

FARM, DAIRY AND HOUSEHOLD.

An Orchard For Beauty And Profit.

We spend money for flowering shrubs; the beautiful double flowering shrubs, the weigelas and deutzias which delight us with their spring and summer bloom, and we rejoice over them without objections to their "fleeting show." Now, all these are enjoyed solely for their beauty. An orchard is no less beautiful than these. A massive apple tree, a globe of snow just faintly tinged with the most delicate pink; a dwarf pear, a pyramid of flowers, a standard, a fountain of spray; the cherries and plums; and the peaches with their soft violet shade—all these are unsurpassed by any of the popular flowering shrubs. Now that the blooming season is over and our sense of sight has been gratified, the fruit comes in sometimes no less beautiful with its varied brilliancy of color, but more useful than the majority of farmers are ready to believe. How many farmers ever think how easy it is to grow apples and pears, and how exceedingly valuable the fruit may be made for feeding to their animals! When some of my pear trees litter the ground with their ripe mellow fruit, I feed them to my cows. A peck of pears with two quarts of meal and bran for noon day feed, increased the milk and butter fully one-fourth, and when the apples were ripe and only fifteen cents a bushel could be got for them in the market, the horses, cows, pigs and fowls had all they wanted, and the ripe fruit did them a great deal of good. Some farmers give the wind falls wormy, hard, gnarled fruit—to their animals and complain that they are unwholesome. And why not? Are they wholesome for themselves? Do they not suffer the pains and penalties of eating hard, unripe apples? Why should they expect their stock to escape similar consequences? Give only ripe, sound fruit to the animals; they will be greatly benefited by it. An orchard is a permanent crop, yielding more than an acre of roots and scarcely any cost during a man's whole life; three hundred bushels of fruit, one year with another, on the acre being by no means an extravagant estimate. At twenty-five cents a bushel, a moderate estimate too, here is seventy-five dollars per acre for, let us say, thirty years, with no money outlay and scarcely any labor beyond gathering the crops. Two thousand, two hundred and fifty dollars from each acre of orchard is the total profit. Then why should not every farmer plant and care generally for at least ten acres of apple trees? If he did, and fed the fruit, his stock would mostly escape the diseases now so destructive; and it would pay into his pocket every dollar above estimated.—H. Stewart, in Orchard and Garden.

In The Kitchen.

Boiling Coffee.—The Coffee discussion keeps up in Good House-keeping. Mrs. Mary J. Lincoln says: "Whether coffee shall be boiled or not will probably be always a question. Many think it has a raw taste if not boiled; others contend that in boiling, much of the aroma is lost. Boiling makes the mixture roily, and it must stand long enough to let the grounds settle and the liquid become clear. Some albuminous material will help to clear it. Fish skin, isinglass, cold water, and eggs are used for this purpose. Eggs give it a flavor and body, and no doubt, improve an inferior quality of coffee; but they increase the cost of the beverage, as, aside from their own cost, they clog the grounds, thus making a larger amount of coffee necessary to obtain the desired strength. But if coffee must be boiled, let it be boiled in a closely-covered vessel with a thimble or cork in the spout, as, if left uncovered, the volatile oil, which forms the fragrant aroma, is dissipated; and it, should never boil more than five minutes, as longer boiling extracts the tannic acid. There is a widely prevalent, but erroneous, notion that long boiling extracts more of the strength and color, is, therefore, more economical; but strength and color thus gained are obtained at the expense of flavor and wholesomeness." N. B.—"I say do not boil coffee." In this matter b-o-i-l spells spoil.

Helpful Hints.

Many piano dealers recommend cotton flannel for dusting pianos as superior to anything else. A delicious breakfast cake is made with two cups of milk, two cups of flour, and two well-beaten eggs, to be baked in scalloped dish or patti pans. If your children have the ear-ache, turn a drop of milk as hot as it can be borne into the ear, and cover it quickly with a bit of cotton batting. This simple remedy has relieved many obstinate cases of ear-aches. To prevent pie juice from running out into the oven, make a little opening in the upper crust, and insert a little roll of brown paper perpendicularly. The steam will escape from it as a chimney, and all the juice will be retained in the pie.

