C. C. Bigger has moved his law office from the Allen building to the Benson building and is now occupying the room just back of the bank on the ground floor. The new room makes him neat and commodious quarters with plenty of light and air.

Letter From California

EDITOR OF THE BLADE:

Perusing the columns of THE BLADE causes a hankering for the old town. I note the very important improvements that have been and are being made in and around your city, and conclude if I ever leave California I will steer right for Laclède. With your improved walks, electric lights, telephone and the many new buildings all together must give quite a metropolitan appearance. Am really glad to note the enterprise and push of your people.

So many of my old and much esteemed friends of Laclède have passed to the Great Beyond that but few are left, still those who remain have not been forgotten, and don't forget I would enjoy a hand shake all around the place.

We came to California in February, last; stopped in Riverside county a few months and then came to San Diego, September 1st. We like this city for the climate and, the beautiful flowers which gladden the hearts all the year, and we expect to remain here 'till we are called home. The city has improved in building so it does not look much as it did four years ago, with its hundreds of large, fine hotels, etc., and more being built. The population has increased from about 40,000 to about 90,000 in the same time.

We attended a meeting of the Missourian residents in this city a week ago, and while there were not very many out owing to the fact that but few had noticed the call, it was stated that there were about seven hundred Missourians living in San Diego, and I learn that most of the western states have as many or more.

Am glad to see that the old editor is back in the chair again. Congratulations to the editor and the patrons—nothing against the other, however.

The exposition grounds and buildings are taking shape rapidly. We live about six squares from Balboa park where the fair will be opened January 1, 1915, to continue the entire year. 'Twill be a big affair, and we expect to see many familiar faces during its continuance.

Say, isn't Wm. M. Lomax getting gay in his declining years, or maybe he is not declining. Regards to everybody and if any Laclèdeites should come to San Diego this winter will be glad to have them call on

Yours truly,
J. H. BRUNEMER,
3911 University Blvd.
San Diego, Cali.

History repeats itself. Harper's Weekly has brought to light the fact that our pure food law labels are old and antique. In 909 B. C., the ancient Hebrews made the wholesale grocers and wine dealers of their day put such seals and labels on their wine and oil jars. They stated when the wine was deposited in the cellars and where the wine came from. On the oil jars the label read "A jar of pure oil," with the name of the district producing it. Seventy-five of these records were found. They show that even in the days of King Ahab the government protected the stomachs of its citizens.

Voice Improved. Children should be encouraged to read aloud regularly, and others can cultivate a charming speaking voice by reading aloud at least one hour a day.

Overheard in Washington. Wives of great men remind us of it pretty often—Woman's Home Companion.

Two Classes. All men may be divided into two classes—those who like vasodiville and those who can stand it when they are drunk.—Smart Set.

Some Evening Reveries

As Thanksgiving day is drawing near it might reflect some light on the event of its observance by giving the small boy's composition relating thereto: "Thanksgiving was brought over from England by the Puritan fathers in the year 1620. It has staid here ever since. On Thanksgiving everybody goes to church in the morning so as to have everything out of the way before dinner. Then you come home and hang around a little while and get awful hungry smelling the turkey. After dinner Thanksgiving is over."

Life is too short to give up all to business and nothing to pleasure and rest. Too many people defraud their stomach, head and heart until they have made a competency. When they expect to enjoy the pleasure of life they are generally too old, or their greed for money has dried up all the well springs of their being and they are incapable of enjoyment. Devote your business hours to business and your leisure hours to innocent pleasure and wholesome amusement and the cultivation of such things as will make life pleasant.

One of the greatest curses of this intellectual age is the great lack of a proper education of our girls in the practical affairs of every day life. They all want to be "school marms," governesses or the wives of rich men. Housework, which should form the basic principle of our economic life, is shunned by them as something degrading. A young woman will stand behind a dry goods counter fourteen hours a day for a mere pittance—not enough to clothe her—lose her health become anaemic and unfitted for the performance of her natural duties, rather than accept a position as a domestic where she would have a comfortable home, good health, and become properly fitted for the duties of a wife and mother.

Patronize progressive people if you wish to see a prosperous community. Money spent with silurian is like wasting fertilizer on a bed of rock instead of sowing it over soil that will enrich the world with a more luxuriant production. The money that is paid to enterprising people builds new houses, makes beautiful lawns, relieves the needy, and is always on the move. Lively times, progress and prosperity are thus secure.

Clothes betray us. They tell the world just what we are, like characters upon the stage. Cinderella without her rags would not be Cinderella at all and Perriets would not be recognized if garbed in sailors togs. Since clothes are the outward sign let us make them give a good account of us. Let us dress well. Poor clothes make us look poor—rich raiment reflect their glories and since it costs no more to do it—Then Why Be Otherwise—Be Taylor Made—Let Taylor, the great Chicago tailor, make your clothes.
