For Sale, Trade or Rent

What is known as the Dr. J. P. Mitchell home on West Broadway. This is a splendid modern seven room and reception hall, good barn and outbuildings, lot 95 feet on Broadway by 600 feet deep on Glenwood. Can be subdivided into five lots. Having traded Texas land for this property I can give you a great bargain on reasonable terms.

I also have a farm of 170 acres, naturally a splendid farm but only in fair repair that I will sell for $15.00 per acre less than it is worth.

BOXES FROM HOME CHEER FOR STUDENTS

Christmas for Those Who Stay in Columbia Lonesome Without Gifts.

ALL SORTS OF PRESENTS

Packages Soon Will Arrive from All Parts of the World.

When you can't spend your Christmas at home, the next best thing is a Christmas box from home. It's almost the "box season" at the University of Missouri now. Soon they'll begin arriving from Atlantic coast states, Canada, England—everywhere. Break the lid and there—fruit cake, socks, jam, slippers, gloves, books—everything that a young man away from home Christmas could desire. Were it not for these boxes, the stay-in-Columbia students say, there would be little cheer for them.

L. B. Pearson, of 308 North Ninth street, a student in the University High School from Irthingboro, North Hamptonshire, England, won't go home Christmas. He does not know whether he will receive a box from home or not. He says that he generally gets something at Christmas time.

Mr. Pearson has been in America seven years. Until last September, when he came to Columbia, he had been in Canada. He tells some interesting things about Christmas in England.