To clean silver.—One-half pound of sal soda added to eight quarts of water; when at a boiling heat dip the pieces of silver, and immediately wash in soapsuds, and wipe dry with a piece of cotton flannel. This method is recommended by one of the largest britannia works in New England.

To clean hot water copper boilers.—Get three cents worth of oxalic acid at your druggist, put it in a pint bottle and fill it with cold water. Pour it over the boiler while it is hot, rubbing it down quickly with a cloth, and polishing it over with a dry piece of flannel. A large boiler can be beautifully polished in five minutes, and will retain its polish a week or more. The bottle should be marked "Poison," and should be kept out of sight and out of ordinary reach. The amount indicated will last for half a dozen polishings.

Clear the Weeds out of the Fence Rows.

During this season of the year one of the jobs often neglected is that of keeping the fence rows free of weeds. Such neglect not only causes a farm to look mos. untidy, but is the occasion of much serious loss.

In the first place should the owner wish to sell he could not get as much from a purchaser, even though the latter was an untidy farmer himself. A well kept farm will strike any man as being more productive and valuable than one badly cared for. The intelligent buyer would be apt to conclude, if he saw the fence rows choked up with weeds, that the farmer was pretty well stocked with weeds, and it would cost a good deal of time and labor to get them subdued. He would conclude, too, that judging from this one conspicuously neglected job, there must be hundreds of others, gates off of the hinges, water gaps out, fence posts rotting off, gutters forming in the fields, which, on a better kept farm, he would have not to attend to if he purchased. He will pass on and look for something more in keeping with his ideal.

Enough weeds can grow along an ordinary fence row out of reach of the plow to seed abundantly acres of land, thus causing a hundred times the necessary amount of labor to keep the fence rows clean.

A rank growth of weeds along a fence row, by holding the moisture and keeping away the sun and air, will cause a fence to rot in one-half the time it would if kept clean, thus adding a tremendous tax to the farmer.

Weeds and grass growing along the fence and allowed to remain there during the winter, affords the best possible refuge for myriads of destructive insects which will come forth the next spring to devour and destroy. Such places are harbors for all kinds of vermin.

When stock is running at large the weeds and grass along the fence inside the field of grain or grass is a constant temptation, and after reaching over and through for a few mouthfuls, it is but an easy step clear into the field with a whole herd following.

Clean out the fence rows then, we say, and if necessary hire extra help for the purpose. The advent of the barbed wire or wire and slat fence has reduced this labor wonderfully, and when the farmers of an entire neighborhood have become so enlightened as to discard all but pasture fences, the above remarks hardly apply; but such neighborhoods are rare.—Rural World.

Hot sunshine will remove scorch. The best liquid for cleaning old brass is a solution of oxalic acid.

Kerosene applied to unused stoves will keep them from rusting.

A damp cloth dipped in common soda will brighten tin ware easily.

To clean knives: Cut a small potato, dip it in brick dust and rub them.

Grease may be removed from silk by applying magnesia to the wrong side.

New iron should be gradually heated at first, it will not be so likely to crack.

Paint splashes may be removed from window panes by a very hot solution of soda, using a soft flannel.

Excitement in Texas.

Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris, Texas, by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Corely, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed, or raise his head; everybody said he was dying of consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief, he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills and two bottles of the Discovery, by the time he had taken two boxes of the Pills and two bottles of the Discovery, was well and had gained in flesh thirty-six pounds. Trial Bottle of this great Discovery for Consumption free at J. G. Jamison Large Bottle $1.

CORN PREMIUMS.

