—Mr. Cleveland's London boom is setting in strong. He is the ideal statesman of the English free trader.

—Kansas farmers have no time this year to attend calamity meetings. They are harvesting the biggest wheat crop ever grown in the state.

—Mr. Hatch's anti-optic bill is having a tough time of it, but it is no tougher than the time Hatch will have in getting elected after he beats Giles for the nomination.

—The feeling that there should be a change in Missouri's politics is permeating every nook and corner of the state. Even the public highways are crying out against a further lease of power to the Democratic party.

—Since the nomination of Stone for Governor by the Democratic convention at Jefferson City, Democracy would as well draw out of the race in Missouri. St. Louis will give Warner a majority of 20,000.

—All the elements of prosperity are present in the large volume of both domestic and foreign business doing; in the easy condition of money matters, and remunerative earnings of the railroads. In addition to these items it is to be noted that gold exports are apparently approaching the point of cessation.

—The boy on the farm gets $15 to $18 a month and works twelve to fourteen hours a day. The boy that shovels cinders eight hours a day at the Homestead mills gets $10 a month. The farm boy does not strike, and all the ranting of political demagogues will fail to convince him that the boys at Homestead had just cause for grievance.

—This year the Democratic party has the courage of the convictions derived half a century ago from the slave oligarchy of the South, which, employing the cheapest slave labor in agricultural pursuits, wished to buy the manufactures of the cheapest pauper labor in Europe. A protective tariff meant then, as it means now, diversified industries, high wages and free labor. Whenever the Democratic party has fearlessly enunciated its faith in free trade it has been beaten at the polls. It has made victory surer for the Republicans in 1892 by declaring its true faith, and Republicans everywhere welcome the issue.

—Ex-congressman W. J. Stone was nominated for Governor by the Democratic State Convention on the nineteenth ballot, Wednesday afternoon. He is the man Francis is said to have favored.

—It has been the pride of the Republican party that the great business interests on which the prosperity of the country depends are safe in its hands. The Minneapolis platform and the record of the President who stands on it will command the confidence and support of the intelligent business men of the United States.

WASTED SYMPATHY.

At the Judicial convention held in Shelby last week, the following resolutions were adopted:

- 1. Resolved that we sympathize with the unfortunate workmen at Homestead Pa., in their troubles and suffering, and extend them our sincere sympathy.
- 2. Resolved that we denounce the Republican system of protection, that pauperizes the laborer and makes millionaires of the manufacturers.

It is easily seen that the committee on resolutions had not kept up with the investigating committee, composed of two Democrats and one Republican, sent to Homestead to inquire into the causes that led to the strike. That committee found from the payroll, the best evidence that could be furnished, that the lowest wages were $40 per month, and this amount was paid to boys for shoveling cinders eight hours each day. The wages ranged from $40 per month to $275. One of the Democrats on that committee, after getting all the facts in regard to the wages paid, exclaimed, "I never heard of such wages before." Think of boys getting $40 per month for light work eight hours each day. Think of men getting $150 to $275 a month for employment the same length of time. Is there anything in the above that savors of pauperization? The attempt to make protection responsible for the strike is a signal failure. Not one of the striking workmen believes in free trade. They know too well that, but for protection, no Homestead mills would ever have had an existence.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent
WASHINGTON, July 18, '92

The President, like all other Republicans, is perfectly satisfied with the record of the Democrats in the first session of the Fifty-second congress, soon to end, and believes that it alone, to say nothing of the magnificent record of the National Administration would be sufficient to elect the Republican national ticket. The Democrats although having two-thirds of the house, have accomplished practically nothing. They came in power shouting repeal of the McKinley tariff law, a shout which very soon quieted down to a whisper, and when they began what one of their own number, Pierce, of Tennessee, has characterized as a "pop-gun attack on the tariff," they were openly taunted by Jerry Simpson with being afraid to vote for a bill repealing the McKinley act.

They owe not a few of their seats in the House to misrepresentations of the so-called "billion dollar" Congress, and their promises on the stump and in the columns of the party press to economize in public appropriations. They have kept those promises by appropriating in the aggregate more than $6,000,000 in excess of the amount appropriated by the first session of the last Congress. Is it any wonder that Republicans are satisfied with the Democratic record?

