CRUSHED AFFECTIONS.

How many suffer unrequited affection? They are attached strongly to those who return them cold words, indifferent looks and even avoid their presence. A word that might not otherwise be noticed, often sinks deeply in the heart of one whose whole life is bound up in another. Where an object is cherished, each motion is watched with solicitude, and a smile gives exquisite pleasure, while a frown sends a dagger to the heart. There is no greater sin than to crush those warm affections gushing freely from a generous heart. It dries up the fountain of the soul—fades the smile on the cheek, and casts a shadow over every bright and glorious prospect. Draw near to the heart that loves you, return the favors received, and if you cannot love in return, be careful not to bruise or break it by a careless word—an unkind expression or an air of indifference.

Never be cast down by trifles. If a spider breaks his thread twenty times, he mends it again. Make up a mind to do a thing and you will do it. Fear not if a trouble comes upon you; keep up your spirits, through the day be a dark one.

Troubles do not stop forever,
The darkest day will pass away.

A RUM SWEAT.

Every body, almost, has heard of a "rum sweat," and the ordinary modus operandi. It is a favorite and sovereign remedy with many amateur practitioners for a "bad cold." We heard lately of a new method of getting up the steam, which we must tell—we are bound to.

Not a hundred miles from the thriving town of Athol, Massachusetts, there lives a mahogany face man whose daily potations are somewhat stronger than catnip tea. He has been known to toddle under the extra weight of a "stone in his hat," any day these number of years. Yet the man is not bereft of all self-respect but demeans himself as well as he is able, "considering," and not unfrequently indulges in the luxury of a clean shirt. It was to provide and array himself with one of these useful articles one bright Sunday morning, that this son of Bacchus built a rousing warm fire in the stove and fastened his door to promote the comfort and security of the operation. Being thus prepared he leisurely stripped himself, and taking the primitive garment alluded to by the neighbor edges, proceeded to work himself into it. He had managed to get one arm into the sleeve, and was trying to discover an opening for the head, when he lost his perpendicular and began to step back—and back he went, endeavoring vainly to stop himself, or "see out"—that hot stove being precisely in range—till his bare and shining calves came in contact, and he took a square seat upon its top! He roared and roared; he begged and bled; he screamed and "frittered" till his door was burst from its fastenings, and he dragged from his dreadful seat writhing and bellowing with agony.

Many a long night he groined and cursed, and many a torturing remedy did the doctors apply before he recovered.—Clarendon Eagle.

BE COURTEOUS.

Dr. Humphrey was once seated in a stage coach, when a gentleman and a lady, on their bridal tour, wished to be accommodated with seats on the inside. There being one vacant seat, the newly married pair where subjected to a separation, unless some passenger relinquished his place.—This no one appeared to do, when the Doctor mounted the outside, insisting upon the gentleman occupying his seat with his bride. Subsequently the Doctor was collecting funds for the college over which he presided, and was presented with a handsome donation from the stranger he had met in the stage coach, with the remark that he knew nothing of Dr. Humphrey, or Amherst College, save that its President was a "gentleman."

One day last week a gentleman, who had conceived the idea that all coal-dealers were rogues, having occasion to purchase a load of Lehigh, determined that he would in person superintend the operation of weighing. Accordingly he proceeded to the coal yard, and watched every lump of coal deposited in the cart with an eagle eye. When he was satisfied that he had obtained full weight, he ordered the coal to be conveyed to his dwelling, and followed it to its destination to be assured that nothing was lost on the road.—After the coal was delivered the master returned to the yard, and being observed to be in uncommonly good humor, was questioned as to the cause of his mirth.—He explained it by saying that the gentleman who purchased "that last load of coal" in his anxiety to avoid being cheated, had stood upon the platform balance while the coal was weighed. The gentleman alluded to weighed about 180 pounds.—Bee.

THE MAMMOTH OF THE WORLD.

1848. JOHN T. MARTIN. 1848.
THE OLD ESTABLISHED CLOTHIER,
No. 114 Main Street, St. Louis, Mo.
AS for the approaching Spring of 1848, I have made the most extensive and unequalled arrangements of any other house in the United States, so as to be enabled to accommodate the hundreds of thousands that will throng my store for the Spring and Summer Fashions.
Motto—Large Sales and Small Profits.
have on the way and shall receive by the first of March,

300,000 Garments,
by far the largest and most complete stock of Ready Made Clothing ever manufactured by any one house. From the many advantages I possess, I am confident in asserting that my goods are manufactured at much lower prices than any other house, and I am determined to sell them at such low prices as to defy any and all competition.

My Spring stock has all been bought for cash and manufactured by myself in the city of New York, and having paid great attention to the cut and fit, will make my stock one of the most desirable ever offered in any city of the Union. I am confident that I can give you as good a fit as any tailor, and cut in the latest and most fashionable style.

