

A new society has been launched, having for its object the greater dissemination of the principles of the gospel among the masses of the people. The New York Observer has the following concerning it:—Three hundred men from various parts of the country, of nine different denominations, met at Cleveland last week, with Chief Justice Chase presiding, and then and there constituted a Commission of sixty to prosecute the work of evangelizing the masses. It is made the duty of the Commission to collect and diffuse information adapted to stir up the hearts of Christians everywhere to increased activity in the relief, rescue and salvation of men; to suggest methods which extended observation, comparison and experience have proved best adapted to these various ends; as far as possible to call forth and increase the voluntary, unpaid services of individuals in the Master's vineyard; to devise plans for the training and employment of woman's talent in the various spheres of Christian labor; to be a medium between Christian laborers and those who desire their services, whether churches, public institutions, societies or individuals; to reinforce, in every appropriate way, all forms of Christian effort and charitable work, and extend the blessings of the Gospel to all men, even the most abandoned.

Rev. John C. F. Hoze, has been pastor of the First Reform Dutch Church in Kingston, N. Y., for twenty years. On the 17th ult., the 20th anniversary, the members of this congregation and numerous friends met at his house to tender him their congratulations upon the completion of so long a cycle of faithful and successful ministry, and as a farther testimony of their esteem, presented him with an elegant gold watch and chain with appropriate inscriptions.

The Protestant Dutch Church at Port Richmond, Staten Island, N. Y., has reached its two hundredth anniversary. An appropriate sermon was delivered on the occasion by Rev. Jas. Brownlee.

The Jefferson City Times says that Father Miller, the Catholic Priest at that place, was arrested on Friday of last week, for violating the law. He was required this time to file a bond in the sum of five thousand dollars. He preached again on last Sunday.

It is stated that the town of Winchester, Virginia, was occupied by the Union and Confederate forces, successively, seventy six times.

One of the four gunboats designed for service on the Lakes, is rapidly approaching completion at Tonawanda. She is expected to be ready for the trial trip in about six weeks.

DEATH OF A WORTHY CITIZEN.—It is with feelings of pain that we announce the death of Dr. William Price. He died at his residence in Arrow Rock Township, on last Saturday, the 30th ult. Saline county has lost one of her most public spirited citizens, and society at large one of its best and firmest supporters.—[Saline Progress 6th.]

NORTHERN MEN AT THE SOUTH.—The Richmond Republican says the old feeling of prejudice against residents of the Northern States is rapidly giving place among the masses to a hearty welcome to all who come to the South to become permanent and useful citizens. Northern capitalists, manufacturers, miners, mechanics, farmers and laborers of every description, not only meet with a cordial reception, but may depend upon golden returns to reward their enterprise and industry.

The Augusta (Ga.) Constitutionalist says that a party is springing into existence favoring a general repudiation of all private indebtedness.

An old criminal was once asked what was the first step that led to his ruin. He answered: "The first step was cheating the printer out of two years subscription.—When I had done that, the devil took such a grip on me that I could not shake him off."

Partial returns from the election in Ohio indicate the election of Cox (Union) as Governor by about 25,000 majority.

TO DRY SWEET CORN.—A correspondent of the Country Gentleman writes: "The question is asked, what is the best way to cure sweet corn? I usually prepare a good supply every year for winter, and do it in the following manner: I plant for a succession of crops every two weeks from early spring to the 4th or 10th of July. That which ripens near the last of September is dried. In good weather, then, the atmosphere is usually cool and dry, and if a good day is chosen the drying process is so speedy that it is past danger before the fermentation can take place. Gather the corn while in the best condition for eating, husk it, and boil ten minutes, or just sufficient to scald the starch it contains; cut or scrape the corn from the cobs immediately, and spread it upon sheets placed on a tolerably flat roof, inclining south or west, or upon a scaffold. If thus elevated from the ground it is not visited by flies. If put out, as it should be, early in the morning, by night it will be so dry as to be past danger from fermentation. If the night promises fair it is best to spread a sheet over it and let it remain, or it may be taken in and the cloth spread on the floor. Two days more of good sun will complete the drying, when it may be put into a linen bag, and hung up in a dry airy place. Some dry in stoves and ovens, but in this way it is liable to be scorched—nor is it as sweet and good dried in this way as when dried in the open air by the sun. Before cooking the corn should be put to soak the night previous, and placed where the temperature is warm. Prepared in this way it is hardly inferior to corn direct from the field."

