

THIS YOUNG MOTHER

Tells Childless Women What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Millston, Wis.—"I want to give you a word of praise for your wonderful medicine. We are very fond of children and for a considerable time after we married I feared I would not have any owing to my weak condition. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now I have a nice strong healthy baby girl. I can honestly say that I did not suffer much more when my baby was born than I used to suffer with my periods before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound years ago. I give all the credit to your medicine and shall always recommend it very highly."—Mrs. H. H. JANSSEN, Millston, Wisconsin.

How can women who are weak and sickly expect or hope to become mothers of healthy children? Their first duty is to themselves. They should overcome the derangement or debility that is dragging them down, and strengthen the entire system, as did Mrs. Janssen, by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and then they will be in a position to give their children the blessing of a good constitution.

RAILROADS OWE $1,444,000,000 TO GOVERNMENT NOW SAYS M'ADOO

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Former Director General of Lines Holds Government Should Pay Own Debt By Cancelling Part of This Instead of Making New Loan—Canadian Farmers in Fine Spirit After Capturing the Province of Alberta—Judge Finds New Child Labor Law Unconstitutional—Officer Tells How Hoover Restored Autocracy Government in Hungary.

Washington, D. C.—In a letter to Senator Stanley of Kentucky, William G. McAdoo, formerly U. S. treasurer and director of the railroads, declares that the roads owe the government $1,444,000,000 and that the proposed grant of $500,000,000, alleged to be for sums owing the railroads exposes the government to considerable loss.

Mr. McAdoo points out that the government proposes to take railroad securities to secure the loan and that these in many cases will realize much less than par.

According to the former treasurer the debt of the government to roads should have been met by cancelling an equivalent amount of what the roads owe the government.

"I suppose you realize," says Mr. McAdoo, "that in addition to the $1,444,000,000 which the railroads owe the government for additions and betterments, they have received additional loans under the Esch-Cummins act of about $300,000,000, making a total of $1,444,000,000.

Security Poor.
"Stripped of confusing non-essentials, what is now proposed is that the government shall wait ten years for $763,000,000 the railroads owe it for betterments and improvements and pay immediately $500,000,000 to the railroads on account of claims for alleged under-maintenance, etc., taking from the 180 or more railroads involved, with their varying degrees of financial responsibility, such securities as they may be able to provide—securities which in many instances may not be adequate to protect the government against loss.

"This is not a question of legal and moral obligation" on the part of the United States to lend the railroads $500,000,000 more for ten years. It is a question of policy, and should be considered from that standpoint only. For the adoption of such a policy the Administration must, of course, take the responsibility, but it should be candid about it.
"The public mind should not be confused by juggling of figures, manipulation of accounts, or securities, or government agencies. To get the facts is the object of your inquiry, as it is equally the object of my reply.
Since the time when Mr. McAdoo took the contract of building the great tunnels under the Hudson river away from the Wall Street crowd, he has been prominent as an opponent of many of its schemes. As his former position of director general gives him a great advantage in exposing the railroad maneuvers.

Mr. McAdoo was stronger than Wilson in resisting the attempt to return the roads to private management. He has since been advocating public operation as the only solution.

CANADIAN FARMERS GO AHEAD.
Remarkable success of the Nonpartisan league movement in Alberta, Canada, in capturing the government of that province, leads to predictions that the farmers and organized workers will capture the government of Canada at the next general elections.

The new premier of Alberta, Herbert Greenfield, came to Canada from England and worked as a hired farm hand in Ontario for some time. Then he homesteaded in Alberta.

Nearly 2 years ago the farmers and workers of Ontario captured the government of Ontario in a similar spectacular way without much preparation and the people throughout Canada have been winning nearly every by-election to the Canadian parliament since that time.

The political arguments heard so often here of bolshevism, socialism, disloyalty do not seem to have much effect in leading the farmers away from their efforts to get a square deal. Also a last minute rush of politicians to do things for the farmer, have not thrown any dust in the people's eyes.
Their independence has already produced greater results that could possibly have been achieved by standing for old party machines. The central government took over the railroads after the war and reduced war rates 10 per cent instead of returning to private management and increasing rates 25 to 40 per cent as we did here. The soldiers have been treated a great deal better too. More than 25,000 of them, for instance, are now located on good farms provided by the government.

