See Bobleter's advertisement of holiday goods in another column.

Our merchants are receiving and opening out large invoices of holiday goods.

Remember the Governor's Guard Thanksgiving ball at Arbeiter Hall tomorrow evening.

Prof. Zeug's full orchestra has been engaged by the Governor's Guard for tomorrow evening.

The wife of Col. Samuel D. Shaw, of Butternut Valley, died a few days ago at the age of 80 years.

The Redwood Gazette says that a paper is about to be started at Lamberton, and that the first number will appear this week.

You are only required to pay ten dollars royalty for the privilege of driving a hole in the ground. "Frens, look just a leedle out."

Snow fell to the depth of about two inches last Sunday, but Monday was again nice and clear and the snow nearly all disappeared before night.

Get your life insured! Young America is not responsible for his acts and may pop you over most any time, just for the fun of it, you know.

Freeman, the Republican candidate for county attorney in Blue Earth Co., was elected by 2 majority. Rather small, but enough to do business on.

We believe that New Ulm and Brown county is free from the drive well nuisance, at least we have yet to hear of the first drive well in use in this county.

We are in receipt of communications from Golden Gate and Linden but they are necessarily crowded out this week. They will appear, however, in next week's issue.

A. M. Morrison, of Eagle Lake Independent fame, has commenced the publication of a new paper at Canby, Yellow Medecine county, called the Canby News.

The Southern Minnesota railroad will be completed to Jackson this week, and G. C. Chamberlain, of the Republic, is in consequence one of the happiest mortals on earth.

The Waseca Radical says that the Turner Association of that place have abandoned their organization and sold their hall to Messrs. Fisher, Buchler, Gutfleisch and Grapp.

Tomorrow is the day appointed by the President and Gov. Pillsbury as a day of Thanksgiving, and in order to observe the day becomingly every family should provide itself with a good fat turkey.

The engine of the business car on the Winona & St. Peter railroad was ditched at Mankato Junction last Tuesday, caused by an open switch. No one was hurt although the engine turned completely over.

The incoming passenger train last Tuesday morning killed two horses near Nicollet Station. The horses endeavored to cross a small trestle work in front of the train but fell through with the above fatal results.

R. E. Wainwright, for eighteen years express agent at St. Peter, died at that place on the 15th inst. He was a native of Vermont, was 40 years of age, and located in St. Peter, about 20 years ago with his father, who now survives him.

A. H. Benham, the St. Peter weather prophet, is on record for an open winter similar to that of last season. The Hastings Gazette asks: "Can't he be induced to emigrate farther south, and give us a little sleighing just for a change?"

Our neighbor the Herald has suspended publication and the outfit is offered for sale. On account of Mr. Tyler's ill health he was unable to give it the attention he would otherwise have done, and rather than continue it longer in irresponsible hands he wound up its affairs.

Martino is not coming. The agent was here last Sunday for the purpose of making the necessary arrangements for this troupe, but finding that the city ordinance prohibiting all gift distributions would come in conflict with his plan of distributing presents to the audience, he concluded not to come.

O. A. Shunell is out with a card in the St. Peter Tribune thanking those noble 24 who dared to honor him with their votes for representative, and assuring those who did not think him fit for the office that he has no bad feeling towards them, and that he shall be pleased to mend all their old boots and shoes as of yore.

OYSTERS—Louis Felkel, the proprietor of the Centre street Sample Room, will accept our thanks for a cap of select oysters. Louis is in daily receipt of fresh oysters and is prepared to serve them either raw, stewed or fried, on short notice. If you want a good stew, go to Felkel's. He also keeps the very best of wines, liquors and cigars.

Joe Hamprel who was found dead in the Cottonwood River, recently, though having drunk considerable beer was not considered drunk when he met his death, and his actions show that he could not have been very drunk when his team was in the water, as he loosened the tongue to extricate his horses, and traces of other attempts to get out of the water do not indicate very great drunkenness. He leaves a family without a home, and in destitute circumstances. — Windom Reporter.

A fatal shooting, similar to the Beinhorn-Baar case of this city, occurred at East Round Prairie, Todd county, a few days ago. A son of Jacob Swerts, twelve years old, fatally shot his nine year old brother under the following circumstances: The older boy started hunting and his little brother wanted to go along, the parents being from home, but was told to go back to the house which he did and appeared again at the door. The older boy pointing the gun at him he went back but came to the door again. The same performance happened several times when at last his brother shot him.