To the Public: The State Board of Agriculture, for the purpose of collecting valuable information, and to stimulate better methods of corn culture in our State, which now averages but twenty-six and a fraction bushels of corn per acre, an amount too small to return a profit for its use, offers the following premiums, on the followings conditions, namely: One hundred ($100) dollars for the first premium, fifty ($50) for the second, and twenty-five ($25) for third premium, first, second and third largest yield of corn. To this premium, Abiel Leonard, member of the Board from Saline Co., offers $100 in addition, open to the competition of the State.

CONDITIONS.

I. The area under competition shall be five acres.

II. The rows, neither at their ends or sides, shall reach within two feet of the outside of the five acres.

III. The ground shall be measured by the county surveyor, or some competent person deputized by him, and shall be duly certified.

IV. The distance apart of the rows and hills shall be stated in the returns of the crops, also the actual number of plants to the acre at harvest, both barren and bearing plants.

V. There shall be given also the depth and time of plowing, the time of planting, the number of times cultivated, the depth of cultivation, or whether deep or shallow, the depth of planting, the variety of corn used, the measurement and description of an average ear, with height of stalk.

VI. The previous crops grown for three past years shall be stated, together with a description of the soil. In case it is required, a sample of the soil upon which the best crops are grown, shall be forwarded for analysis, at our expense, for transportation and analysis.

VII. A careful statement shall be made of the manuring resorted to to increase the crops, both in kind and quality, including method of use.

VIII. The crop of corn is to be, all of it, actually weighed by a justice of the peace, or some one appointed by him, and shall be duly certified to. On or before the 20th of October, and on the day when the harvesting of the corn begins from the center two rows twenty hills in from the end, fifty lbs. are gathered. This corn shall be weighed accurately and forwarded by express to the Secretary, to test for moisture. By this means, justice will be secured to all, and the actual yield of dry corn per acre ascertained, perhaps for the first time. No corn shall be harvested when moist from rain or dew.

IX. Before the prize is awarded the member of the Board nearest, or if inconvenient for him, some other member of the Board shall visit the farms of those likely to receive the award, and satisfy himself regarding the fulfillment of the conditions laid down.

X. All competitors are expected to add any information not laid down in these rules that will be of value to the public.

XI. The public are again requested to add to these premiums in order to secure a sharp competition, and to do a great public good. Some parties are expected to add premiums to the above, provided it is taken by any one of their county, while others will give it to the best crop of their county competing for the prize. I ask that all such extra prizes be reported to me for publication and use.

Respectfully submitted, J. W. SANBORN.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, Druggist Bippus Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of ten years standing." Abraham Hare, druggist, Bellville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 20 years' experience is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, kidneys or blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at J. G. Jamison's.

FOR MAN AND BEAST! Mexican Mustang Liniment

CURES Sciatica, Lumbago, Rheumatism, Burns, Scalds, Stings, Bruises, Bunions, Corns, Contracted Muscles, Erysipelas, Wood All, Screw Worms, Swainy, Saddle Galls, Fles.

THIS GOOD OLD STAND-UP accomplishes for everybody exactly what is claimed for it. One of the reasons for the great popularity of the Mustang Liniment is found in its universal applicability. Everybody needs such a medicine. The Lumberman needs it in case of accident. The Housewife needs it for general family use. The Cavalier needs it for his horse and his man. The Mechanic needs it always on his work bench. The Miner needs it in case of emergency. The Pioneer needs it—can't get along without it. The Farmer needs it in his house, his stable, and his stock yard. The Steamboat man or the Boatman needs it in liberal supply aboard and ashore. The Horse-fancier needs it—it is his best friend and safest reliance. The Stock-grower needs it—it will save him thousands of dollars and a world of trouble. The Railroad man needs it and will need it no one as his life is a record of accidents and dangers. The Backwoodsman needs it. There is nothing like it as an antidote for the dangers to life, limb and comfort which surround the pioneer. The Merchant needs it about his store among his employees. Accidents will happen, and when these come the Mustang Liniment is wanted at once. Keep a Bottle in the House. 'Tis the best of economy. Keep a Bottle in the Factory. Immediate use in case of accident saves pain and loss of wages. Keep a Bottle Always in the Stable for use when wanted.