Progressively minded people will find great encouragement in watching Canada.

CHILD LABOR LAW THROWN OUT.
Cotton spinners of North Carolina who find more profit in employing little children to run the spindles, have found a federal judge to declare the federal child labor law unconstitutional.

The learned judge declares that the regulation of labor is reserved to the individual states although if our memory serves us right the federal government regulated labor by abolishing slavery as far back as 1863. So if he is right, the emancipation proclamation is unconstitutional and former slave owners can recover damages from the federal government as well as go back to slavery.

The same judge threw out the first child labor act pushed through congress after many years of hard work by progressives, on other grounds and congress tried to fix it up to meet the judicial objections. He finds that their attempt interferes with state rights and with property rights which take precedence over human rights.

Hardly less absurd than the judicial arguments are those which were offered by the cotton spinners when the bills were before congress. On one occasion they produced a medical man who could "prove" that 12 hours a day of work at a spindle was a good thing for the physical well being of 10 to 12 year old child.

HOOVER'S HUNGARIAN COUP.

In a recent article published by the World's Work of New York City one of our army officers describes how the American Relief organization was used to overthrow the working class government of Hungary and to place reaction back into power. Such things are generally kept under cover but the army officer had probably let great pride at what he and Hoover had done overcome his better judgment. And the World's Work did not realize the blunder until the magazine was in print.

Hoover and his subordinates refused to sell a pound of food to the workers' representatives. They were also the go-betweens who worked on the representatives of the Hungarian government with bribes and great promises of personal promotion. They got several weak army officers in this way and a number of the officials of labor unions who were ready to swallow promises.

Then they suddenly consented to allow the honest representatives of the workers' government to buy food and these representatives banded over $1,000,000 expecting that the representatives of America would act in good faith. Instead Hoover's organization refused to deliver the food Hungary had bought until the working class government was driven out. Spies were sent in to spread the report among the starving populace of food in few hours if this overturn were accomplished.

After the overturn the foolish workers who had helped were double crossed and an absolutely autocratic, blood letting regime instituted.
One might say that the American people were double crossed too because all this was done without the consent of Congress after the war was over and in defiance of the principles of the American Relief commission.

One does not have to be a sympathizer with the working class government in Hungary, to feel that underhand work of this kind should not be done by our representatives.

The World's Work refuses to allow reprints of all or any part of the blabbering officer's article.

THE REPORT ON HAITI.

In the senate report on conditions in Haiti under our flag the Navy department admits practically all of the serious charges brought against it and denied previously as exaggerated and unfounded.

It admits that American War ships hovered around Haiti for a year and a half when our diplomats were trying to persuade Haiti to surrender its sovereignty peacefully. It admits that marines were landed in Haiti 27 days before the alleged riot which we offered as the excuse for armed intervention on a through scale. It admits in large part all that has been said about forced road labor and the abuses of the forced labor camps.

BUSINESS INVESTIGATION ASKED.

Senator Walsh introduced a resolution before the recess was taken authorizing the education and labor committee of the senate to investigate the cause of unemployment. He would have the committee investigate as to whether the break down in industry resulted from natural or artificial causes.

If the resolution is approved when the senate meets again, a great deal of good can be done by such an investigation. A more thorough public realization of the way the money trust backed by the federal reserve board has played its terrible game, is the necessary first step in fundamental improvement of conditions.

GOVERNOR MORGAN BLAMED.

Reports of General Harry Brandholz to the War Department on the West Virginia troubles, place the major part of the blame for the disturbances on Governor Morgan of that state.

Secretary Weeks of the War Department announced after receiving the report that the federal troops would stay long enough to clean up the situation. The administration has been more impatient that it has showed publicly with the back wash from the exaggerated newspaper accounts, of protected gunmen, of bombs thrown on women doing their washing, and of chlorine gas and machine guns.

