New Ulm Weekly Review.

ONE YEAR FOR $2.10

We have made arrangements with the St. Paul Weekly Dispatch, the only Republican journal at the capital, and a live, vigorous and independent newspaper, whereby we are enabled to furnish both it and the Review, at the low rate of $2.10 a year postage prepaid. Cash invariably required in advance. Specimens of the Dispatch may be seen at this office. The Daily Dispatch and the Review will be furnished for $7.50.

Under the present arrivals of mails, the Daily which is published at 3 o'clock p. m., arrives here the same night and is distributed early the next morning.

ALONE IN THE COLD.

WRITTEN FOR THE REVIEW.

It was one winter morning,
The air was raw and cold;
And like a knell of morning
Blew the wind so fierce and bold.

A woman came with her child;
Her garments were thin and tore,
But on her face was a look so mild,
That told of the patience and faith she bore.

Slowly she wandered along the street
With the little child in her arms;
But not a pitying glance did she meet,
Nor covert to shield her from gathering storm.

Thicker and faster came on the storm,
And 'round her the gathering darkness fell,
And hid from sight her shivering form -
Which but of want and woe could tell.

Closer she pressed her babe to her breast
While past her the people of luxury hurried;
She faintly whispered of heaven and rest,
And then in the white snow she was buried.

Next day, in the snow a woman was found,
With a babe in her icy cold bosom pressed;
Together they placed them under a mound
Where naught can disturb their peaceful rest.

ROSA B. HEINZE.

The Legislature of Maryland has elected Jos. B. Groom, U. S. Senator, to succeed Geo. R. Dennis, whose term expires March 4, 1879. It is needless to say that Mr. Groom is a Democrat.

Shall we exhibit? That's the question which is agitating the minds of the members of the St. Paul Chamber of Commerce, a legislative committee, and the people of Minnesota generally. We say yes. Let us not repeat the mistake we made at the Centennial Exhibition. Every Minnesotan that visited the Centennial will remember with shame our shabby exhibit there, and as the Paris exhibition offers us an opportunity to retrieve the mistake, let us embrace it by making a proper exhibit, and thereby show the world the advantages our State holds out to all those wishing to seek homes in the far west.

Legislative Doings.

The following bills were introduced in the Senate last Friday: By Mr. Wait of Blue Earth Co.—For the revision of the State constitution, and the submission of the question to the people. By Mr. Ahrens of Renville county—To relieve grasshopper sufferers by remitting penalties for non-payment of taxes. By Mr. Hall of Yellow Medicine county—To indemnify Renville county to the amount of $1,121 for the support of two persons from Dakota Territory, who were frozen.

House—The bill to incorporate the village of Sleepy Eye, introduced by Hon. C. C. Brandt last Wednesday, has been reported back by the committee on towns and counties, with a recommendation that the bill pass. Mr. Brandt also introduced last Friday, "a bill to define how legal publications shall be made."

THE LATEST WAR NEWS.

Dreadful sufferings of the Turkish Refugees.

LONDON, Jan. 21.—The Daily Telegraph prints the following under date of Constantinople yesterday: Mr. Master, agent of the English relief fund, has just arrived here with a train full of refugees from Adrianople. These unhappy people have been in open cattle trucks three days. Many perished from the cold weather. Last night fifteen were found dead in the trucks. The sufferings of all are described as awful. Mothers are reported to have thrown away living babies rather than see them die in their arms. As the train moved from Adrianople numbers of people tried to cling to the outside and frame work of the carriages and many attempted to ride on the buffers. At one station where hundreds of people had congregated without food for two days the men threatened Mr. Master with violence if bread was not given to them. Yesterday there were fifteen thousand women and children out in the snow at Charlou. Three trains full are hourly expected to arrive at Constantinople. It is not known where they will find shelter. The snow is seven inches deep and is still falling. The cold is intense. All that can possibly be done is being effected by the administrators of the relief fund, but many lives are being sacrificed.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—A Russian special telegram dated Kezauik, Friday, states that the Turkish peace delegates arrive at Hermandia Thursday, and were received with military honors. By order of Grand Duke Nicholas, they started with an escort for Hermandia, where they were expected Saturday.

It is reported that Russia has demanded that Adrianople be included in Bulgaria, also the cession of Batoum and the opening of the Dardanelles to Russian and Turkish men-of-war only.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Jan. 20.—Mukhtar Pasha has been appointed to command the army to be formed along the line of defense before Constantinople. The exodus of refugees from Roumelia is assuming colossal proportions. Before leaving Adrianople the Turks burned their provisions and blew up their ammunition.

No one should be without the Review, when they can get it, and the St. Paul Dispatch or Weekly Globe, for $2.10. Or the Review and Pioneer Press and map for $2.60.

Sleepy Eye Correspondence.

Sleepy Eye, Minn., Jan. 17, 1878.

Editor Review: At the residence of Mr. Ackly, living a few miles from town, Dec. 30th 1877, there occurred an event which had it not taken place in the presence of the whole family, would certainly be incredible.

