He, Will you then lock up your heart for me and keep safe the key? She, Yes, He, What would your papa say if he knew this? She, He would say daughter don't break your parents will, or don't disobey their rules.

grower wants a pipe neck with artificial kinks he can get what he wants by bending the pliable neck in the way it is desired for it to grow and then waiting until the gourd matures.

Cut off the big end of the gourd at the point indicated for your pipe bowl's top. Clean out the pith. Cut off the neck end and make a little hole with your knife blade. Get a curved pipe mouthpiece with a screw thread. One from any old pipe will do, but it should be carefully boiled beforehand to cleanse it from nicotine deposits.

Screw the thread into the opening in the neck of your gourd. If you want an inner pipe bowl that can be taken out for cleaning, you can buy a cheap one, such as is used in meerschaums, at a tobacconist's store. A little plaster of paris poured into the calabash bowl and the inner bowl then pressed down flush with the top of the cut off gourd will make the inner bowl fit snugly. Don't leave it in the plaster of paris more than three minutes when fitting, for if you do it will set hard and be permanently stuck. Take it out after two or three minutes, when the plaster is partly dried.

After the plaster dries thoroughly put the inner bowl back, get a pipeful of good tobacco, light a match, place

MAKE YOUR OWN CALABASH.

Any Farmer Can Grow the Gourd and Transform It into a Pipe.

Do you want a calabash pipe? If so, you needn't pay a dealer from $5 to $12 for one. Grow it and make it yourself. After you have grown the gourd you can make the pipe in about half an hour at a cost of half a dollar. So says the bureau of plant industry at Washington. And your homemade calabash, if you take proper pains in the making, will be just as artistic and satisfactory as the expensive imported one.

The calabash is made from a South African gourd. Until recently this gourd was not grown elsewhere, but the American consul at Cape Town, CALABASH PIPE GOURDS.

I. L. Washington, sent some of the calabash seeds to the department of agriculture in 1906. Since then the government has discovered by experimentation that the calabash will grow almost anywhere in the United States.

The gourd seed is planted about like melon seeds and at the same period. It grows luxuriantly, each vine producing many gourds. Not all of them are suitable for pipe material. Many are blighted by insect bites or other causes. Most of the gourds crook their own necks in growing. If the the bit in your mouth, puff away and dream dreams of auld lang syne or castles in the air. You are now a calabasher, qualified and passed by the United States government.

Uncle Sam says the farmers must not imagine that they can make a big income by growing calabashes and selling the gourds for pipe material. Gourds are imported now at from 25 cents to $2 a dozen. It is the necessity of hand work in making the pipes that causes them to be expensive when you have to buy them. No two gourds are of the same shape or size. Consequently all the cutting and fitting must be done by hand. It is worth while for a smoker to have a pipe which he has made himself.

The following letter of gratitude for services rendered appears in a London publication: "Mr. and Mrs. Blanck wishes to express thanks to their friends and neighbors who so kindly assisted at the burning of their residence last night."
