

FROM COLLEGE PLAY COMES A ROMANCE

Principals in "Land of Toreadors" To Be Married—Met At First Rehearsal.

TO LIVE IN KANSAS

Miss Josephine Hale and George L. Boyle Will Be Married This Fall.

The "Land of the Toreadors" produced by the Quad Club last year has brought about a real college romance. It was at the first rehearsal the romance of Miss Josephine Hale of Carrollton, Mo., and George L. Boyle, son of General and Mrs. L. C. Boyle of Kansas City, whose engagement was recently announced, began.

In the play, which was produced two nights in Kansas City, both Mr. Boyle and Miss Hale took leading parts. Mr. Boyle did not sing his songs of love on the stage to Miss Hale nor did it matter that Miss Hale sang "I Want the World to Know That I Love," to another man in the company. From their first meeting at the first rehearsal Mr. Boyle always saw that Miss Hale reached her sorority home safely and was promptly at rehearsals. Many evenings, also, it was noticed by members of the company, Miss Hale had large bunches of American Beauties or other flowers to carry as she would in the performance—although almost any stage "prop" would have done just as well.

Many nights of rehearsals, parties and dances in between, brought them recognition in the form of membership in "The Strollers' Club" at the University. Among a few fraternity and sorority friends their engagement became known several weeks before the formal announcement. Miss Hale is a member of the Pi Beta Phi sorority and Mr. Boyle is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. He came to the University at the beginning of the last semester last year from the Virginia Military Academy. Miss Hale finished her work in summer school.

The young couple expect to live in Western Kansas, where Mr. Boyle will have charge of a large ranch. Many students from Columbia plan to attend the wedding.

PARMELEE BACK FROM EUROPE

Professor of Sociology, Delayed in Return, Tells of Trip.

Professor Maurice Parmelee of the department of sociology has just returned from a tour of Europe. Though his trip was one of rest and pleasure rather than of research, he spent a great deal of time in the great anthropological museums of Europe.

"At London," he says, "I spent about a week in the Royal Museum. Other large museums were visited in Cambridge, Oxford, Paris, Munich and Naples.

"I took a short walking tour through Tyrol in Austria and also walked over St. Bernard's Pass," he added.

Professor Parmelee was delayed in Naples because the vessel on which he had engaged passage did not sail. It was several days before passage could be secured on another vessel.

"The Science of Human Behavior" is the title of a book, now in the hands of the publishers, written by Professor Parmelee. The book brings together data from the experimental works in animal behavior, neurology and psychology which throw light on human behavior.

Professor Parmelee is the author of a popular text on criminology, "Anthropology and Sociology in Relation to Criminal Procedure," which is used in the University. He is now contemplating another book on the subject of anthropology.

PLAY AS A FACTOR IN COLLEGE LIFE

President Hill Says There Must Be Systematic Form of Diversion.

THE BEST WORK THEN

Importance of Choosing That Which Can Be Followed in Later Life.

President Hill spoke to the students at assembly this morning on the importance of play as a factor in University life.

"Any student who does not take some regular, systematic form of diversion cannot think with virility or keep his intellect awake," he said.

"What I want to do this morning," he continued, "is to speak a word in behalf of those forms of play especially which may be continued after college days are over."

President Hill said he believed that the student who did not take time for some kind of diversion was not doing justice to himself and that his studies would eventually suffer; that mental exercise wore out the physical brain and that unless it were built up again in some way, and play is one means, it could not do its best work.

Besides being a diversion and a rest, games actually stimulate, according to President Hill. They are social in their nature and encourage and develop social impulses which will be of service in later life. They are humanizing aside from the fact that they make judgment more keen and encourage self-reliance and a friendly spirit of competition.

President Hill emphasized especially the fact that games should be learned and played while in the University which can still be played after leaving. In this connection he mentioned English Rugby and Association football, both of which he had known men to play even after they had reached the mature age of fifty or sixty.

"I am not starting any propaganda against the game as we play it here," he said emphatically. "These things are determined for us to a certain extent; but I want to suggest to the thinking student that perhaps our present method is not the best one and that a change might be advisable some time in the future. I am not opposed to football, in fact I enjoy it more than any other game, but in some forms at least it is not one which can be played to much advantage outside of college life."

Another advantage of play is that it teaches flexibility and adaptability and helps persons to keep in harmony with their environment.