It appears that Mr. Ackly's mother who has been dead for several years was uneasy about something, and wished to make it known to him. While he was sitting by the fireside reading the Bible on the evening of the day above mentioned, he was startled by several raps upon the door. Supposing it to be the cats he took a stick to scare them away. He had no more than resumed his reading again, when the rapping was repeated, and supposing it to be the cats as before, he picked up a stick of wood, and threw it at the door; but there were no cats there, as he soon perceived by a continued knocking and rattling at the door. He now began to consider the matter more seriously, his wife suggested that it was his mother, and that she wanted to talk with him.

Thereupon he proceeded to investigate the matter. He asked if it was his mother, and if it was to make it known by rapping three times; and three distinct raps were heard. The door was thrown open several times. Mr. Ackly now began to ask questions on religion, business and other matters. He conversed with her from about seven o'clock in the evening until one in the morning, making about six hours. His father and mother lived in New York State when they died, and left a little property. He asked his mother if any of the property belonged to him, to which she said yes.

She has made him two visits since the one alluded to. The last visit she made, she would not answer any questions except those concerning the property. She told him to write to the man who has charge of the property, and state the facts, and she would see that he got his just due; also that she would not trouble him any more. That there is something mysterious in the matter there can be no doubt, as the whole family state it with the greatest sincerity.

SLEEPY EYE, MINN., JAN. 16."

Editor Review: As you solicit correspondence, we wish to gratify your desire in this direction, and hereby transmit the following for the benefit of the public.

Not long ago our friend—every one will easily recognize the picture—was appointed a delegate by the Sleepy Eye Grange to the State Grange. He cheerfully accepted the appointment and regarded it a distinguished honor. When he received his credentials, his youthfulness took on new inspiration. Not one imagined he had other business in view outside of the office to which he was appointed. Strange as it may be, he did have other official duties to perform, and I cannot but believe that his Grange, at its next meeting, will approve and commend what he did by an official endorsement of his acts.

He went and got married. It was a profound surprise. Being a quiet man, no one supposed he even indulged an idea that leaned toward matrimony. His conversations, his daily walks, had in them nothing from which to extract even a gem matrimonial. He kept his counsel well.

Soon after his return a surprise began to be talked of. It was variously discussed and the ball was set in motion. On Tuesday evening, Jan. 14, about 60 persons assembled at a place fixed on, and started for the house of our friend. It was as jovial and mercurial a procession as we ever witnessed in a frontier country. Indeed it was a jolly, happy rollicking, social group, full of the poetry of motion, and intent on business. They took his citadel by storm. Our friend thought that the treacherous sea had overleaped its bounds and determined to swallow him up, or that a band of Sioux Indians had come down upon him with hostile intent. Like a ship overtaken by a sudden squall and thrown on its sides, momentarily yielding to the blast and then righting itself again, with its prow pointing to the building wrathy sea, ready for whatever may betide it, expresses the dire situation of our friend when the all conquering host came down upon him.

A song of greeting was sung, in right down good earnest, full of congratulation to him who had launched his bark on the matrimonial sea, and wishing him a flower-strewn voyage, full of light and cheer, and of all that makes life enjoyable and sweet.

When the song was finished, an address was made to our worthy friend, depicting the woes of a single state, and commending his prudence and wisdom, in doing as he did, and winding up by urging all single men to join the Grange and go and do likewise.—Our friend was so overjoyed at this reception, that it was impossible for him to articulate a word in reply. He was too full for utterance. His confusion was more sublime than the most splendid self-possession could have been, it was a picture in itself, rounded and complete, with every variety of shade and color.

The house being too small to entertain his numerous guests, we adjourned to a more capacious one, and surrendered ourselves to the hilarities and pleasures of the passing hours. A table was set, and oysters, cakes, nuts, candies, were discussed with a vim and relish that would have done justice to an epicure.—And above all, the benefits of the Grange as a preparatory school for entering into the paradise of matrimony, received its share of attention. If our Grange does not hereafter grow and bear the blossoms of matrimonial splendor, it will be a matter of surprise to all.

The table being cleared, a variety of amusements were introduced to fill up the evening, of which charades took the lead. Indeed, it was charade on the brain. Old and young were in it and at it. We followed no time-honored customs, for we were too much absorbed in the exhilarations of the merrymaking to bump our heads against proprieties and conventional rules. Far into the wee small hours the festive greeting prolonged itself without rules a let-up or relaxation. Nobody was tired, but all enjoyed it and felt it was good to be here.

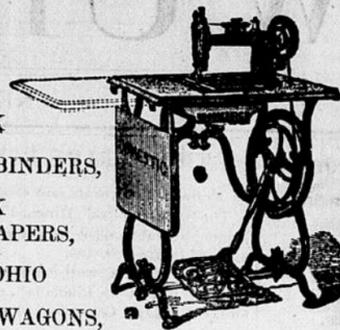

The marriage sermon at the Congregational Church, on Sunday evening, has inspired our young people with an uncontrollable desire for matrimony. It is astonishing how the contagion has infected our community. And coming right on the heels of our friends alliance, the sermon smacks of romance, and visions, and flowers, and sweetness. Surprises and wedding orations, we hope may never grow less. Who next?

We wish to inquire of our Grange friend if he wishes to subscribe for a new Pioneer Press map? We think he has studied the old one so well that he would want a new one.
