

WEEKLY GRAPHIC.

KIRKSVILLE, MISSOURI, FRIDAY, OCT., 19, 1894.

VOL. XV, NO. 2

$1.00 PER ANNUM.

PHYSICIANS.

J. W. MARTIN,

Physician and Surgeon.

OFFICE—B. F. H. entry's Drug Store North side

DR. A. T. NOE,

Homoeopathist

KIRKSVILLE, MO.

Office hours 9 to 12 a. m. 2 to 5 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m. Sundays 9 to 10 a. m. and 3 to 4 p. m. Office over Normal Book Store.

L. J. CONNER,

Physician and Surgeon.

OFFICE—Sperry, Mo. Will attend calls day and night.

O. W. AVERY,

Eclectic Physician

Will give special attention to the treatment of chronic diseases. Office in rear of Union Bank, down stairs. Office hours from 8:30 a. m. to 12 and 1 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

DR. T. H. BOSCOV,

KIRKSVILLE, MO.

FROM THE

10th to the 24th of Each Month.

He treats chronic or long standing disease successfully, especially diseases of the lungs, throat, stomach, heart, liver, kidneys, etc. Nerve affections and all diseases arising from impure blood. Office two doors east of Hightower's shoe store.

J. F. RICE,

Physician and Surgeon

OFFICE—In rear of Goben building, up stairs.

G. A. GOBEN,

G. H. NICHOLS

Res. 601 McPherson street. Res. East Harrison St. (Union Church)

GOBEN & NICHOLS,

Physician and Surgeon.

OCCULISTS AND OPTICIANS.

They will attend calls at all hours.

J. F. SNYDER,

Physician and Surgeon.

OFFICE—Over Fowler's drug store. Attends all calls in city or country.

H. J. RANKIN,

PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON

OFFICE—Over First National Bank.

C. M. WILCOX,

Physician and Surgeon.

Will attend calls at all hours. Millard, Mo.

ATTORNEYS.

R. R. DUNKIN, L. L. B.

Attorney and Counselor at Law.

KIRKSVILLE, MO.

OFFICE WITH A. D. RIBDON, IN 1ST NATIONAL BANK BUILDING.

P. F. GREENWOOD,

Attorney-at-law

KIRKSVILLE, MO.

OFFICE—Over Savings Bank

INSURANCE.

1873 THE 1894

OLD RELIABLE INSURANCE

AND LOAN AGENCY

J. C. WEAVER,

Has passed into the best of successful business. It has paid thousands of dollars for losses. No losses unpaid or unadjusted. MORAL—If you want pay for your losses in fire, lightning, or wind storms, insure with the Old Reliable, 400 North 2d Square, Kirksville, Mo.

DR. B. C. AXTELL,

Surgeon and Mechanic Dentist

Is thoroughly prepared to do all professional work in the most modern and durable manner and at reasonable prices. Prices reasonable on gold, silver and aluminum plates. No pain in extracting or filling of teeth. Endorsed by both the dental and medical associations.

Will attend to all cases for adults and children.

PENSIONS

THE DISABILITY BILL IS A LAW.

Soldier Disabled Since the War are Entitled.

Dependent widows and parents now depend upon the government, prosecuted with the most skill and successfully prosecuted, address

JAMES TANNER.

JOHN M. DAVIS,

Pensions and Claim Agent

Pensions, Bounties and all other claims against the government, prosecuted with the most skill and successfully prosecuted, address

LOVE AND MONEY.

Tom Tarbox knew how to read and write, after a fashion. How he came by those accomplishments no one was quite sure; it was a mystery even to himself.

Besides this he knew all about a ship—not because he had studied navigation in any college whatever but because, beginning as cabin-boy, he slowly fought his way up to the honorable post of captain.

"Captain and owner," he was proud to say, "of the Sally Tarbox."

Sally was his wife's name, and his wife had been a plump, good-natured, sailor's daughter, who wore hoop-rings in her little brown ears, and was rather too fond of scarlet ribbons and blue bead necklaces to be a model of gentility.

When they were married she felt quite content with her little front room in a riverward street, and indeed was more than satisfied with the glories which two green, papier mache parrots and a bunch of white coral, to say nothing of a live parrot in a pewter cage, and a tea-tray, straight from china, with a chinese lady in out-of-door costume upon it, lent to the establishment.

But that was when Tom Tarbox was "before the mast," and she had left him long ago, and Captain Tarbox's daughter had other notions.

