Advice for Letter Writers.
When sending a stamp in a letter instead of moistening one corner and sticking it to the paper, moisten a small spot in the center of the stamp and then affix it to your letter. The removal of a small part of the adhesive substance from the center in no way impairs the usefulness of the stamp; whereas it is often torn if the corner is fastened.

First Artesian Well.
The first artesian well to be bored in Europe of which data is available is the tube well at Grenelle, in France, which was sunk by the French government between 1834 and 1842, in the hope of obtaining a sufficient supply of water for Paris. The depth is 1,798 feet, at which level a prolific supply of water was reached.

Combined Effort.
The great artist who paints a picture which compels the admiration of the world does not do so with one sweep of the brush in one moment of inspiration. The great masterpiece is the product of thousands of strokes of the brush, of infinitesimal bits of pigment put on the canvas layer after layer, each done with consummate art. Every tiny bit of paint, every swift stroke does its tiny part toward what becomes at last a marvel of ages. So must we work, stroke by stroke, a bit here and a bit there, until our masterpiece has been completed.

man's fashion and donned white man's clothes.

The other Grass Dancers, however, were not willing to follow their former leader. They demanded the return of the drum, and so insistent were their demands that the matter was finally taken up with the government authorities. They sought to have revenge on Truth Teller at various times, when the government, at the suggestion of Bishop Hare, built for him a home, they promptly burned it to the ground. Truth Teller never weakened and rather seemed to delight in his persecution.

Bishop Hare told the story to a group of Eastern friends, and eventually it came to the attention of Mrs. John Jacob Astor, who was a great admirer of the bishop and his work among the Indians. To make some restitution to Truth Teller and to prove to him that his action in deserting his former beliefs was appreciated, Mrs. Astor had a clock made, the case of which was an exact representation, in miniature of the convert's former drum. This was given to Truth Teller who, Indian fashion, valued the novelty as the most precious of all his belongings.

Shortly before he died Truth Teller presented the clock to Col. Brown, in whose possession it has been for several years. The clock will be added to the already large collection of Indian curios and relics in the cases of the historical department in the state house.

The Good Roads are Here.

Some of us who are particularly enthusiastic about roads and have done so much talking about our highways at election time almost forgot that it is not chiefly campaign talk. The prophecies of the past are actually being fulfilled. Minnesota's good roads have achieved national fame.

During this whole summer we have heard nothing but praise for our Minnesota roads. The residents of the Dakotas frankly express their envy, the Wisconsin men are equally appreciative, and the tourists who have driven across the continent state they can tell the minute they cross the Minnesota line. One of these tourists who had driven from the state of Pennsylvania to Yellowstone park crossed Minnesota on the Black and Yellow trail. This highway, which passes through Winona and Mankato, is not paved but is one of our gravel-surfaced roads. The Pennsylvania motorist declared he believed Minnesota had a better system of highways than any state through which he had driven.

Our much heralded good roads are actually here and it is to be hoped the people in Minnesota will appreciate them. Much work is yet to be done, but in the meantime let us place the credit where it is due. The progress that has been made in Minnesota in road building in the last decade is simply marvelous. Every man and woman in Minnesota should be back of our state highway department giving it their full support.

Testing Pleurisy With Colna.
A novel method of diagnosing pleurisy is described by P. Lereboullet in the Paris Medical. The examiner applies his ear to the patient's chest, closing his other ear, while colna are clinked at the patient's back. The sound of the colna coming through a healthy, normally aerated lung seems distant and dull, while through an affected lung, through solid or homogeneous tissue a clear, silvery, metallic ring is heard.

Truly King of Birds.
"Our national bird, the bald eagle, wild in its native haunts, is so large, so majestic, and flies with an evidence of so enormous strength, that one is impressed with the thought that here is the king of birds," writes T. Gilbert Pearson of the Audubon society. "On one occasion while eating my lunch in the shade of a little bush on a Southern prairie, I saw one carry off a lamb."