SHOOT SHEEP-KILLING DOGS

No Consideration Should Be Given Such Animals and Should Be Destroyed at Once.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The sheep-killing dog constitutes one of the greatest menaces to the sheep industry. Such dogs not only kill sheep, but keep out of the sheep business men who are otherwise inclined to go into it, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Sheep-killing dogs work both singly and in groups, but usually in twos or threes. They do not limit their attacks to the flocks of the immediate vicinity in which they are kept, but travel for miles in all directions, spreading destruction in the flocks with which they come in contact. Because their work is so often done under the cover of darkness it is almost impossible to catch them in the act of worrying sheep.

After a dog has once formed the habit of killing sheep it seemingly becomes a mania with him and he is seldom if ever broken of it. He not only destroys sheep himself but leads other dogs to the work. No consideration should be given such dogs; and if additional losses from this source are to be avoided, they should be killed as soon as their habits are known.

FEEDING CATTLE FOR PROFIT

Market Requirements for Beef Are Much Higher Than in Former Years—Skill Needed.

The feeding of beef cattle for the market has become a special line of work, which requires a high grade of skill through understanding of the feeding values of different materials used in the production of beef, as well as an appreciation of the requirements of animal nutrition and shrewd business ability. Without these prerequisites the feeder is doomed to receive very small returns for his labor. The market requirements for beef at present are much higher than in former years. It is necessary, therefore, in order to obtain prices which will pay the feeder for his time and outlay, to produce a herd of cattle as nearly uniform as possible in appearance and quality, with a high market finish and symmetrical development, particularly in those parts which yield high-priced cuts in which the profits lie for the butcher.

ARRANGE WALLOWS FOR HOGS

Water Must Be Supplied Not Only for Drinking but for Animals to Cool Bodies.

Hogs in pasture where there is no water are likely to suffer, not only for drinking water, but for water in which to cool their bodies. Slops are not sufficient. The hogs should have water in their troughs and in the wallow to cool themselves when the burning rays of the sun makes their lives a torture. Hogs have a way of ridding themselves of troublesome parasites when they have a muddy wallow. Nature, it seems, helps them to survive as the fittest when there is a struggle for existence with parasites.

Hogs that must be penned should have shade and plenty of water. It is bad enough to be kept in pen without a struggle with heat and thirst. Give them shade and water.

PLAN TO PREVENT INFECTION

Newly Purchased Animals Should Be Quarantined in Separate Pens for Two Weeks.

Do not place newly purchased stock, stock procured or borrowed for breeding purposes, or stock exhibited at fairs immediately with your herd. Keep such stock quarantined in separate pens for at least two weeks, and use care in feeding and attending stock to prevent carrying infection from these to other pens.

BOAR HAS GREAT INFLUENCE

Breeding Animal Should Be Placed in Good-sized Yard and Away From Rest of Herd.

How about the herd boar? Get him out in a good-sized yard, away from the rest of the herd. Remember he is half of the breeding power of the herd, and that his influence on the profits for the year amounts to more than that of any one sow.

HEARD AND HEADED APPEAL

Sexton Rather Spoiled Effect of Preacher's Discourse by His Prompt and Literal Obedience.

A country negro preacher was speaking at length to his congregation of the many things round us that are shrouded in mystery, and of which we know little. As he warmed to his theme, he became most eloquent, and frequently repeated the oft-quoted saying: "More light! Oh, for more light!"

His surprise may be imagined when, after one of these utterances, the old sexton, who had been dozing since the beginning of the sermon, woke with a start, then got up, tiptoed softly into the vestry, seized two additional candles and, ascending the pulpit stairs, placed them beside the two already there, and in a loud whisper, heard all over the church, exclaimed:

"Yo' shore got to do with these; there ain't no mo'."

ONE THING SHE HADN'T LOST

Pupil's Statement of Fact Probably Gave Music Teacher Occasion for Deep Thought.

A well-known music teacher in Atlanta was giving a lesson to a talented but careless pupil and was rapidly losing all patience with her. Finally, at a most complicated part of a difficult piece, the pupil lifted her hands from the piano and made a wild dash for her handkerchief to stop a threatened sneeze. It was the last straw.

"Was there ever such a girl!" exclaimed the teacher, thrusting her own handkerchief at the offender. "You lose your position, you lose your fingering, you lose your handkerchief—you lose everything!"

"Not quite everything," said the pupil with a smile. "I haven't lost my temper."