They lived in another quarter of the city now, and in their parlor were ornaments which put the parrots to blush, and people said Captain Tarbox was immensely rich, and would leave his daughter an heiress of the first magnitude when he left the world at all.

Pretty and an heiress, she had plenty who called themselves friends, of course. She was a belle in the circle to which her wealth had introduced her, and perhaps her head was a little turned by the flattery she received. A good girl at heart, she was yet easily blinded by show and glitter, and very apt to judge people by their coats and the houses in which they dwelt and indeed, had dropped more than one good soul who, in the humbler days of her life, had not been held so lightly.

Moreover, she had grown to be not quite so well pleased when following in her father's wake on his return from any voyage, she saw that handsome, sunburned mate of his, Jack Thompson.

She had known Jack almost all her life, and once she had been very fond of him. She liked him still, and knew that he was manly and handsome and well educated. She knew, too, that wherever he went his first thought was to find some dainty gift for her on his home-coming.

Wonderfully carved fans, and ivory bracelets, and curious earrings, and mysterious work-boxes, and birds of rare plumage, and shells of delicate tints and beautiful shapes, had Jack Thompson bestowed on her. And there had been a time when she had believed that her father's wish might come to pass, and Jack Thompson become her husband, but with the elegant house in the fashionable square had arisen other ideas.

So, during one of her father's longest voyages, she permitted Augustus Vandewater, Esq., who had, by slow degrees, become her beau ideal of manly perfection, to slip an engagement ring upon her slender finger and gave him permission to "ask papa," in the most approved fashion.

Consequently, when Captain Tarbox arrived, grand news awaited him—news that made him peek over his face and wrinkle his brows and growl indignantly:

"Why didn't you ask me first?" said the captain. "That puppy! Lord love you! What do you women see in a fellow like that! That ain't men, according to my reckoning—only gals, in wrong clothes! Him!"

"He adores me, papa," said Kitty, melting into tears. "And I should die if you were cruel. Do consent, papa!"

"And how about Jack Thompson?" asked the captain.

At this Kitty curled her lip.

"It was not Jack's affair," she murmured.

"Jack loves you better than his life," said the captain. "I've as much as given him to understand that I'll have no objections. Why if I was a girl, I'd have Jack Thompson before any other fellow on earth. I'd trusted my daughter in that man's hands as I would a ship. As for this fellow, the only use you could make of him in the time of a storm would be to throw him overboard to lighten the ship and by the Lord Harry, his weight wouldn't make much difference. Poor Jack! Think it over, now Kitty!"

But Kitty was firm, and she was the captain's pet, and though the old man gave his consent very reluctantly, still he gave it at last. And poor Jack Thompson heard the news with a sad heart, and sailed away to sea again with the Captain.

This time the captain's voyage was but a short one. He returned quite unexpectedly one day, with something unpleasant evidently upon his mind. He made no explanation to his daughter at first, but sat with his hat on, in a very disconsolate mood. He was well enough, he said, when Kitty asked him.

And after this statement he groaned and said:

"Poor lass!"

"Perhaps," thought Kitty, "it is all about my engagement. Jack was such a favorite!"

She was so sure of this that she felt nervous about mentioning the fact that Augustus Vandewater was anxious that she should "name the day," but she did at last, and was surprised to receive for answer:

"The sooner the better, lass—the sooner the better. Yes, yes, I'll talk to the young fellow when he comes."

And as the "young fellow" arrived almost on the moment, the captain shook hands with him warmly enough, and they sat down together very amicably.

The weather was discussed, also other ordinary topics which are spoken of as a matter of course when people meet each other in morning calls, and then young Augustus, who was one of the order of exquisites who cannot speak without as many gasps as are emitted by a dying dolphin, began to hint at the grand subject under consideration:

"Had Miss Kitty—ah—ah—mentioned—ah—the object of, in fact, of this call—ah?"

"I've heard that you are anxious to be spliced as soon as possible, my lad," said the captain, "and I've just told Kitty that, that, as things stand to-day, I don't care how soon the affair is settled. Sail into the harbor of matrimony in a week, if you like. I've got to leave home again and I'd rather leave her under some one's care." And the captain groaned.

"Ah!—your health—ah! life is very—ah! uncertain!" said Augustus Vandewater, Esq., with a thought of the captain's will at his heart. "A seafaring life—ah rather—ah, dangerous!"

"My health is perfect," said the captain, "and your Jack is as safe at sea as on land, for that matter. But, you see, something has happened. I've sprung a leak in a gale, and a wreck has come of it. To tell the truth, plain enough for a marine to understand it, I've been speculating without knowing what I was about, and I've lost every penny I possessed. I'm as poor to-day as Job's turkey, and naturally I'm glad to see Kitty settled, for I shan't have a cent to give her, and I'm not young enough to make another fortune."