The Chambers Bros.' Opera House Troupe, of Mankato, gave two performances in Turner Hall last Saturday and Sunday evenings. The comedy "Rough Diamond," or cousin Jo's visit to London, was the principal attraction Saturday night. The acting was very good and Mrs. Wallace Britton, as "Margery," and W. B. Chambers, as "Cousin Jo," kept the audience in a continual roar, but on account of the indisposition of one of the principal actors the piece had to be necessarily cut short. The balance of the entertainment consisted of gymnastic and trapeze performances, harp and violin solos, comic songs, etc., and was very creditable, although many went there with the expectation of seeing more of a dramatic entertainment. Not being present Sunday evening we can say nothing of their doings, but understand that they had quite a fair house despite the inclement weather.

By the court proceedings published elsewhere it will be seen that young Beinhorn who shot and mortally wounded the boy Baar last August, has been acquitted. The grand jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter in the fourth degree but it appears that the evidence produced on the trial did not sustain the charge, and the jury, after a short absence, brought in a verdict of not guilty. We hear considerable dissatisfaction expressed at the findings of the jury, as many think that the boy should have received some punishment, but as the law of this State, which does not hold any one under fourteen years responsible for his acts, unless above ordinary intelligence, and as testimony was produced that the boy was not even ordinarily intelligent, we can not conceive how the case could have been disposed of otherwise than it was. One thing is certain; the acquittal of young Beinhorn will not have a very wholesome effect on "Young America" of this city, and they can now strut about with impunity.

PERSONAL.

—Dr. Wellcome of Sleepy Fye made us a pleasant call yesterday.

—Hon. K. H. Helling, Senator elect, made us a pleasant call last Thursday.

Bean(s) in Nicollet County.

The two candidates for representative in upper Legislative district of Nicollet county discuss the result of the election as follows:

KLOSSNER—"On account of the fine warm weather on election day the Beans ran up the polls much more than was expected, and they proofed a good crop."

BEAN—"Well, didn't our neighbors go for Beans with a relish, though, on the day of election, and the voters of the town of Ridgely seemed to feast on the fruit that day." It is useless to say that Bean was the successful candidate.

Editor Review:

We were blessed by the quarter meeting being held at this place last Saturday and Sunday. The presiding Elder was not able to be with us, but sent an excellent Brother in his place.—Bro. J. H. Macomb, of Mankato.—He gave us four as good sermons as it has been our pleasure to listen to for a long time. Sunday evening he preached from the words "What shall it profit a man, if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul," and he gave us a very logical discourse. (Old Arsenic)

The sad calamity by which Otto and Chas. Montgomery lost their lives in St. Paul last week has some local significance, as a son and brother of the victims is living in our midst, and the parties themselves having lived here a few years ago. Tuesday morning at 7:30 o'clock Otto Montgomery, the father, who with his son Charles, aged about 20 years, had rooms in the rear part of the second story of the building known as the old St. Paul House, and no doubt lived under very reduced circumstances, attempted to commit suicide by shooting himself in the forehead. Young Montgomery was just returning from the back yard with kindling wood to make a fire, when he was startled by a pistol shot and rushing into his father's room found him profusely bleeding. Dr. Stamm was summoned and after examining the wound declared it not necessary fatal. All day Tuesday Montgomery lay in his room, seemingly in a stupor, scarce heeding what was going on about him. Towards evening he seemed to brighten up a little, and about 8:30 o'clock called to his son who was in an adjoining room. Upon hearing his father call he took a kerosine lamp which he had previously filled and hastened to his father's bedside, near which he became faint and fell to the floor, the lamp at the same time exploded and the bedding upon which Mr. Montgomery lay and the son's clothes were at once enveloped in flames. The young man upon coming to his senses found himself all on fire, and rushed down the back stairs, the lurid fire rising four or five feet above his head. Some of the people who had been attracted by the alarm of fire caught the young man and one of the firemen wrapped a coat around him and thereby extinguished the flames, but not until he was fearfully burned about the face, neck and right side. The fire in Montgomery's room had in the mean time been extinguished, and when the smoke had cleared away a horrible sight met the gaze of the firemen. The charred and blackened remains of the morning's suicide lay before them on the half-burned mattress, the limbs distorted, the countenance, even in its ghastly blackness, giving signs of the most excruciating agony. The son lingered in great agony until Thursday noon when he quietly passed away, ignorant of his father's fate. The sad news were at once telegraphed to Theo. Montgomery here. This is indeed a sad ending of the lives of two human souls, and Theo. Montgomery has the heartfelt sympathy of this community in his very trying ordeal.

District Court.

Nicolaus Baasen, vs. Mary Baasen. Submitted to court on stipulations.

Lousia Buggart, vs. William Buggart. Tried by court. Evidence taken and decree of divorce ordered.

The cases of Ole Halverson and John Johannes, vs. the Town of Linden were passed, Judge Cox having been counsel in the cases.

The Grand Jury brought in an indictment of manslaughter in the fourth degree against Fred. Beinhorn Jr. for the shooting of Geo. Baar last August. The case was tried on Saturday. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty, and young Beinhorn was acquitted.