The Constitutional Amendment.

The Amendment forever preventing slavery in the United States and Territories cannot become a part of the Constitution until ratified by the Legislatures of 27 States, Congress having proposed that mode of ratification to the States. See Article V of the Constitution as to the mode of amending it. Three more must be secured. It is highly important to secure it, if possible, before the end of next winter, so that Congress at its next session may complete the good work by appropriate legislation. The sooner it is done the sooner we shall have cordial peace and union in Church and State.

The Southern Conventions are now abolishing slavery in their respective States, but this action does not change, or in the least affect, the Constitution. When restored to their old place in the Union, with their Senators and Representatives in Congress, similar Conventions can restore slavery, either in its old form, or as serfdom or penance, unless the National Constitution shall, by the ratification of the Amendment, give Congress the power to prevent it.

In this appropriate Congressional legislation we do not speak of the right of suffrage for the blacks. That right is not essential to enjoyment of perfect freedom by them, any more than by women, or unnaturalized foreigners. It is now, and ought always to remain, exclusively a subject of State legislation, otherwise we shall suffer all the evils of a consolidated Government. We are earnestly in favor of extending the right of suffrage to all men who possess intelligence and character to qualify them for its proper exercise. But it is a matter belonging to the State only, and every patriot and loyal citizen must submit to the Constitution and support it.

But if the States of South Carolina, Alabama and Mississippi come forward, as they now do, and with great unanimity, declare slavery forever abolished, and proceed to legislate for universal freedom, it is surely time for New Jersey, Delaware and Kentucky to ratify the Amendment to the Constitution and make the whole land free to the end of time.—[N. Y. Observer.]

Fight Your Way Up.

The many who have to take the world rough and tumble are prone to envy the few who roll through it unjilted in cushioned vehicles on patent springs. The toiler as he stumbles through its thorny thickets, and limps over its foot blistering gravel, is apt to curse the ill luck that placed him on such a hard road, and to sigh for a seat in one of the splendid equipages that glide so smoothly over Fortune's macadamized turnpike. Born with a pewter spoon in his mouth, he covets the silver one which was the birth-gift of his do-nothing neighbor. The more fool he. Occupation is the "immediate jewel" of life. It is true that riches are no bar to exertion. Quite the reverse, when their uses are properly understood. But the discontented worker, who pines for wealth without being willing to labor for it, regards the idleness in which it would enable him to live as the acme of temporal happiness. He has no idea of money as a great motive power, to be applied in enterprises that give healthful employment to mind and body. All that he desires is to live a feather-bed life—to loaf luxuriously. We have no sympathy with such sensuous longings. People who indulge in them never acquire wealth. They lack the energy to break their way to the worldly independence for which they yearn and whine. They don't know how much more glorious it is to tear affluence from opposing fate by main strength of will and indomitable purpose than to receive it as a windfall. There is infinitely more satisfaction in conquering a fortune with brain and muscle than was ever experienced by a "lucky heir" in obtaining the golden store that some thriftier hand had accumulated. Your accidental Cressus knows nothing of the pride of success—of honest exultation with which the self-made man looks back upon the impediments he has overcome, and forward into the far future which he has earned the right to enjoy.

BE YOUR OWN RIGHT HAND MAN.

People who have been bolstered up and levered all their lives are seldom good for anything in a crisis. When misfortune comes they look around for somebody to cling to or lean upon. If the prop is not there down they go. Once down, they are as helpless as capsize turtles, or unhorsed men in armor, and they cannot gain their feet again without assistance. Such sicken fellows no more resemble self-made men, who have fought their way to position, and deriving determination from their defeat, than vines resemble oak, or spluttering rushlights the stars of Heaven. Efforts persisted to achievements train a man to self-reliance; and when he has proven to the world that he can trust himself, the world will trust him.

"Come till America, Pat!" writes a son of the Emerald Isle, to his friend in Ireland; "his a fine country to get a living in. All ye have to do is to get a three-cornered box and fill it with brick, and carry it till the top of a four-story building, and the man at the top does all the work."