Here the captain arose.

"Settle the day, between ye," he said. "I'll leave ye together," and he rushed out of the room.

Kitty sunk upon a sofa and burst into tears.

Augustus Vandewater, Esq.,

stood near her with a peculiar expression upon his face.

"It's very distressing, he said, 'Pon my word I sympathize with you. I—ah—couldn't trouble you to talk about that little matter at so distressing a moment. I am—I believe delirium requires me to depart; au revoir.'"

And Augustus Vandewater, Esq., vanished.

The captain heard of this with a slight chuckle and Kitty waited his return quite in vain.

In a week the captain and his daughter had gone back to the old second floor, in the riverward street, and there, with one painted furniture the plaster parrots, the bunch of white coral, and other belongings, which had been the pride of the late Mrs. Tarbox's heart, began anew life.

And thither, despite Kitty's hopes, Augustus Vandewater, Esq., did not come to offer his fortune to the impoverished heiress.

Kitty waited for a long while, and then plucked up pride enough to enclose Vandewater's ring in a very contemptuous note, and sent it back to him, and after that instead of pining away, she took heart of grace, and solved to despise those butter-fles of fashion who had courted her society in the elegant establishment over which she had once presided, and who never found their way to the riverward street and the tumble rooms upon the second floor.

But thither, once again, Jack Thompson came often. Coming in after those long voyages with his curious gifts from foreign lands, showing always the kindness and gallantry which a true sailor always shows to women who are worthy of it, and showing more than this, a true and constant love which might have been any woman's pride to win.

And Kitty, separated from the throng of fashion-votaries whose glitter had blinded her, saw Jack Thompson's worth, grew to be very, very fond of him, and at last gave him her art and hand, feeling that all hardships had been blessings in disguise—had brought her to the happy end.

They were married very quietly in the morning, and in the evening Captain Tax proposed "a walk and some cream," and the young couple assented. The captain seemed in a very merry mood and full of important secret. He trudged ahead, followed by the happy pair, through one of the riverward streets to those elegant quarters the city which had once been Kitty's lot to inhabit, and finally stopped before the very house which had been theirs. It was brightly lighted up from roof to floor.

"They're having a party, it seems," said the captain. "Ah, now, if we only lived here, eh? Different quarter from what we left, eh? Oh, li love ye! It's enough to make man envious."

"No matter, pa," said Kitty, "we are very happy now. I don't care to change. Where are you going?" For the captain was ascending the steps.

"In," said the captain, "come along."

Kitty and Jack stood confounded. It entered their mind that, having had nothing to drink future prosper to the young couple in, the gentlemen might have taken a good punch.

"I beg you, captain," he began.

But the captain roared:

"You lubber! Don't disobey orders. We expected here."

And at that moment the door opened, and the hall were arranged all the servants, smiling and courtage welcome.

"What does mean?" cried Kitty.

"What cat mean!" cried Jack.

"It means I haven't been ruined, that's," said the captain. "This is mine and has never been to anybody else. And it's more, Jack Thompson, thally Tarbox belongs to me and there wasn't a bit of truth that I told you about being hired to navigate her, out of compassion, by the new owner. I played a trick, for Kitty's sake, on more than one I know of. I reckoned that land lubber had an eye to Kitty's fortune, and I proved it true. But I gave the same sance to both ganders, and you Jack Thompson, never guessed Kitty was still an heiress. If she isn't thankful to me now, her eyes belie her.

And Kitty's eyes did not belie her, for in her heart she was thanking Heaven for her escape from a fortune-hunter, and wondering how she ever could have cared for anyone but Jack Thompson, the least in the world.

And in her own room Kitty found her handsome wardrobe, and was soon dressed for the splendid wedding supper, to which the captain had invited all those good souls—friends of the past—who had been elegant enough for Kitty in her first elevation of fashionable life, and everyone admitted that on the whole, it was the merriest wedding supper ever eaten, and that thenceforth Kitty and Jack were the two happiest people on earth.

Shun Debt.

It is better to live in some discomfort, than to live in the fear of creditors whose bills we are not able to pay. If a man is in easy circumstances the bland tradesmen urges you to buy and "pay when you please." If you are poor and your character for honesty and integrity is above reproach and you borrow on that, you pawn your character. If a man has the courage to say, "no," when he is tempted to go in debt; he may have to suffer some privations; perhaps he may feel somewhat keenly his want, but he will not imperil his honor nor suffer the worry and discomfort of dunning creditors.

