TO BE ON SALE TOMORROW

Campus Couples Graduated According to Degree of Sincerity.

The 1912 Savitar, student annual at the University of Missouri, is out. The entire issue is now on the pressing racks of the E. W. Stephens Publishing Company's plant and books will be put on sale tomorrow morning at three stores in Columbia. Nearly 300 books have been sold to the Board of Curators for the University and will be distributed among the high schools and other secondary schools of the state. Several hundred copies were purchased at an advance sale for students. In view of recent experiences with large edition, the 1912 issue is 150 books fewer than the 1911 edition. An innovation is being tried this year in the form of an outline sketch of the campus around the border of each page. In order to make this possible it was necessary to bind the book so it would open lengthwise. This plan of binding has also made possible a number of distinctly new features. Double pages are being run of a group of short course students in agriculture and of the Missouri-Kansas football game. The edition is dedicated to John Miss Zannie Mae Mitchell, Shelbyville, Mo., secretary-treasurer.

John M. Blair, Carthage, Mo., editor-in-chief.

Lawson, retiring dean of the School of Law. At the request of the staff, Dean Lawson autographed a limited number of copies.

The engraving in the 1912 annual is unusually good. This was made possible by the fact that the staff turned in pictures to the engravers earlier than usual.

H. E. Thompson, Fredericktown, Mo., business manager.

The book is bound in a black imitation alligator skin and is stamped with old gold letters. The cover is substantially backed up, adding to the durability of the binding but not noticeably to the weight of the book. The paper used is heavily enameled and the print is unusually clear.

A feature that promises to attract plenty of attention is the "married" and "near-married" section. Campus couples are graduated according to their degree of sincerity as viewed by the editors.

Class histories have been eliminated, although an unusually large number of individual pictures of Juniors and seniors are run and each division is headed by a page group of class presidents.

John M. Blair of Carthage, Mo., is editor-in-chief. H. E. Thompson of Fredericktown, Mo., is business manager. Miss Zannie Mae Mitchell of Shelbyville, Mo., is the only woman on the staff. She is secretary-treasurer. There are eight members of the staff.

DR. VILES WRITES A HISTORY

Book on Missouri Prepared for Use in the Grades.

Dr. Jonas Viles has recently published a new book, "The History of Missouri." This is intended as a textbook for the grades and is a companion volume to Dr. Isidor Loeb's new book, "Government in Missouri." The two books may be purchased either together or separately.

This book has twenty-four chapters and has many diagrams and maps showing the geography of Missouri and the growth of the early settlements. Doctor Viles has done much research work in connection with the settlement of Missouri. There are short biographies of Missouri governors and great men such as Benton, Cockrell and Price scattered through the book. One of the most interesting chapters deals with the social and economic conditions in Missouri about 1820.

The aims of this textbook, Doctor Viles says in his preface, are to present local history as a development with a definite meaning, to show Missouri's share in national movements and to describe those national events in which Missouri played a leading part.

FILIPINOS ISSUE H. S. ANNUAL

Cebu High School Dedicates Book to Track Coach.

High schools in the Philippines are not much different from those in America, judging from the annual published by the students of the Cebu High School. Claude C. McCollum, who was graduated from the University of Missouri in 1909, is principal of the Cebu school.

The book is dedicated to one of the faculty who coaches the track team. The team has held the championship of the Philippines the last three years. Many pictures are used. The students know enough English to give puns and an advertisement in the back for a "moving picture palace" looks natural. The chief difference from an American publication is in reading the names. Caesar Filoteo is editor-in-chief, and Gaudencio Penya artist.

NEW BUILDINGS TO FORM QUAD

Horticultural Grounds to Be Arranged for University Structures.

Two buildings are now under way on the horticultural grounds. Twelve teams began excavating for the new Chemistry Building yesterday. This will be 180 by 60 feet built of stone and finished in the same style as the Agricultural Building. It will be located opposite the Horticultural Building facing College avenue and is to be finished next February.

The heating plant at the rear of the Agricultural Building will be moved, to make room for a new quadrangle. The walls have been started on the new Physics Building.

WHY THEY CAME TO SCHOOL HERE

Larger Opportunities Draw Men From Other States And Countries.

TWO WANTED BIBLE WORK

Some Were Attracted by Chance for Earning Their Own Way.

Every year almost forty-five states and more than a dozen foreign countries are represented at the University of Missouri. Why did these students choose Missouri instead of some other school? Here is what eight have to say about why they selected Missouri:

"Well, I wanted to study journalism. I had often heard of the school at the University of Missouri. The schools of journalism at Kansas and Wisconsin were investigated as well as the school here. I found that Missouri offered the best courses for the profession. That's why I left Ohio State University after two years' academic work and came to Missouri for journalism."—William Earl Hall, Georgetown, Ohio.

"I wanted to take agriculture and found that this was about as good a school as there is in the country. I took two years' academic work at the University of Mississippi but came here for agriculture."—Thomas Burnett, Vicksburg, Miss.

"I wanted a place where I could take Bible work and an academic course in preparation for the ministry. I found that Missouri would supply my needs and that the man with limited means has a better chance over here. There are four of us from Australia here on that account, taking work in the Missouri Bible College and the University."—Hugh P. Lovell, Melbourne, Australia.

"I heard a lot about Missouri and I knew the School of Engineering was good here. Then I had lots of friends in Missouri. I was working with an Ames graduate and he tried to persuade me to go there. I can't explain why I didn't follow his advice because they have a good school up there; but I liked Missouri the best. Last summer when I was in Colorado several of the boys in my home town tried to get me to go to the University at Boulder. When time came for Missouri to open I just got homesick to get back, so I'm here again."—George Russell, Colorado.

"I wrote to several schools for bulletins and the College of Agriculture at Missouri seemed the best for what I wanted. I expect to go back to China and enter the government service. I am getting a good course here. I like the school and I'm glad I came."—Shau Toong Chang, China.

"I wanted a place where I could attend a Bible college and get good courses in economics and sociology. After investigating I found that Missouri offered the best opportunities and I had a chance to keep up my preaching. The departments of economics and sociology were unusually strong. That's my reason for leaving, Texas, where I was preaching, and coming past my home state to Missouri."—Wesley C. Whitehouse, Kentucky.

"I wanted agriculture. Cornell was a good school but I knew a fellow would not have such a chance to work part of his way through there. Then it would have been somewhat embarrassing to have to be there working part of my way when all my friends from home had plenty of money to spend. Missouri's College of Agriculture ranked high and so I came."—James H. Townsend, Ossining, N. Y.

"My parents are German and wanted me to go to Germany to school. I knew about the militarism there and that to prepare for work in Mexico a college in the United States would be the best. I persuaded them to let me come. Missouri was the nearest first-class school."—Carlos Nache, San Pedro, Mexico.

"GENE" HALL A PITCHER, TOO

Betas Make Only One Hit Off Him and Lose 10-1 to Delta Taus.

Captain "Gene" Hall of the Tigers, besides being an outfielder and an infielder, has proved himself a pitcher. In the first of the Pan-Hellenic championship games yesterday, in which the Delta Tau Deltas beat the Beta Theta Pi team by a score of 10 to 1, he allowed only one hit, which came in the last half of the ninth inning.

The game yesterday was the first of a series of three to decide the holder of the fraternity baseball cup for 1912. The second game will be played Thursday afternoon.

The score:
R.H.E.
D. T. D. 1 0 0 5 0 1 2 0 1 10 13 2
Betas 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1 1 1 3
Batteries: Delta Tau Delta—Hall and McCoy; Beta Theta Pi—Hudson and Delano.
