

League Social.

The Senior Endeavor Society of the Cumberland Presbyterian church gave a pumpkin pie social at the residence of Robert Reynolds on Odell avenue on Monday night, November 26th, which, for a rousing good time, would be hard to beat, and from 7:30 to 11 o'clock the hours passed merrily away.

There was a good musical program given by Miss Lucy Marshall and the Mandolin Club, composed of Miss Lella Hayes and brother, Russell, and Mr. Thomas, accompanied by Miss Mary Black on the piano, all of which was enjoyed.

Miss Ellyne Ward gave a recitation in her unusual happy manner, which was well received.

A novel way of selecting partners for the dining room was indulged in. A card bearing the name of some vegetable was pinned on each boy; the same vegetable spelled backward was pinned to each girl, and the locating of the parties caused considerable fun, as things look very different when seen backward. For instance, the word beet would look unlike itself as teeb.

In the dining room pumpkin pie and fruit were served in a very informal manner, after which games were enjoyed. Altogether, it was a most happy occasion.

Sunbeam Social.

The little Sunbeams of the Methodist church, South, gave a pumpkin pie social on Friday evening at the home of Rev. W. T. Clure on Brunswick avenue, which was a pleasant affair socially, and, only for the pouring rain, would have been a greater financial success. However, those who did brave the storm to attend, felt fully repaid for their efforts.

Distributed through the house, were a number of jack o'lanterns, some of which were fierce looking, indeed, while there were some whose faces were positively handsome. A big piece of pumpkin or lemon pie and a glass of sweet milk was served for the sum of 10 cents, and we learn from a lady who was present that the pies were delicious.

The entertainment will be repeated sometime in the near future, when we hope the weather will be more pleasant, and that the Sunbeams may realize a big sum of money for the cause of missions.

Wedding Reception at Blackburn.

An elegant reception was given on Thursday evening, November 22d, by Mrs. M. E. Elsea at her home near Blackburn, which was a fitting compliment to her son, Robert Elsea, and bride, who arrived in Blackburn on Thursday morning from Jackson county, where the wedding had taken place the day before.

Mrs. Elsea was assisted in receiving and entertaining the large number of guests present by her daughters, Misses Daisy and Ida, Mrs. Dameron of Chariton county, Mrs. Levi Billingsley and Mrs. Cliff Elsea. It is said to have been one of the most pleasant receptions every given in the county. Several hours were delightfully spent in the dining room, where an elegant luncheon was spread, consisting of all the good things of the season. The hour was late when the guests took their departure, each feeling that it had indeed been a happy occasion and one long to be remembered.

Among those present were: Enoch Colvert and wife, Joseph Hamill and wife, Henry Colvert and wife, A. F. Rector and wife, Frank Kays, M. Moore, Charles Sparks and wife and Levi Billingsley and wife.

Pleasantly Entertained.

Mrs. Leverette Leonard, who is always thinking of the pleasures of somebody, gave her son, Montgomery, a pleasant little surprise on Thursday evening, the occasion being the birthday of the young man, who, when he reached home in the evening fully absorbed in the business cares of the day just passed, had forgotten that he upon this day had reached the end of another mile stone until reminded of the fact by his mother and the following chums, who met him in the dining room when dinner was announced: Josh Barbee, George N. Davis and Will Armentrout.

The dinner served did honor to the occasion, and the time was delightfully spent by the host and his guests.

Duplicate Whist.

The following young ladies are unanimous in saying that one of the most pleasant afternoons of the season was spent on Thursday with Miss Gertrude Brown, at her home on East Arrow street, where duplicate whist was the diversion of the afternoon:

Misses Fannie Wood, Jessie Sparks, Anne Hawkins, Dean Robertson, Nadine and Mabel Fisher and Stella Hicks.

Refreshments of old-fashioned delicacies, ginger bread and cider, were enjoyed at the close of the game.

Arrow Street Family Reunion.

Among the pleasant gatherings of the Thanksgiving season will be the family reunion on Thursday at the home of Major N. C. Orear on East Arrow street, where the large family of sons and daughters, with their children, will gather together in true Southern style. It having been several years since the brothers and sisters have all met at the old home, it no doubt will be an occasion long to be remembered.

The following persons are expected: Ed T. Orear and family and Robert Orear and family of Jefferson City, Harry Orear of St. Louis, Charles Orear and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Orear and family of Orearville and Judge Orear, wife and daughter, Virginia, of this city.

A Game of Smut.

A delightful evening was spent on Thursday by a congenial few at the home of Miss Martha Rea, where numerous old-fashioned games were indulged in, after which several kinds of candy were made, the making of which provided as much pleasure as the eating of it.

Last but not least of the amusements was the game of "smut," and what has ever been invented that is more ridiculous than this game of smut?

Refreshments were served during the evening by Miss Martha to the following persons: Leonard VanDyke, Minnie Murrell, Charles Chapline, Fannie Kincaid and Will Rea.

Union Teachers' Meeting.

An interdenominational teachers' meeting has recently been organized for the study of the international Sunday school lessons.

All the schools in Marshall that use these lessons are expected to take part. The first meeting will be held on the first Friday evening in December at 7:30 o'clock in the lecture room of the C. P. church. Dr. Black will be the teacher, and the meetings, which will continue through December, January and February, will be of great benefit to all persons interested in Bible study.

Dissolution of Partnership.

Dr. Nuckles & Morris, wish to announce a dissolution of partnership, made by mutual agreement. Dr. Morris now has an office with Dr. Orear, two doors east of Farmer's store over Misses Mick & Cohenour's millinery establishment.

Neale-McClelland.

In Lexington, Mo., Wednesday afternoon, November 21st, 1900, at 3:30 o'clock, Rev. J. K. Dunn officiating, Mr. Isaac J. Neale and Miss Sadie Bay McClelland were married.

Attendants—Mr. Jesse G. Crenshaw and Miss Georgia Gilkeson.

This was a quiet home wedding, only relatives and intimate friends being present, yet it was a beautiful one from its very simplicity.

The bride is noted her gentleness of disposition, and her many other sterling traits of character which have ever made her a general favorite. She is a lovely girl, one in whom the heart of her husband may safely trust—"her price is far above rubies." She takes with her from her childhood home the loving good wishes of all.

The groom is a refined gentleman, well known, quite popular and highly esteemed. For several years he was connected with the Intelligencer of this city, but now is private secretary to Congressman W. S. Cowherd.

We clip the above from the Lexington News. Miss McClelland is well known in this city, having frequently visited here as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. William Harrison.

Dining on Arrow Street.

Mrs. R. E. L. Smith was "at home" on Saturday evening in a most delightfully informal manner, to a company of ladies, who were invited to meet Mrs. Frank Shepherd, of Colorado Springs. The evening was one of the most stormy of the season but the invited were all present and the time was spent most pleasantly. The course dinner, daintily served, was a pleasant feature of the evening.

The following persons were present: Mesdames B. F. Shepherd, A. Leonard, Willie M. Wood, C. M. Buckner, J. P. Huston, I. N. Seargeant, L. W. Scott and J. W. Coodwin.

Spencerian Society.

The Spencerian Society of the Marshall High School had their open session on Friday afternoon, but on account of the heavy rain, there were few visitors present, and several of the pupils who were on duty were unable to be present. However, the program was a good one and the piano solo by Miss Everman, a select reading by Miss Alice Ehrnman, violin solo by Horace Leonard, accompanied by Miss Claude Tucker, were all good and greatly enjoyed by those who attended.
