Dr. De Witt Hitchcock of New York stopped off in New Ulm last Saturday while on his way to Denver. He visited here with his classmate, Dr. Strickler.

Mrs. Schmidt, who has been confined in the county jail here for several weeks, will be tried at Beaver Falls this week for assault upon her husband with intent to kill. The state convention of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor will be held in Mankato next Friday, Saturday and Sunday. About a dozen will attend from here.

L. F. Entrup held the ticket which corresponded to the one drawn at Union Hall on Saturday evening and which decided the ownership of the "solid gold watch" or $25 in cash. The new home of Mr. Albrecht in Milford was the scene of a happy housewarming Sunday afternoon and evening. Nearly 150 were entertained during the day and feasted in the evening.

Geo. Rafferty of Golden Gate started the ball rolling in contributing $5 towards raising Brown county's share of the World's Fair fund. There should be more citizens like Mr. Rafferty. An effort will be made by the Republicans to hold "love feasts" during the winter. Such orators as Bob Evans, William Henry Eustis and John Day Smith will be secured to deliver addresses.

G. A. Zimmermann will reside in Winona. Mrs. C. H. Ross is a visitor in Winona this week.

Business on the Northwestern line is rushed as it never was before. As an indication of what is being done, it is noted that over twenty specials came in from the west Sunday. Emil N. Sternberg, of West St. Paul, was married in Chicago, Wednesday, to Miss Lulu M. Lumsden, of that city.

Mr. and Mrs. Sternberg will reside on the West side.—St. Paul Globe. W. A. Young, one of the new yard brakemen, was caught between the cars of the switch train on the curve near the Eagle Mill and was quite severely crushed. He is now at the hospital under the care of Dr. O. C. Strickler.

Baumgarten, Juergen Durbahn, Mesdames A. W. Bingham, C. H. Ross, C. Berry, J. Laudenschlaeger and B. F. Webber and Miss Enily Popp.

Perhaps the drawing at Union Hall on Saturday evening was fair; perhaps the watch or its equivalent went to the person who drew it; perhaps it would have seemed better if the managers had allowed three or four responsible parties from the audience to conduct the drawing; perhaps it would have been just as well if the cigar box had been labeled: "Handle box and contents with care;" or perhaps well it would have looked nicer if the manager had paid the $25 right there instead of "at the hotel."

There is good reason to believe that a certain young lady of this town, who is well-known, has eloped, with a traveling man. Fuller particulars next week if present indications hold good.

Judge Webber, of New Ulm, visited this place on Wednesday, and in speaking of the late execution stated that never was a man tried before him, who did not confess, whom he thought more guilty than Wm. Rose.—Redwood Reville.

Flour has dropped again to $1.90 per hundred. Never before has it been sold so cheap, and the present flight promises to continue all winter. One farmer on Monday bought 2,000 pounds, took it to Fairfax, sold it there and made money.

While arguing some vexed point in political economy with a friend in a butcher shop one day last week, Herman Plath made a few gestures and rather unexpectedly got his finger under a chopping knife, cutting it badly. Moral: Avoid gestures in conversation. Rather adopt the Bill Erwin style of delivery.

The private secretary of the Postmaster General has written a letter to Postmaster Schmidt of this place which is very complimentary of the manner in which he increased the business of the New Ulm office during the present year. Additional railway mail service and advocacy of stamped envelopes are at the bottom of the postmaster's worthy success.

At the citizens meeting on Monday evening the matter of raising Brown County's share of the extra World's Fair appropriation was brought up by C. L. Roos and E. G. Pahl introduced a resolution which was carried unanimously, asking the county commissioners to make the appropriation of $645. The resolution is a sensible one, and should meet with favor in the eyes of the Board.

News has been received here of the unhappy fortunes of Annie Kinkel, who at one time was a dressmaker in this city. Last spring she was wedded to a detective and moved with him to Colorado. The other day he left her and she has since learned that he was also the husband of another woman and the father of three children. Being without any means of subsistence, she has written to her folks in St. Peter for forgiveness and help.

The little German girl referred to by the Minneapolis papers as being in love with Rose, the murderer, was not a prisoner as was generally supposed, but a young girl of tender years, somewhere in the neighborhood of sixteen summers, who was working in the new court-house. When Rose occupied a cell from which he could look out into the court house square, this little love acquaintance was formed, and it grew and grew until the unknowing girl became a complete victim of Rose's black eyes, even as a bird is charmed by the wiles of a reptile. Sheriff Schmelz often warned her to keep away from the jail, but threats were useless. Alma was her name and she loved her William. Therein lies the foundation for a cheap romance.

The World's Fair Theatre Co. did not play "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" as advertised, but they did succeed in giving us seven nights of chestnuts. Even allowing for the disadvantages of a small stage, their production of plays, that have gathered the age of twenty years upon them, was not such as to elicit storms of applause. Josh Whitcomb would be good perhaps, if one hadn't seen it so many times before; East Lynne is pathetic, but it is as old as the woman that played the five-year-old boy, and should now be laid on the shelf; so also are the Hidden Hand, Kathleen Mavourneen, Only a Farmer's Daughter, and the Mocking Bird solo. We like all these, of course, if we hear them produced by a good troupe but once in twenty-five years, but they are of a kind that suffer from frequent repetition and become tiresome if not presented by actors. Let the World's Fair Theatre Company put into their repertoire something new and then learn how to play, and when they come again, perhaps they will be appreciated.