MERCHANTS throughout the West wanting Clothing, at any time by ordering and enclosing the amount, will have it attended to strictly with every care and correctness, and forwarded by the first opportunity.

The great variety my stock will consist of this Spring, will be far superior to any other previous season and as regards price and quality will be at least 15 or 20 per cent, cheaper than ever before offered. The great amount of business I have been doing, (and hope by strict attention to continue to do,) will enable me to offer to my old customers and strangers visiting St. Louis, much greater inducements than any other house this side the Atlantic.

My desire is to increase my sales, and by doing so can afford to sell you at a very small advance upon the manufacturing price. Transient customers visiting the city and calling on me, will be convinced that my assortment is much larger and far cheaper than anything ever offered to a general public.

Beware of those who tell you this is but bear in mind that I have but one store, 'tis No. 114 Main street, a large No. 114 on the top of the house, and in front a portico with the name MARTIN in large gilt letters:

I pledge myself to sell lower than any other house. JNO. T. MARTIN.

BIG ARCHIE,

Will stand the present season, commencing on the 1st of April and ending on the 1st of July next, at my stable in Bowling Green, Mo. Archie is a beautiful black, full 16 1-2 hands high—was sired by Elliot's famous Archie, and is, I believe, the only surviving and effective son of that noble Horse, whose reputation is unrivaled in the west.

Big Archie possesses all the attributes of his sire, a vigorous and healthy constitution, combining great natural strength and muscular power, with corresponding action. His size, and lofty carriage, he is even and never match for his sire. For general utility he has no superiors and but few equals.

For terms and pedigree see hand bills in due time. JAMES M. GATEWOOD.

To the People of Pike County.

At Belleville, Ill., a town 13 miles from St. Louis, 400 packages of Dr. Storm's Cough Candy were sold in three months; and the agents received the following certificate from a large number of persons who used it:—

Belleville, St. Clair Co. March 14, '47.
We, the undersigned, citizens of Belleville, St. Clair County, Ill., having used this medicine known as Dr. Storm's Scotch Cough Candy, prepared by H. Wade, of St. Louis, Mo., do cheerfully testify to its efficacy as a remedy for Diseases of the Breast and Lungs, and we recommend it to the public as a safe and agreeable compound.

C. J. HOUTS, Methodist Minister.
L. B. CABAUNE, Merchant,
DAVID MCCOY,
O. J. RAPIER,
W. S. FLEMING, Ed. Belleville Advertiser.
And many others too numerous to mention.

We have thought it unnecessary to offer certificates from individuals in all cases, as purchasers are unable to inform themselves of the actual existence of most of the signers. The following, however, is from a well known citizen of St. Louis, Mo., residence No. 210 main street two doors below Cherry.

Mrs. WADE—Dear Sir: It affords me pleasure to offer my testimony to the efficacy of the article known as Dr. Storm's Scotch Cough Candy. And in doing so, I am actuated by a desire to benefit others who may be suffering. My wife was laboring under a severe cough for a long time, which threatened serious injury. After having tried many other remedies to no purpose, she used a few packages of Storm's Cough Candy, purchased from our neighbors, Messrs. Snow & Quirk, and in a very short time she was entirely relieved, and now enjoys good health. My servant was also afflicted with a severe breast complaint, and she experienced almost immediate relief from the use of this truly valuable remedy.
Respectfully,
E. EVANS,
No. 210 Main Street
St. Louis, May 4, 1847.

The action of Dr. Storm's Scotch Cough Candy differs very materially from any other compound ever invented. It not only allays Bronchial Irritation, but operating as a very mild purge, it keeps the stomach and bowels in a healthy condition, leaving the patient an appetite which few other Cough Mixtures could impart. We have no disposition to injure the inventor of any particular medicine, but in justice to the world, we will give it as our honest opinion, formed by the observations of eleven years in the school of medicine, that large and frequent draughts of nauseous liquid—Compounds taken into the stomach from time to time—must have a tendency to destroy the healthy tone of that vital organ of the human system.

No such objection can be urged against the use of this valuable Medicated Candy, for Sugar is agreeable both to the palate and stomach, and we honestly believe that this preparation with all that medicine can do towards the relief of persons suffering with Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis, Asthma, Bleeding of the Lungs, Pain in the Side and Breast, Difficulty of Breathing, Hoarseness, and all other symptoms of Consumption.

Orders from the Country, or applications for Agency, directed to Messrs. J. H. BARNARD & BRO., General Agents, No. 140 Main street, St. Louis, Mo., will meet with prompt attention.

For sale by Druggists generally. It may also be obtained of any respectable country merchant in the South or West.

To avoid counterfeits, our readers would do well to inquire for Dr. STORM'S SCOTCH COUGH CANDY, prepared by HAZLTON WADE, St. Louis, whose written signature is on the wrapper.

A liberal deduction made to country dealers. March 13th, 1848. 49—6m.
