

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

BILIOUSNESS AND CONSTIPATION CURED BY THEFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Because the liver is neglected people suffer with constipation, biliousness, headaches and fevers. Colds attack the lungs and contagious diseases take hold of the system. It is safe to say that if the liver were always kept in proper working order, illness would be almost unknown.

Theford's Black-Draught is so successful in curing such sickness because it is without a rival as a liver regulator. This great family medicine is not a strong and drastic drug, but a mild and healthful laxative that cures constipation and may be taken by a mere child without possible harm.

The healthful action on the liver cures biliousness. It has an invigorating effect on the kidneys. Because the liver and kidneys do not work regularly, the poisonous acids along with the waste from the bowels get back into the blood and virulent contagion results.

Timely treatment with Theford's Black-Draught removes the dangers which lurk in constipation, liver and kidney troubles, and will positively forestall the inroads of Bright's disease, for which disease in advanced stages there is no cure. Ask your dealer for a 25c. package of Theford's Black-Draught.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Our Regular Correspondent Writes From the National Capitol.

Hon. Champ Clark, a member of congress from Missouri, selected a more popular theme for his wit in the advocacy of higher pay for the school teachers of the district of Columbia than he frequently has the good fortune to exploit. There are few men or women in the United States, remembering their own school days, who do not believe the teachers who drilled knowledge into their heads were entitled to higher pay than they got, and of that great army who have been school teachers, not a dissenting voice to the teachers' right to higher pay could be found. Champ Clark himself belongs to this army, and in language vivid, if not Addisonian, he described to the house of representatives his experiences and opinions. He informed congress and the country that he was a teacher at fifteen and the president of a college at twenty-three years of age. If Macaulay were still alive he might add Champ Clark to the list of his "warnings to the eminent and consolations to the obscure," with the explanation that Byron and Bonaparte were scarcely in it with Mr. Clark, for they were twenty-four and twenty-five, respectively, when they had achieved fame, while Mr. Clark was president of a college at twenty-three. Inasmuch as Mr. Clark was president only one year, it may be presumed that the college saw in time the injustice it was doing the nation in keeping him out of politics. The school ma'ams did not get the increase of salary demanded, but they had saved money enough to buy bouquiers for Mr. Clark, and his desk at the capitol was covered with their tributes of appreciation.

The army appropriation bill has passed, and through the efforts of Senator Lodge and other near friends of the president, the appropriation has been made so as to allow full pay to General Miles, notwithstanding he will be drawing pay on the military staff of Governor Douglass, of Massachusetts. During the debate on the army bill; Senator Hale, of Maine, who is perhaps the star grumbler of the senate, took occasion to criticize with great severity the army staff bill which was passed at the last session of congress through the urgent efforts of ex-Secretary Root, and bitterly opposed by General Miles. It is well known that under the old system the official corps of our army was about as obsolete in its organization and about as ineffective in its action as would be an old flint lock musket for military purposes. All Asia, to say nothing of Europe, had adopted a far more modern and effective system, but the old system finds its eulogist in such boudoir strategists as Senator Hale, of Maine. It came out in the debate that he had had to wait ten minutes, or to "cool his heels," as he expressed it, in an office of the war department for an interview with one of the military officers appointed under the new law. 'Twas not always thus," and Senator Hale looks back on a time when he did not have to complain of "cold feet."

President Roosevelt continues to make speeches and write letters to everybody and on every subject. It is almost marvelous that any man can talk and write so much and make so few breaks. A deputation of Episcopal bishops charged with anti-divorce thunder called on him Friday and he told them in substance that he was with them in everything that tended to the promotion of family ties and home stabilities and large families. The president has been twice married and is the father of six children, so that doubtless he feels equipped to have a heart to heart talk with the nation on its marital affairs whenever the opportunity presents. The Washington clergyman who said that while he was an ardent admirer of the president, he could wish that Roosevelt was not so bent on being the "father of us all," is probably not surprised to find him expressing himself on the divorce problem. Having undertaken to adjust strikes, trusts, railroads, the tariff, the navy, the currency and the size of our families, he probably regards the divorce question as "dead easy," but as a senator said, "The man who is competent to talk about divorce is the man who has procured a divorce or tried and failed, and a happily married man has no more right to dictate divorce laws than bachelors have to make rules for the care of babies." Whether this is logical or not is difficult to say, but the bishops regard the work of securing the president as an accomplice in virtue as the most important accomplishment of their conference here.

Senators Hale and Bacon, who, in a spasm of jealousy for the rights of the senate, temporarily forgot the constitution of the United States, or thought the president was about to set it aside in his transaction with the little republic of San Domingo, have had their timid apprehensions allayed by a communication from the state department. The new relations between the countries by which the United States will assume the right to administer the affairs of Santo Domingo cannot be brought about without a treaty, and in due course of events the senate must give its consent to the treaty. That it will also give its advice, no one acquainted with that deliberate and verbose body will doubt. Senators Bacon and Hale will yet be heard from.
