TAKING THE RIGHT START.

In the republican procession two weeks since, we saw not less than six young men of democratic parentage and training. Young men, who will cast their first vote this fall, and who have always been reckoned as among the democratic hosts. This speaks well for our county and is in accord with the doctrine taught all along by the graphic that Missouri must be redeemed from the curse of democracy by her young men. Young men rescued from slavery, and young men who rescue her from democracy. These young men that we saw (and these may have been more) are taking the right start. They are all young men of large reasoning powers, who are not so allied to family tradition and prejudice as to blindly follow their own interests and the interests of their country. They are young men who have without prejudice or bias read and examined these great questions and solved problems that their fathers could not. Having done so their many breasts defy the sneers and scoffs of all friends and relations and they like true Americans avow their principles. What made these six young men, reared as democrats, espouse the republican cause? Think a moment, old and young and you can tell. On the side of the democracy what have they? Who can tell? Principles one year that were condemned the year before. Men advocated one year that were cursed, maligned, and abused the year before. Principles and opinions as varying as the wind, and liable at any day to be blown from the continent. All the while these principles varying as they are advocated by the worst classes of society, ready to whoop and yell like drunken savages for any man or thing so it is a cloak or veil to cover Jeff. Davis and the southern confederacy. Even if free schools are in their platform they hear the democracy on the street corners cursing the system that takes money out of their pockets to educate the children of poor trash. On the other hand what does these young men see? A party advocating human justice, right, and honesty in everything. The principles advocated twenty years ago by the republicans, advocated by the same party to-day. No change, no swerving to the right or left but onward and upward steady and true, the same yesterday, to-day and forever; justice, humanity, and honor their watch word. The young man with a penny in his pocket, a patch on his coat, but with virtue and honor in his heart, and reason in his brain, is superior in the republican party to the drunken millionaire who soils in his carriage and abuses the laboring class of humanity. Who can blame these young men for entering the republican party? Not one. They have shown an intelligence and independence in the act, that will in the near future make their mark for them. They are young men of reason, of judgment, and we would to Heaven we had more of them. Young men do not allow designing men to draw you from the chosen path selected in your coolest moments. Great efforts will be made, but learn the world, that you have a head on your own shoulders, and that you can think and act for yourselves.

Never condemn your neighbor unheard, however many the accusations preferred against him; every story has two ways of being told, and justice requires that you should hear the defence as well as the accusation, and remember that the malignity of enemies may place you in a similar situation.

THE SOUTHERN STATES.

One question discussed at the republican conference in New York was whether or not an effort should be made to carry any of the southern states for the republican ticket, by sending speakers and money to carry on the campaign. We look upon such a movement as being not only useless, but worse than useless. Simply a waste of talent and money. And the talent and money might better be kept where it will do some good—in the northern states.

What matters it if in the states of Mississippi, Alabama or Georgia, there should be three voters for the republican ticket to two for the democratic, would the republicans gain any electoral votes by it? Does any fair minded man believe that the democrats would not commit frauds of any kind, rather than have a southern electoral vote counted for the republican ticket? Have they not all the machinery of the election, and are known to be unscrupulous enough to use any advantage possible? It has already been fore-ordained by the southern democracy that the 138 electoral votes of the south shall be counted for Hancock, whether they are cast for him or not, and the man who is sanguine enough to count on any republican electoral votes from the southern states, will find in November that he has reckoned without his hosts. It is said there has been a large emigration of people from the north to Florida. If there is enough of them to establish a state of public opinion which would frown upon intimidation and fraud at the ballot box; enough of them to see that every free American citizen was allowed to vote as he pleased without fear or restraint, and that no fraudulent ballots find their way into the ballot box, then we might hope to carry Florida. But under no other circumstances. So we might expect to carry Mississippi, South Carolina and Alabama under the same circumstances. But as it is, we must look to the northern states where every man is allowed to vote as he desires, for the vote which is to put the quietus upon the corrupt democracy of the south. Let no time be wasted upon the southern states, for in republican victory lies the hope, and the only hope of free government in the United States. Hence every energy should be turned to the northern states.

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

On last Saturday the democratic convention met at the Masonic Hall and nominated the following ticket: Representative, P. F. Greenwood. Collector, Henry Nichols. Sheriff, John Kennedy, endorsed. Treasurer, Henry Eckert. Prosecuting Attorney, Manvil W. Smith. Surveyor, John M. Williams. Public Administrator, James Bennett. Assessor, A. J. Elmore. Coroner, Isaac Brennaman. Judge 1st district, Noah Motter. Judge 2d district, Daniel McGonigle.

The ticket upon the whole is better than the democrats of this county have had before for sometime, yet it is not equal to that of the republicans, and stands no possible show of being elected.

