PLANT DELAY DUE TO LABOR SCARCITY

Brilliant Electric Sign May Surmount Giant Concrete Smoke Stack.

MODERN EQUIPMENT USED

Columbia's New Light and Water Works to Begin Work January 1.

The new water and light plant will be ready for use by January. Two months after that the plant will be furnishing Columbia with all its water and light and the old plant can be discarded.

The chimney was completed yesterday; so was the second well. The pump was installed in this well and the drills got out of the way. A shed now covers the first well dug, but the second is uncovered.

The boiler-room is nearly completed. The three boilers will generate 400 horse power each or in all 1200. Each boiler weighs twenty tons and each of the three stokers weigh twenty tons. The coal is put in hoppers and falls on the revolving stokers. By the time the coal reaches the water tubes it is burning full blast, is consumed so quickly that the stokers carry it to the ash pits. Three Hundred and one tubes carry water over this fire on each stoker, 653 tubes in all.

Some Old Machinery Used.

No inside work has been done on the engine-room as the roof is not on, and the electrical machinery can not be put in until it is. The steel for the roof is expected to arrive soon and the work of putting it on will start by November 1. It will take about two months to put in the inside work. Part of the machinery of the old plant will be put into the new one. By March the old plant can be discarded.

Yesterday a pulley running to the top of the chimney was completed and now lights can be put on the top of this 153-foot shaft of concrete. Perhaps an electric sign bearing the name "Columbia Water and Light Plant" will be put at the top of the chimney. One hundred and ninety-five tons of concrete and five tons of steel were used in putting up this tall smoke stack. It is seven feet six inches in diameter at the top and ten feet six inches at the bottom.

Ten Men Can Operate.

Scarcity of laborers has made progress on the plant somewhat slow. Thirty or forty men are at work now. When the plant is completed ten men can operate it. The specified time for completing the water and Light plant is December 1 but because of a late start it will take a month longer to complete the work.

The foundation for the cooling tower will be complete late next week. The piping is being cut in Buffalo and will be here within a few weeks.

A Bulletin on Butchering Hogs.

"Butchering hogs on the farm is the title of a bulletin by the State Board of Agriculture to be issued November 15. This bulletin will be larger than the one last year and will have a number of illustrations.
