Trustees' Sale.

In pursuance of an order of the Pike county court, made an the fifth day of February, 1850, we shall sell to the highest bidder, before the extent of his defection, until he came in person, and exploded his appeal, which fell like a bomb shell upon the country; produce, and or Fright are and one young woman. A credit of twelves, the Barnburners could do nothing aided by him, some impression has been made. Some who profess trong opposition to the Wilmot Proviso and the Barnburner movement, we had some the first the response to the Wilmot Proviso and the Barnburner movement, we had some the first the response to the Wilmot Proviso and the Barnburner movement, we had some the first the response to the Wilmot Proviso and the Barnburner movement, and made at the state of said deed the many advantages that we possess in purchasing, manufactures, etc., we feel purchasing, manufactures, etc., we feel purchasing, manufactures, and the many advantages that we possess in purchasing, manufactures, etc., we feel purchasing, ma movement, yet under strong delusion, ab-here to Col. Benton, its main stay and support in the South-west.

quences of division-discomfiture and dis-think proper grace. This state of things appeals strongly to our patriotism and wisdom for a remedy. What is to be done? There is but able men, and unite and harmonize upon the nomination, without burdening the canhands of the whigs.

And to whom will the party be indebted for the calamity? Certainly to Col. Bentyn-no one else. The Legislature had instructed him, in accordance with public senmanifested in the State and Presidential contests, to oppose the Proviso and support the Missouri Compromise, as it had seen on his part the manifestation of strong sympathy to say the least, with Barnburnerism on the Territorial bill of 1848. It was his duty to have obeyed or resigned, "Yet he boldly appeals, saying the Legislature had given him a "command" which he "could not obey." He commenced his canvass to convert the State; but saw too soon that this was "no go." Now it is said that he will obey his instructions, and vote against the heroviso! What rational object then had he in view by his appeal? Why could he not "Yuletly have obeyed in the first instance?"

Now that he has convulsed the State with his incendiary and inflammatory harangness, and divided and distracted the party; we are and divided and distracte and divided and distracted the party; we are or less, and the same on which John Phillips and promptly, we will be under the necessity of to be told that at last he will obey his inwife now reside. structions!