Washington G. A. R., men, in addition to preparing to entertain their comrades who will come to the National encampment in September, have begun to work for the election of a member of a Washington post to the honorable position of Commander-in-Chief. The Washington candidate is Col. Charles P. Lincoln, of Michigan, at present Deputy Commissioner of Pensions. Col. Lincoln was a candidate for the position at the last encampment, but withdrew for fear that his candidacy might prevent Washington getting the encampment.

Another session of Congress is to close without even the ground having been purchased upon which to build a new Government Printing office, notwithstanding the constant dangers to which the 3,000 employes in the present unsafe building are exposed. This is of itself scandalous enough, but the means by which Congress has been controlled in this matter are still more scandalous. Two years ago a site would have been purchased, and by this time the building might have been nearly completed, if an ex-member of the U. S. Senate—Mahone, of Virginia—had not objected, and succeeded by means of his secret relations with Senators, mostly Democrats, in postponing the selection of a site until the present Congress met. The secret of Gen. Mahone's favoring postponement was that he owned ground he wanted to sell to the Government, and the old committee having selected another site a postponement would give him another chance with a new committee.

The new committee showing no intention of favoring Mahone's ground, one of the Democratic Senators he controls—Vest of Missouri, attempted to take the matter out of the hands of the committee by offering an amendment to the sundry civil appropriation bill authorizing the purchase of Mahone's site and appropriating the money to pay for it. This insult to the joint committee recently authorized to select the site was promptly resented by the Senate, but Mahone was consoled for his defeat by seeing an amendment instructing the committee to report the site selected next December adopted, which means another postponement of six months or more and another chance for Mahone to control the committee.

The third party Congressmen are not happy. They have been trying for months to organize a Congressional campaign committee for the distribution of documents etc. and they now confess that they cannot do it. Reason: lack of funds; those who have money are not disposed to contribute it for the dissemination of visionary ideas.

Secretary of State Foster says the recent action of the Canadian Government concerning Marine tolls is in no sense a concession to us. He does not say so—he is too good a diplomat to give himself away—but it is evident that he believes Congressional action to be necessary to bring Canada to her senses. Senator Higgins has introduced a sweeping bill, cutting off about every privilege that Canada enjoys by the courtesy of this country; that would be retaliation indeed, if it became a law.

Mr. Thomas H. Carter, the new chairman of the Republican National committee, was not widely known previous to the Minneapolis convention, but his mastery work there gave him at once a national reputation as a shrewd political manipulator, and caused ex-chairman Clarkson, against whose candidate Carter was working, to say that he was the shrewdest politician of his age in the country. He is at present land commissioner, but he will resign and give his whole attention to the campaign.

When the vessels now under construction together with those authorized to be built are completed we shall have a very respectable navy of modern war ships. There will be forty-three vessels in all, carrying 364 guns and manned by 11,094 officers and men.

Bullion Items.

Miss Myrtle Ebert visited friends in Bullion Friday. Monday's rain caused considerable hay to be damaged. Miss Carrie Passwater, visited her friend, Delia Howley, Sunday. Miss Etta Griffin from Kirksville is visiting friends in this vicinity.

Miss Diehl of Sperry, is the guest of her cousins, Ida and Maud McKinney. The many teachers of Bullion are preparing to attend the Institute at Kirksville.

Miss Mabel Griffith and sister, Mrs. Lula Attie, made Bullion a pleasant call Thursday. A large audience was in attendance at this place Sunday to witness the baptismal ceremony.

Mrs. McDowell and daughters, Zora and Zena of Kirksville, were the guests of Mrs. R. Nesbit from Saturday until Monday. Mr. and Mrs. W. Halladay of Sublette, visited Mrs. Halladay's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Draper, Saturday and Sunday.

With a Warner club one Saturday night and the Alliance the next the people expect to be well educated on political subjects. Mr. Hennon has been engaged by the board of directors to teach the next term of school at this place. As he comes highly recommended we have no doubt of his success.

Miss Polly Nesbit was tendered an elegant dinner by her parents Sunday in honor of her ninth birthday. Many of her little friends were present and a good time was enjoyed by all.

It is reported that the doors of the stock train No. 6, became unfastened and that twenty three head of cattle escaped. The country is being carefully scoured between Kirksville and Hurdland for the missing stock.

An Alliance club was organized at this place Saturday night with twelve members. C. W. Glasgow was elected president; M. Sikes, secretary; S. J. Shipler, Vice President. Messrs Star and Hicks favored the large audience with well appreciated speeches. The correspondent from this place will now say to the many GRAPHIC readers adieu for an indefinite time.

