

TIGERS WALLOP WESTMINSTER BY 58 TO 0 IN SNOW

On Soggy Field, Missouri's "Superior Mudders" Score Almost at Will on Their Lighter Opponents.

BLUCK, LIKE AN ATLAS, RUNS WITH PLAYERS ON SHOULDERS

Alexander, Gilchrist and Nee Also Played Great Football.

On a gridiron where mud was ankle deep, Missouri defeated Westminster College Saturday, 58 to 0. It looked more like a game of water polo than football. A strong wind drove rain and sleet into the faces of the players.

After ten minutes of play the teams were so covered with mud that it was difficult to recognize the players. The pigskin was wet and slippery and fumbles by both sides were frequent.

About 500 faithful rooters stood on the south bleachers through the game, yelling encouragement and praise to the Tigers.

The game was not rough. No one was hurt except Cook, whose knee was twisted, and Wheeler of Westminster, who tackled Bluck and was unable to play during the remainder of the game.

Bluck An Atlas.

Every man on the Tiger squad had a chance in the game with the exception of Driver, Ristine and Graves, who were out of the game on account of injuries. Bluck did some wonderful line-smashing, and once during the game ran thirty yards, like an Atlas with three men on his shoulders. Alexander and Nee were good on offensive work and Gilchrist and Nee played well.

Score in Three Minutes.

Missouri won the toss and chose the east goal. Westminster kicked off to Alexander on the Tigers' ten-yard line, and he returned the ball ten yards. Anderson went through the line twenty yards and Ewing gained thirty more through tackle. Bluck made ten yards on a line smash, and Gilchrist went the same way for fifteen yards. Ewing went through the line for the first touchdown, after three minutes of play.

Westminster kicked off again and the Tigers ran the ball back to the twenty-five-yard line where they lost it to the Preachers on a fumble.

Grimm, for Westminster, tried to make a field goal but the ball fell short. This was the only time that the Tigers were in danger of being scored on.

Bucking Weak Line.

Alexander kicked off from the twenty-five-yard line and the ball was fumbled by the Preachers, Bluck recovering it. By a series of line bucks and end runs the ball was carried to the Preachers' thirty-five-yard line, where Bluck attempted a field goal. The wind was against him, and the ball fell short.

Nee recovered it when it was fumbled on the Preachers' five-yard line. The Fulton boys braced and the Tigers twice failed to gain through their line, but on the third down Nee went around the end for the second touchdown. Bluck failed to kick goal. Score, 11 to 0.

Westminster kicked off and the Tigers ran the ball to the center of the field, gaining most ground through the line. Bluck, with the wind at his back, tried for a field goal, but failed, the ball going to Westminster on its twenty-yard line.

The Preachers were held for downs. Anderson went through tackle for ten yards and Gilchrist carried the ball over for a touchdown. Bluck failed to kick goal. Score, 16 to 0.

A March Down the Field.

The Preachers kicked off again to the Tigers' five-yard line. The Tigers then marched straight down the field, Ewing, Gilchrist and Alexander putting the ball on the Preachers' five-yard line by a series of end runs and line-bucks, Ewings carried it over for a touchdown. Score, 21 to 0.

Again the Tigers carried the ball nearly the length of the field by running ends and bucking line and Gilchrist went twenty-yards around end for a touchdown. Bluck failed to kick goal. Score, 26 to 0.

Westminster kicked off and after both teams had kicked back and forth for awhile Bluck got in some spectacular work. Wheeler attempted to tack-

ARM BROKEN, GIRL JOKES ABOUT IT

Miss Snow of St. Louis Most Seriously Hurt Among "Barnwarmers."

Miss Mary Snow, of St. Louis, whose arm was broken when the first of four hay wagons conveying a crowd of agricultural students and their guests back to Columbia from the "barnwarming," toppled into a ditch, is recovering at the Parker Memorial Hospital.

Although suffering from a broken arm and a cut on her forehead caused by falling on a stone, when the wagon went into the ditch, Miss Snow retained her presence of mind. She urged the others to keep cool and hurry the work of rescue. Her influence calmed them and order was soon restored.

Those who were hurt were placed on one of the wagons and taken to the hospital. Throughout the trying ride, Miss Snow remained cheerful and endeavored to make the others forget the unpleasant situation. The more the rain chilled, the gayer she seemed to grow.

Wagon Topples Down Bank.