Indirectly men incur indebtedness that ruin them. To do a friend a favor by the use of your name is often necessary in business. It is simply complying with the form of a business contract. He needs money, and to borrow it requires security. Still the responsibility for the entire sum rests on the security which he must pay if the principal fails. Some of the best and most honorable men have been ruined by accommodating their friends. We do not advise against security in all cases, because that would make a radical change necessary in the business world, or stop a large amount of business transactions, but it is foolish in the extreme to accommodate a friend at the expense of your own ruin.

It would be better in all cases to give your friend money, if you have it, not in a situation to safely secure him. We think the following rules would prevent a vast amount of financial disaster:

"Never borrow where there is a chance, however remote, that you will not be able to pay. Never lend what you are not prepared to give. Never guarantee for another what you cannot fulfill if the other should fail." In this way your financial condition cannot be seriously embarrassed.

Clinton, Missouri.

Mr. A. L. Armstrong, an old druggist, and a prominent citizen of this enterprising town, says: "I sell some forty different kinds of cough medicines, but have never in my experience sold so much of any one article as I have of Ballard's Horehound Syrup. All who use it say it is the most perfect remedy for Cough, Cold, Consumption, and all diseases of the Throat and Lungs, they have ever tried." It is a specific for Croup and Whooping Cough. It will relieve a Cough in one minute. Contains no opiates. Sold by Fout & Chesney.

The largest building stones are those used in the cyclopean walls of Baalbec, in Syria, some of which measure 63 feet in length by 26 in breadth, and are of unknown depth.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue and authority of a special execution on a judgment for delinquent taxes, issued from the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court of Adair County, Missouri, returnable at the October term 1894, of said Court, to me directed, in favor of William Meeks, collector of the revenue of Adair county, Missouri, and against S. P. Jenkins, I have levied upon and seized all the right, title, interest and estate of the said S. P. Jenkins of and to the following described real estate situate in Adair County, Missouri, to-wit:

Ten (10) acres, the South East fourth of the South West fourth of the North East quarter of Section Twenty-six (26) Township Sixty-two (62) of Range Sixteen (16) and I will on Saturday the 27th day of October 1894 between the hours of 9 o'clock a. m. and five o'clock p. m. of that day, while the Circuit court for Adair county, Missouri, is in session, at the Court House door, in Kirksville, Adair county, Missouri, sell the same, or so much thereof as may be required, at public sale, to the highest bidder for cash in hand, to satisfy said execution and costs.

GEO. W. RUPE,
Sheriff Adair County, Mo.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue and authority of a special execution on a judgment for delinquent taxes issued from the office of the clerk of the circuit court of Adair county, Missouri, returnable at the October term, 1894, of said court, to me directed, in favor of William Meeks, collector of the revenue for Adair county Missouri and against John B. Marquess, I have levied upon and seized all the right, title, interest and estate of the said John B. Marquess of, in and to the following described real estate situated in Adair county, Missouri, to-wit:

5 acres the west half of the east fourth of the southwest fourth of the south west quarter of section twenty-seven (27) township sixty-three (63) of range fourteen (14), and I will, on Saturday the 27th day of October, 1894, between the hours of nine o'clock a. m. and five o'clock p. m. of that day, while the circuit court for Adair county, Missouri, is in session, at the court house door, in Kirksville Adair county Missouri, sell the same, or so much thereof as may be required, at public sale to the highest bidder for cash in hand, to satisfy said execution and costs.

GEO. W. RUPE,
Sheriff Adair County, Mo.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue and authority of a special execution, on a judgment for delinquent taxes, issued from the office of the clerk of the circuit court of Adair county, Missouri, returnable at the October term, 1894, of said court, to me directed, in favor of William Meeks collector of the revenue of Adair county, Missouri, and against Charles S. Parcels, Milton L. Parcels and H. S. Parcels I have levied upon and seized all the right, title, interest and estate of the said Charles S. Parcels, Milton L. Parcels and H. S. Parcels of, in and to the following described real estate situate in Adair county, Missouri, to-wit:

The northwest fourth of the southwest quarter of section thirty five (35), township sixty two (62) of range sixteen (16) and I will, on Saturday the 27th day of October, 1894, between the hours of nine o'clock a. m. and five o'clock p. m. of that day, while the circuit court for Adair county, Missouri, is in session, at the court house door, in Kirksville, Adair county, Missouri, sell the same, or so much thereof as may be required, at public sale to the highest bidder for cash in hand, to satisfy said execution and costs.

