by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

One Indian Match for Twenty Huns.

One North Dakota Indian is a match for 20 Germans, according to a letter received from Sgt. E. H. Tostevin, now in service in France. The Indian is Charlie Rogers, a full-blooded Sioux of the Standing Rock reservation, and a member of the 18th U. S. Infantry.

"You ought to see that Indian the first time the Boche made a raid on our trenches," writes Sergeant Tostevin. "He leaped over the parapet swinging his old rifle over his head. He let out a yell that he had saved for years, and it was a genuine war-whoop by one of the people who make war-whooping famous.

"The Huns were pretty close before we mixed. Rogers, of course, had his gun loaded with five rounds, and his bayonet fixed. After swinging his gun around his head a couple of times, he brought it down to his shoulders and emptied his shells at the enemy, swung it again, yelled and jabbed, and used the butt of his gun to smash the skull of another. I had my hands full all this time, but the crazed Indian's actions were so fast that we half watched him, Germans and we fellows alike. It was only a small fracas anyway. The 20 or more Germans who were left to beat it, beat it for their lives. Rogers never got a scratch. It was in fact very much a one-man sloop, almost an exhibition. I never saw a man move so fast in my life, and I guess the Germans hadn't either."

Rogers is now being utilized as a sniper, and is now enjoying himself picking off enemy snipers. Sergeant Tostevin adds, and says that other Indians in the regiments are being used for scouting and patrol duty because of the natural instinct which fits them for this kind of work.—Ex.

Registered Men Cannot Enlist.

Numerous inquiries have been received at the various recruiting offices throughout the State in regard to the advantages a man enlisting now has over the man who waits to be drafted. An erroneous impression seems to be prevalent that registered men can enlist at any time, and avoid being called by their local boards. Such is not the case, however. Registered men, regardless of what class their local board puts them in, and regardless of the fact that their local board is willing to give them a release, cannot enlist in the Army. Enlistments in the Army must come from men outside of the draft age, namely from 18 to 21 and from 31 to 40 years of age.

The only advantage the man enlisting has over the man who gets into the army by means of the draft act is that he has a choice of the branch of the service he likes best. A man enlisting in the Regular Army is trained more rapidly, as the U. S. Regulars are able to absorb from 35 to 50 per cent of their enlisted strength in new recruits. The men train side by side with veteran soldiers, and consequence make much more rapid progress than they would if surrounded by raw recruits, with little or no previous military training.

The big advantages in the Army, as in civil life go to the man who is there first, to the man who is the best trained and most efficient. The sooner a man gets into service the better are his chances of winning the stripes of a non-commissioned officer. Increased rank means increased pay, and the pay for enlisted men in various branches of the service range from $30 to $131. Food, clothing, medical attention, in fact everything a man needs, go with it. Reserve officers training camps are only open to men in the service. Taking a raw recruit today and sending him to an officers camp tomorrow is out of the question, the man must receive preliminary training first, and the earlier a man gets into the service and gets acquainted with Army life the better are his chances for advantage.
