crown and Bridge work a specialty. Office over First State Bank, Detroit, Minn.

We have noted in some of the issues of the Indian Leader, a school paper printed at Haskell Institute, Lawrence, Kans., which referred to the Carlisle football team. In an interview with a Chicago newspaper reporter Supt. H. B. Peairs is quoted as saying: "We hope now to see Northwestern beat Carlisle, as Carlisle has refused for three years to give us a game, saying that we were not in their class. If Northwestern beats them they may come down a peg or two."

The game Thanksgiving day at Chicago, tells the standing of the Haskell football team with Carlisle, and so far as that is concerned there was never a doubt to the superiority of the Carlisle eleven. When Haskell meets Carlisle, as we understand, Dec. 5, they will wish the schedule was never made. Ofcourse the TOMAHAWK favors neither school, but the writer is a former Carlisle pupil.

Early Transportation.

If the "dollar of the fathers" was in reality a sacred thing (and there were not a few publicists in the country a short time ago who seemed to think it was) surely no extraordinary sanctity can attach to their system of transportation, and the rates of carriage that they were obliged to give for common necessities of life. A magazine published in Philadelphia in 1818 gave the following in an item of news: In the course of the twelve months of 1817 12,000 wagons passed the Allegheny mountains from Philadelphia and Baltimore, each with four to six horses, carrying from thirty-five to forty hundred weight. The cost of carriage was about seven dollars per hundred weight, in some cases as high as ten dollars to Philadelphia. The aggregate sum paid for the conveyance of goods exceeded $1,500,000.—Alta Californian.

A MIGHTY TOWN INTO RUINS

Gus Beaulieu, in the TOMAHAWK, indulges in several doubts about the propriety of establishing a townsite at or near Bena, to be called after Commissioner Richards of the general land office. Might as well save your foot wear Gus, Bernie's in the ring, and he and his fellows talk as if the land commissioner is in it too. It doesn't seem possible that Commissioner Richards would consent to do any wrongful act because of the taffy held out to him of having a scurvy little town named after him, but 'tis hard to tell now-a-days who is honest and who will steal your purse if you allow it to lie around unguarded. You speak of certain Indians who have not yet received allotments:—what of it, do you still believe an Indian has any right when a member of the ring wants a tract of land for a town-site where he can, under sanction of law, furnish "poor Lo" with all the whiskey he wants.—Cass Lake Times.

At this time the town of Richards is no more in existence, and we believe the recent action of the Leech Lake agent is in accordance with the act of 1889 which provides the Chippewa Indians lands in severalty on that reservation before it is opened, for any purpose whatever. There are a large number of Indians who are entitled to take allotments on the reservation referred to, and if the townsite promoters continue to squatter—they will, like unto Cass Lake, etc., etc.

The first paragraph, on the first page, under the caption of "Chord for Chord" should have been credited to the Thirteen (Fosston, Minn.) Towns.

Ruined by Too Much Money.

The career of a young man ruined by too much money ended by suicide at Kansas City recently. Inheriting a large fortune from his father, who died twenty years ago, he found himself with nearly a million dollars by the rise in real-estate values. He evidently thought this was more money than could possibly be spent, but he did his best to spend it, and was able to get rid of a great quantity. Money to him was a disaster and a curse. A far more valuable inheritance would have been a level head and a willingness to go to work and be a man. As it was, gambling, liquor and kindred vices took possession of his life to the exclusion of all manhood, virtue and usefulness. Nothing in his career in the past few years became him so much as the ending of it. The moral of it all is that a young man may have worse luck than to be poor and far better luck than to be rich.—Chicago Mail.

What Bothered Him.

Sam Johnsing happened to pay a visit to the county jail a few days ago, and who should he see inside the bars but Gabe Snodgrass.
"How in de worle, Gabe, did yer get in dar?" asked Sam Johnsing.
"I don't bodder my head about dat ar, how I got in heah. How ter get out ob here is what I wants ter find out."—Texas Siftings.