G. W. RUPE,
Sheriff Adair County, Mo.

J. C. Storm, Atty. for Plaintiff.

Notice of Final Settlement.

STATE OF MISSOURI, } s.s.
County of Adair, }
Final Settlement of the estate of Kishah Burton, deceased. Notice is hereby given to all creditors and others interested in the estate of Kishah Burton, deceased, that I, John Burton, executor of said estate, intend to make final settlement thereof at the next term of the Probate Court of Adair county, to be held at Kirksville, on the 12th day of November, 1894.

JOHN BURTON,
Administrator.

Shiloh's Cure the great Cough and croup cure is in great demand. Pocket size contains twenty-five doses, only 25c. Children love it Sold by McKeehan & Reed, druggists.

We forget the sunlight when we notice the shadow.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue and authority of a special execution on a judgment for delinquent taxes issued from the office of the clerk of the circuit court of Adair county, Missouri, returnable at the October term 1894, of said court, to me directed, in favor of William Meeks collector of the revenue for Adair county and against John Ford, I have levied upon and seized all the right, title, interest and estate of the said John Ford, of, in and to the following described real estate situate in Adair county, Missouri, to-wit:

The undivided two thirds of lots five (5) and six (6) in block four (4) in Falkenstein's addition to city of Kirksville, Adair county, Missouri, and I will, on Saturday the 27th day of October 1894, between the hours of nine o'clock a. m. and five o'clock p. m. of that day, while the circuit court for Adair county, Missouri, is in session, at the court house door, in Kirksville, Adair county, Missouri, sell the same, or so much thereof as may be required, at public sale, to the highest bidder for cash in hand, to satisfy said execution and costs.

G. W. RUPE,
Sheriff Adair County Mo.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue and authority of a special execution, on a judgment for delinquent taxes issued from the office of the clerk of the circuit court of Adair county, Missouri, returnable at the October term, 1894, of said court, to me directed, in favor of William Meeks, collector of the revenue of Adair county, Missouri, and against Samuel T. Devold and Adair county, Missouri, I have levied upon and seized all the right, title, interest and estate of the said Samuel T. Devold and Adair county, Missouri, of, in and to the following described real estate in Adair county, Missouri, to-wit:

Southwest quarter of the southwest quarter of the northeast quarter of section No. twenty four (24), township sixty-two (62) of range seventeen (17), and I will, on Saturday the 27th day of October, 1894, between the hours of nine o'clock a. m. and five o'clock p. m. of that day, while the circuit court of Adair county, Missouri, is in session, at the court house door, in Kirksville, Adair county, Missouri, sell the same, or so much thereof as may be required, at public sale, to the highest bidder for cash in hand, to satisfy said execution and costs.

G. W. RUPE,
Sheriff Adair County Mo.

Sheriff's Sale.

By virtue and authority of a special execution on a judgment for delinquent taxes issued from the office of the clerk of the circuit court of Adair county, Missouri, returnable at the October term, 1894, of said court, to me directed, in favor of William Meeks, collector of the revenue for Adair county Missouri and against Oliver D. Barto, Jasper Sibole, James Morgan, Samuel M. Pickler, the unknown heirs of Abraham Slingerland, and the unknown heirs of H. S. Lipscomb, I have levied upon and seized all the right, title, interest and estate of the said Oliver Barto, Jasper Sibole, Jas. Morgan, Samuel M. Pickler, the unknown heirs of Abraham Slingerland and the unknown heirs of H. S. Lipscomb, of, in and to the following described real estate situate in Adair county, Missouri, to-wit:

40 acres the north east quarter of the southwest quarter of section six (6), township sixty three (63) of range sixteen (16), and I will, on Saturday the 27th day of October 1894, between the hours of nine o'clock a. m. and five o'clock p. m. of that day, while the circuit court for Adair county, Missouri, is in session, at the court house door, in Kirksville, Adair county Missouri, sell the same, or so much thereof as may be required, at public sale, to the highest bidder for cash in hand, to satisfy said execution and costs.

G. W. RUPE,
Sheriff Adair county Mo.

J. C. Storm, Attorney for Plaintiff.

Karl's clover root will purify your blood, clear your complexion, regulate your bowels and make your head clear as a bell 25c, 50c and $1.00 McKeehan & Reed.

The more we do to help others the lighter our burdens will become.

Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego, Cal., says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good." Price 50c McKeehan & Reed.