The accident occurred Friday night a short distance from where the party had established a camp. That rain weakened the embankment and it crumbled beneath the weight of the wagon.

Miss Snow was the only one badly injured, but many of the dozen occupants were bruised. Miss Grace Ingram of 817 Rollins street was carried from the wreck unconscious, but recovered sufficiently to return home after spending the night at the hospital.

Some of the boys seized the falling frame, thus preventing it from hitting anyone, and probably reduced the number of injured.

When seen at the hospital by a reporter for the University Missourian, Miss Snow scouted the suggestion that she deserved praise. She regards the accident as trivial. She was preparing to return to St. Louis, having come here for the Iowa game, but must remain quiet several days. Her brother, John Snow, a former student at the University of Missouri, is with her.

K. U. GAME GOES TO KANSAS CITY

Universities Sign Five-Year Contract for Use of Association Park.

OWNER GETS 17 1-2 PER CENT

Dr. Manly Thinks That 10,000 Will See the Annual Gridiron Clash.

The annual Missouri-Kansas Thanksgiving Day football game will be played this year in Kansas City.

The location of the game was decided at a meeting of representatives of Missouri and Kansas Universities and of George Tebeau, owner of the park at which the game will be played. A contract was signed for the use of the park on Thanksgiving Day for the next five years. Either of the two universities or the owner of the park may break the contract, if notice is given to the other parties in advance.

The contract calls for the payment of 17 1-2 per cent of the gate receipts of the game to Tebeau, owner of the American Association Baseball Park. In return, he is to put the park in condition for a football contest, with all the yard lines drawn across the gridiron, and is to build a fence around the side lines.

Contract Signed Saturday.

The contract was signed Saturday morning in Kansas City by Dr. W. G. Manly as representative of the University of Missouri, W. C. Lansdon, general manager of athletics of Kansas University and George Tebeau.

Dr. Manly today said to a reporter for the University Missourian:

"There is great interest in the game at Kansas City. An immense crowd will be in attendance, provided the Tigers hold their present form. I look for 10,000 to be present at the game, and with the price of admission to be fixed by the two universities the athletic department here should make a good profit."

Explains Delay.

In regard to the location of the game Dr. C. W. Hetherington, director of athletics here, said:

"The reason we hesitated so long about deciding on the place for the game was because we didn't want to pay 17 1-2 per cent to the park owner, and because the St. Joseph people treated us so royally last year. Owing to the absence of the game from Kansas City last year, we ought to have a larger crowd this year than ever before."

WOULD DRIFT TO POLE ON A HUGE ICE FLOE

Explorer Baldwin's Plan to Solve the Problem of the Ages.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 26.—Evelyn B. Baldwin, the Arctic explorer, called at the White House last week, but was unable to see the President.

Mr. Baldwin came for the purpose of laying before the President a novel plan for exploring the Arctic regions and discovering the North Pole. His idea, which, it is said, is endorsed by Admiral Melville, one of the survivors of the Jeannette expedition; Admiral Schley and Sir Purdon Clarke, director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, is to utilize one of the many huge ice floes which drift from the Behring Sea across the Arctic regions and eventually reach the coast of Greenland. These floes take about three and a half years in their drift across.

By establishing a camp of portable houses and scattering logs and casks of oil and provisions over one of these floes Mr. Baldwin believes it is possible to discover the North Pole, to make scientific investigation and to secure photographs heretofore unobtainable.

The party would consist of twenty or twenty-five persons, including scientists, naturalists and artists.

Lhamon is Head of Junior Medical Class of Three Members.

Ruskin Lhamon, of Columbia, is president of the Junior Medical class of the University of Missouri by virtue of his skill in pitching pennies for a mark. The class consists of three members. How to apportion the class offices puzzled the three till the scheme of pitching pennies was hit upon.

The presidency having been decided, it was easy to select the other officers, each man taking whatever he wanted. In addition to being the head of the class, Mr. Lhamon is historian. J. C. Hawkins is vice-president and representative on the Savitar board and Jesse Howland is secretary, treasurer and sergeant-at-arms.

The Senior Medical class has six members. These officers have been elected: President, S. F. Marsh; vice-president, F. W. Tuttle; secretary-treasurer, F. E. Simeral.

MAITLAND'S CORN IN CORNERSTONE

No Perfect Ear Found, But One of Reid's Yellow Dent Wins.