President Hill also spoke of play as a regular part of education and said he believed that it should be a part of the curriculum as much as any science or philosophy.

PLEDGE DAY NEXT SATURDAY

Rushing Being Conducted Under the Pan-Hellenic Rules.

Pledge day this year at the University of Missouri is to be next Saturday. A new rule was decided upon by Pan-Hellenic, that there be but two weeks of rushing, but other than that the rules are very similar to those used two years ago.

Growing out of the two weeks rule are one or two features, that during the second week there shall be no rushing before 4 o'clock in the evening nor after half past ten in the morning, and that sorority girls shall not be with rushees in public places, that is sorority, boarding or private houses, nor driving before 4 o'clock in the afternoon nor after 10:30 of the second week.

One of the rules is that no train shall be met outside of Columbia and that trains may be met during the second week before 4 o'clock in the afternoon and after 10 o'clock in the evening.

MORE STRESS ON TENNIS

O. F. Field Says that It is to Be Made More Important Sport.

Tennis at the University is to be made a more important sport this year than ever before, according to plans made last night by the tennis committee. O. F. Field, instructor in physical training, will have charge of the work and the candidates for the team will begin practice Saturday.

The first tennis event of the year will be the home tournament to be played in the next two weeks. The men have been asked to sign up for the tournament at the Missouri Store and they will report for instructions Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at the Rothwell Gymnasium.

C. C. Woods, Shuan Toong Chang and C. E. Swartz are the members of the committee which made arrangements for the tournament. Following the home tournament there will be indoor practice on the gymnasium court for the men who show up well in the tournament. These men will comprise the Varsity squad. They will be expected to keep in good physical conditions all through the winter.

Next spring there will be the Missouri Valley Conference tournament and possibly some dual tournaments with Kansas, Washington and other schools in the Missouri Valley.

Among the men who are strong candidates for the team this year are Shuan Toong Chang and Walter Williams, Jr., from last year's team; William P. Jesse, a squad man two years ago; C. C. Woods and C. E. Swartz, from the freshman team; and Harry Humphrey, Sam Avery and other men who have never tried out before.

NO FOOTBALL MACHINE YET.

Professor Brewer Says Rooters Will See Individual Playing Saturday.

"Missouri's lack of team work will be noticeable in the game Saturday," said Prof. C. L. Brewer last night. "The team has been improving only fairly well. It is still a team of individuals and not a well-rounded football machine."

The workout yesterday, for the most part, was practice in kicking off and receiving kick off. The lack of a man to kick high enough and far enough was noticeable. Knoble and Shepard were both tried but neither had very good success. In order to get the ball back to the ends and back field men it was necessary to use the assistant-coach, T. E. D. Hackney, as a kicker. The first touchdown of the season came as a result of one of Shepard's bad kicks. The ball did not rise but a few feet from the ground and Kemper, the scrub center, caught the ball and ran to the goal line before he was downed.

P. T. Graves, who played guard and won his "M" in 1910 was on the field in the afternoon and assisted Professor Brewer. He took charge of the linemen for some time and practiced them at falling on the ball and using the tackling dummy. Graves is entered in school but is ineligible.

The freshmen, under Coach O. F. Field, are just getting well started with their practice. There are two full backfields and several promising quarterbacks. In fact there is more than one good man trying for every position. There are about forty candidates who are out every day.

CENTRAL HAS A FAST TEAM

But the Tiger Opponents Average Only 149 Pounds.

The Central College eleven, which plays the Tigers here Saturday is a light and fast team according to R. K. Tindall, a junior in the University of Missouri, who attended football practice yesterday afternoon at Fayette.

"The team starts off fast and runs signals well," said Mr. Tindall this morning. "There was no scrimmage yesterday afternoon. They have been practicing for about three weeks and of course have more team work than the Tigers so far. The team's average weight is 149 pounds. A large number of rooters are expecting to come with the team."

Prof. J. C. Codbey, a former star at Vanderbilt University is the coach. He had the team year before last when they won the state championship. Seven old men on last year's team are back. "Red" Smith is captain and B. I. Lawrence, manager. Some of their other stars are: "Doc" Mann, Montie Howard, Shirley Smith, Tareyton, Ralston and Mabrey.

Athletic Committee Meeting.

A meeting of the Intercollegiate Athletic Committee will be held at Rothwell Gymnasium tonight. This will be the first meeting of the committee this season.