Green Grove Items.

We are having fine corn weather.

Nearly all the meadows in this vicinity are very light. Thomas Lawson starts out with his thrasher this week.

The oat crop is almost a failure in this neighborhood. Farmers are very busy making hay and plowing corn.

The Republicans met at the Grove this week to organize a campaign club.

Judge Husted and wife, of Putnam county, attended meeting at the Grove last Sunday.

Miss Mattie Nichols is selling out her stock of millinery goods at cost to quit the business.

William Matthews, who has been afflicted with inflammatory rheumatism for some time, is able to be out again.

Born to the wife of J. H. Vansickle July 11, a son. He is too young to vote for Harrison, but is a Republican just the same.

The basket meeting at the Grove last Sunday was largely attended. Among those present were several young people from Kirksville. The service was conducted by Rev. McDowell.

Greenestale Items.

We have had an abundance of rain of late. G. B. Burton was in the capital of Adair Tuesday.

Rev. St. Clair went to Brashear on business last Monday. The implement dealers here seem to be reaping a good harvest in the sale of reapers and mowers.

Miss Blanche Bedall returned from Chillicothe this week. She has been in the Conservatory of Music for some months. Most of the small grain is in the shock, and hay is being harvested all over the country. The prospect for a good corn crop is quite flattering.

Last Friday an old gentleman by the name of Sapp died at Stuckerville; his trouble was heart disease aggravated by an injury sustained by being thrown from a wagon a week before. There is considerable sickness in this community; much of it, however, is of a chronic nature. Mother Herbert, who has been helpless for years, seems to be near death's door; she is the wife of Rev. Father Herbert of the U. B. Church. Miss Willows, just north of town, who has been confined to her bed for nine years, is now unconscious most of the time. Mrs. Meals, just west of town, has been comparatively helpless for many months.

Labor and Law.

Statesmanship consists in procuring such an adjustment of our inter-social affairs as will make the labor of our producers exchangeable for the greatest possible volume of the necessities and luxuries of life, and in providing the producers with continual employments, that their continual wants may be supplied. To this end, all available employment should be given to our producers and no employment should be given to the competitive producers of other countries by permitting them to import their products into the United States, and offer them for sale in our markets, in competition with the products of American producers. Those of our producers who entertain this belief will cast their ballots for those who favor the enactment of adequate Protective Tariff laws.

Lippincott's Magazine for August. The complete novel entitled "The Martlet Seal," by Mrs. Jeanette H. Wallace, depicts with readable interest the strength of an old family feud that draws round it like a load stone sufficient of love, misunderstanding and strained friendship to make a striking tale. The novel is completely illustrated.

In the Journalist Series, John A. Cockerill talks of "The Newspaper of the Future" in a way that cannot fail to attract attention. Edgar Allan Poe, whose well-known interest and place in this branch of athletics insures his grasp of the subject, contributes to the Athletic Series, this month, a paper on "Intercollegiate Football."

How to Sing Without a Master.

And sing well, too, is not so difficult if you know how to cultivate your natural voice. It's all very well if you can afford to have the best teachers; but there are thousands who cannot afford to spend money for instructions, yet who could sing as well as the best if they only understood the underlying principles which everyone no matter how gifted by nature, has to learn. The article "How to sing without a Master," published in August's Family Magazine for August, explains these principles in clear, untechnical language, also gives simple rules for exercising the voice; and anyone practicing these rules will soon notice a marked improvement in its quality and strength. "Flower Missions and Their Work" is an interesting and very suggestive paper, beautifully illustrated, and every one who reads it will appreciate flowers at a truer value, and realize how much even the lowliest blossoms mean to those unfortunate creatures who are deprived of them. There is a characteristic story by Ella Wheeler Wilcox, "Why Forthright Did not Mary the Widow," and a humorous one, "Letting the Stable," by Mary Kyle Dallas, besides other, grave and gay, which make this an especially enjoyable midsummer number. Mothers of boys will be interested in "A Boy's Room," and housekeepers will appreciate "French Methods of Cooking Peas;" all the departments are replete with good things while about 20 illustrations, a fine water-color, and a lovely full-page gravure represent the artistic quota. Every number of this ideal Family Magazine equally good, and the subscription price only $2 a year, or 20 cents a copy. Published by W. Jennings Demorest, 15 E. 14th St., New York City.