POLITICAL TRAMPS.

We have been complaining of hard times for several years past, and the country has been overrun with tramps of all kinds and among others the greatest curse and nuisance to the well being of society and mankind is the political tramp.—Democrat.

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

At the democratic torchlight procession, and during the republican torchlight procession, democrats were frequently heard to cry "hurrah for Jeff. Davis!" What does it mean? Does the democracy now fifteen years after the war intend to resurrect the old issues, that should be dead and buried with the past; or are they still advocating a dissolution of the union? Then is the nomination of Hancock only a blind—a curtain drawn before the face of the audience, while the democracy behind the scenes may destroy the government? It means something, but we can not just now state what. Every time the yell for "Jeff. Davis," or the "Southern confederacy" goes forth it weakens their strength and increases ours.

MAD.

The editor of the Democrat evidently imagined he carried the g. b. in his breeches pocket, and could deliver them on demand. He now calls them "Political Tramps"—as if he hadn't tramped a little himself occasionally. Listen to him. A political tramp never made any money himself by any useful calling; and when he becomes poor, and the pot is empty, he can tell you how to get rich more easily and quickly, than any successful man can do. Well, well, do those hard-working, these windy gentlemen think that any democrat among them will stay a moment longer? Are the democratic green-backers fools? For the sake of common decency and love of country let every man who has any self respect get out of such a party, for it is too much of an insult for any man to stand.

If the democratic convention had not been forestalled it might have been C. L. Bounds or some other good man from the country, but that would not have suited the five rulers here in town you know.

PRESIDENTIAL CHANGES.

A Concise Statement of the Situation—The Doubtful States.

New York Essential to the Democrats, but not Absolutely Necessary to the Republicans.

Milwaukee Sentinel.

The electoral college has 369 votes, 185 being necessary to elect. The republicans are certain of 137 and the democrats certain of 138, leaving 74 doubtful. Garfield will need 28 votes more than are conceded to him and Hancock 47. The outlook is as follows: Republican—Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont and Wisconsin—167.

Democratic—Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia—138. Doubtful—California, Connecticut, Indiana, Nevada, New Jersey and New York—74.

If Garfield carries New York he will be elected, but that is not certain. He does not necessarily defeat him. If he loses New York and carries California, Indiana and Nevada, he will lack but four votes of election, which Connecticut or New Jersey would supply. The probabilities are, however, that if he loses New York he will also lose Connecticut and New Jersey. Usually the three states go together, although there have been exceptions enough to leave a hope as to both the smaller states. All possibilities are embraced in this: That if Garfield carries California, Indiana, Nevada and either Connecticut, New Jersey or New York he will be elected and if he carries New York alone he will be elected.

The democrats are very confident of carrying California on the Chinese question, but as Illinois is to stump the state their confidence may be mistimed. Connecticut and New Jersey are likely to go with New York. Indiana though doubtful, will probably go to the republicans. Few conveniences the following tables of the possibilities are given: Garfield is certain of... 137 New York... 35 Total... 172 This would give him a majority in the electoral college of fifteen.

Garfield certain of... 137 California... 6 Indiana... 15 Nevada... 3 Total... 161 This would give him four less than a majority, which Connecticut (6) or New Jersey (9) would supply. It is not altogether removed from the possible that the republicans may carry North Carolina (10) although it is generally conceded to the democrats.

The work of the campaign, therefore will be mainly in California, Connecticut, Indiana, Nevada, New Jersey and New York, which will be likely to direct Connecticut and New Jersey. And it is in these states that the democrats will spend their money.

Wanted to be Joseph.

While a quiet family were seated around the hearth-stone, the various professions which are open to a man of ability, came up for discussion, a large majority of the children showing a decided preference for a snug secure, where the work was unimportant and the salary excessive. One of the children said, "Well, I should like to sit on the roof all my days, and have nothing to do, just like Joseph in Egypt." Very naturally the attention of the family was excited by the remark, and the boy was asked to explain his house. "There," he said, "that's what I should like—to sit on the roof, and have a large salary."

THE COMING CROPS.

Magnificent Prospects in the Northwest and Elsewhere. Bismark, D. T., July 31.—A year of Northern Dakota, just as the reapers are starting in, convinces your correspondent that Dakota is about to harvest her greatest wheat crop. There will be very little wheat, with less than eighteen bushels to the acre, and counties will probably average 20 bushels per acre. Many farms, varying from 500 to 20,000 acres, will average from twenty-five to thirty-five bushels per acre. The Red River Valley and the Missouri Valley are all beginning to strive for the supremacy in point of bushels to the acre. New sections are showing up admirably as wheat producing areas. The weather is cool, pleasant and in every respect almost ideal for the ripening crops. The H. B. Sawyer party of Ohio, and the Osburn, Garrison and Powell party from New York and Massachusetts, now traveling over the country in palace cars of their own, are to be on the Dalrymple farms next week to witness the sight of 100 reapers moving through a 10,000 acre field. All the Scandinavian editors of the West are invited to be present.