Of the thirty ears of corn sent to the Agricultural College of the University of Missouri contesting for a place in the cornerstone of the new agricultural building, the ear owned by Alexander Maitland, of Richmond, Mo., won the highest score, 96 3-4.

The ear was an almost perfect specimen of Reid's Yellow Dent. It was a little light in color and a little short, but won despite these defects.

Mr. Maitland is a prominent farmer and for a number of years was a member of the State Board of Agriculture from his district, having been out of the Board for two years. Two of his sons have been graduated from the College of Engineering.

The committee of judges were: Prof. M. F. Miller, H. D. Hughes, Dean H. J. Waters and Secretary George B. Ellis.

KEMPER BEATS HIGH SCHOOL BY 44 TO 2

Local Boys No Match for Military Academy Team.

Kemper Military Academy defeated the Columbia High School football team at Booneville last Saturday, 44 to 2. The game was played on a muddy field in a snowstorm and as a result was ragged throughout. The high school expected defeat, its only object being to make a better showing than did the Preparatory School. The "Preps" were defeated 57 to 0, thus giving the high school the advantage according to "dope."

The high school played a good game. Howell at end, Dysart at quarter and Thomas at half did fine work. The high school's score was the result of Dysart's tackle behind the goal.

The high school line up: Ends, Devine, Howell and Ketchum; tackles, Dunbar and Whittaker; guards, Morgenthaler and Bedford; center, Hyde; quarter, Dysart; halfbacks, Quick and Capt. Thomas; fullback, Wilkes.

BUILDING TO BE HANDSOMEST OF BIG EDUCATIONAL GROUP

Audience Goes to Academic Hall for Speechmaking After Exercises.

The State of Missouri and its chief educational institution joined hands this morning in the laying of the cornerstone of the new $100,000 Agricultural Hall, to be, when completed, the handsomest building of the University of Missouri group.

Five hundred persons stood on the platform erected on the foundation of the building, and on the surrounding muddy clay banks, to watch the ceremony. A slight drizzle of rain fell during part of the exercises in the open, and the speeches which followed were made in the University auditorium.

Masonic Rites Used.

The cornerstone was laid with the impressive Masonic rites, former Gov. A. M. Dockery, of Gallatin, acting as Grand Master. Officers of the local lodge of Masons wearing the regalia of the order took part in the exercises and later occupied seats on the platform in the auditorium.

After invocation by Elder W. S. St. Clair, the University band at the site of the new building played "The Star-Spangled Banner," while the audience stood with bared heads. Floating above the cornerstone was the American flag.

The auditorium was well filled. President Albert Ross Hill of the University acted as chairman and introduced the speakers. The audience stood while the band, in the east tier of seats, played "Old Missouri." On the stage was represented the State of Missouri in its executive and educational functions. The speakers told of the growth of agriculture in the United States and of the consequent growth of the agricultural college.

Need of Scientific Farming.

Former Gov. Dockery, the first speaker, urged the need of scientific farming. He declared Missouri's educational system was the best in the United States. Any one who favored the tearing down of any part of the system—common schools, normal schools or the University—he characterized as a foe to the best interests of the State. Gov. Dockery's remarks were warmly applauded.

B. H. Bonfoey, of Unionville, Mo., representing the Board of Curators, won applause when he said that he was more of a football "rooter" than an orator and again when he expressed the hope that he would meet each one of the audience personally some time before the football game with Kansas University Thanksgiving Day.

Norman J. Colman, of St. Louis, president of the State Board of Agriculture, former lieutenant-governor of Missouri and Commissioner of Agriculture under President Cleveland, delivered the principal address. The audience arose in a body as Mr. Colman walked to the front of the platform. He was frequently applauded as he told of his successful fight for the upbuilding of the agricultural colleges of the country.

Dr. Galloway Speaks.

Dr. B. T. Galloway, an alumnus of the University, chief of the Division of Vegetable Pathology of the Department of Agriculture at Washington, said there was no better agricultural college in America than the one here.

Dr. R. H. Jesse, former president of the University, spoke of the work of the College of Agriculture in the last thirteen years, since the coming of Dean H. J. Waters.

Dr. Hill asserted that from a knowledge of other institutions of the country he could say—without favoritism—that the faculty here was the best of any agricultural college of the country.

Dean Waters praised the work done by President Laws and President Jesse of the University. He said the problems in agriculture were to be solved by the agricultural colleges located in the agricultural region of the Middle West.

Dr. Hill read a telegram from Dr. A. C. True, chief of the Experiment