The Northwestern Crops.

Chicago, July 31.—The Times this morning publishes dispatches from a large number of places in the spring wheat growing section of the Northwest, from which it appears that while the spring wheat crop in Northern Illinois and Wisconsin is inferior, the yield in Minnesota and Dakota will be unprecedented in quantity and quality. Good judges estimate the product in Minnesota at 44,000,000 bushels. In Dakota, where the berry is unusually large and solid, a yield of from 15 to 35 bushels per acre is expected. Harvesting is in progress in many places.

Oswego, Kas., August 10.—

Old McGregor and wife arrived here and have been seen by a number of persons, and it is positively declared that they are not the Bendlers. The sell has outraged our people and there is great danger of the old tramps being lynched.

It is undenominational in all its services though the leadership by common consent is in the hands of Dr. Vincent the prince of Sunday school workers in the whole world. As a place Chataqua is unique, a thing of beauty and a joy forever. It is laid out regularly on the west shore of the most beautiful fresh water lake in the world.

THE SITE.

is in a dense forest of sugar maple and beech trees with here and there a hemlock; a gravelly hill-side sloping gently down to the water's edge. It is already a city of magnificent distance, with an average summer population of 6,500 people. Yesterday was a great day. The Sunday school at 9 A. M., numbers by count 405, the sermon by Rev. Dr. Backley was delivered in the amphitheatre to an audience numbering at least 7000. The day was devoted to the young men's christian association.

Magnificent villas and expensive cottages are scattered everywhere, and among them are to be seen the white tents of the poor, or transient visitors. There are over 400 cottages and as many tents, with printing offices issuing a forty-eight-column quarto daily. Stores, groceries, meat shops, bakeries everything for convenience of a pleasure-seeking population. The PLACES OF RESORT are hall of philosophy, amphitheatre, auditorium, hall of languages, the lake, croquet grounds, the plat of which is a fine simile of Palestine, mountains, river-waddies, lake, sea, cities, and sacred places all reproduced on a scale sufficiently large to give anyone an accurate idea of the Holy land.

The most eminent men in every department, men of science, of literature, of philosophy, of art and religion, are brought here to discourse the best thoughts of the age to the listening thousands. Nowhere can the student get so much at so little outlay of time and money. Yesterday we were permitted to greet

GEN. J. A. GARFIELD

On his way home from New York. As he does not travel on Sunday, he came here Saturday night to spend the Sabbath, leaving at 8 A. M. this Monday morning. He spoke to the thousands from a rustic platform on the lake front of the palace hotel. Owing to the place and mixed character of the audience he made no allusion to political questions.

You have doubtless read his remarks before these lines reach you. They were noble utterances worthy of a great mind and a good heart. He was hoarse but hale, hearty and confident in his bearing. Such a hearty greeting I never saw given before by any audience to any living man. But he is worthy.

THE COOF OF LIVING.

Is very moderate here. Good board with lodging can be had in private cottages at one-dollar per day, or a family can rent ground, bring their own tent, rent a tent or cottage and live as cheaply as at home. The weather has been as near perfect as one ever sees in this mundane sphere. OF CELEBRITIES: We have a full share. Gen. Fisk, Geo. H. Stuart, of Philadelphia, head of the christian commission during the war and many others. The jubilee singers who have sung a university into being thrill us daily with sweet music. J. Jay Ben.

COLUMBUS August 10.—

The reunion opened to-day in reality, and for the next three days the capital city of Ohio will be devoted to the reception and entertaining of veteran guests and visiting strangers. An opening salute of thirty-eight guns announced the "grand event" this morning. Later the reveilles of the bugle and drum corps were heard.

MANY STRANGERS

arrived in the city and the rush commenced in earnest to-day. There are arriving excursion trains from all directions, containing thousands of people. The streets are literally covered with masses of people. Decorating untimes to-day, and flags rest never before presented such an elaborate display of bunting, flags and evergreen. Cross steamers with appropriate notices are numerous. The first cross steamer greeting the eyes of coming from the depot bears the inscription, "Welcome, comrades," and on the other side, which is dressed in black, "In memory of our dead." The following are samples of the notices on the steamers across high street: "If any man pulls down the flag shoot him on the spot." "No North. No South. One Country." "Grab a Root." "Johnnie Comes Marching Home." "Tramp, Tramp, the Boys are Marching." "Hard Tack." Rain began to fall at 1 o'clock.
