

WOMAN LAWYER WINS CASE AND HUSBAND

Romance of Miss May Carroll, M. U. Graduate, is Unique.

SOUNDS LIKE FICTION

Opponent in Court Falls in Love with Feminine Attorney—A Wedding.

Perhaps you would expect romance in the life of a young woman lawyer. Anyway it came to Miss Carrie May Carroll, one of the few women graduates of the University of Missouri School of Law who was married a few weeks ago in Independence.

The romance of Miss Carroll and Orlando Sprague, began in a lawsuit in which Mr. Sprague was the opponent of Miss Carroll's client. They have just been married, in the $100,000 Valle mansion in Independence, Mo., the property over which the suit was brought last summer by Miss Carroll to quiet title. She won at that time, but the case was appealed by Mr. Sprague and was in the process of being tried when the principals fell in love with one another and married. Mr. Sprague has now ordered his attorneys to dismiss his appeal. Mrs. Sprague says she is going to turn over all her law business to her husband, and devote herself to making the old historic place a home for them.

Mrs. Sprague received an interest in the place several years ago as the fee for representing Miss Olivia Sprague, a sister of Orlando Sprague, in her suit for the place against the estate of Harvey M. Valle, their cousin. Two years ago Miss Sprague agreed to sell her interest in the place to her "attorney," but her brother enjoined the payment of the money on the grounds that he had a lien on the property. Miss Sprague sued demanding that her brother prove his claim. Miss Carroll was ready to pay the money, but insisted that it gave her complete ownership of the property and quieted Sprague's claim to the title. Orlando Sprague was declared to have no interest in the property. He appealed the case.

Mrs. Sprague was the first woman to receive the degree LL.B. from the University of Missouri. She worked her way through college, practised successfully several years in Independence, and lately went into business.

SURVIVES DOSE OF WRONG DRUG

Sixty Grains of Tartar Emetic Taken Instead of Cream of Tartar.

"What is this stuff I took?" wrote a man from Williamsville, Mo., to Dr. W. P. Cutler, pure food and drug commissioner, enclosing a white powder in his letter. "I took 60 grains of it and became violently sick. The doctor called to see me took a little on his tongue and in turn became ill."

Doctor Cutler found upon examination that the man had taken many times the maximum dose of tartar emetic. One-half grain is the largest amount considered safe to take. The victim had asked a drug clerk for cream of tartar and in its place had been given tartar emetic.

Doctor Cutler says he will investigate the case, which may be a violation of the pure food and drug law.

BEN GREET PLAYERS COMING

Will Give "Comedy of Errors" Here in January.

The University Players, a dramatic organization of University students, have arranged to bring the Ben Greet players here in January. They will give Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors," using elaborate Elizabethan costumes but no scenery. The Coburn Players were brought to the University last year by the University Players.

About the beginning of the second semester the University Players will give a program in the Columbia Theater. Three one-act plays will be presented. The first will be "Madam Butterfly," written by David Belasco. This is not the musical opera by Puccini. The parts will be taken by Misses Josephine Sutton, Margories Graham and Lenore Clay, Robert Miller, Jerome Jeffee, Knox Alexander and Samuel Ayres, Jr.

The second play will be "Augustus in Search of a Father," by Harold Chapin. Knox Alexander will have the leading part. "How He Lied To Her Husband," by Bernard Shaw, will be the third act given. Miss Katharine Smith, Mr. Ayres and Ferdinand Turley will take part.

The University Players rehearsed these plays last night.

WANT MORE SHORT COURSE MEN

Ad Club to Hold Meeting Tomorrow to Arrange for Larger Attendance.

A definite plan to increase the attendance in the short course in agriculture will be discussed at a meeting of the University Ad Club in Room A. Y. M. C. A. building tomorrow night. The meeting will be held at 7 o'clock.

A committee will be appointed from each county club at the University to write to every rural teacher in every county in the state and encourage the rural teachers to send names of prospective short course students to the secretary of the Ad Club. Then literature about the University and College of Agriculture will be mailed to the names submitted.

This plan was recommended by Dean F. B. Mumford of the College of Agriculture.

Plans will also be discussed at the meeting of the club tomorrow night for a "feature" dance before the Christmas holidays.

At the last meeting of the club about two weeks ago, a permanent constitution was adopted which enlarged the membership of the club to include a representative from the University women, each of the departments, and from the University Missourian. J. B. Powell, instructor in advertising, was made an honorary member.

Not Enough Oysters for the Price.

Dr. W. P. Cutler, state food and dairy commissioner, has received a complaint from O. M. Venable of Gallatin, saying that the Booth Fisheries Company sells four gallons of oysters for five. Venable claims that the oysters are quoted at an exceptionally low price when bought in five-gallon quantities, but that when he bought a five-gallon can, he found that it contained but a scant four gallons. Doctor Cutler has sent an inspector to Gallatin to investigate.

THIRTEEN TIGERS RECEIVE EMBLEMS

Athletic Committee Awards "Ms"—Discusses Football Schedule for Next Year.

FEWER MAJOR GAMES

Basketball and Baseball Limited to Sixteen Contests—Track Meets Arranged.

Football "Ms" were awarded to thirteen men at a meeting of the Athletic Committee yesterday afternoon in Rothwell Gymnasium. They are: Captain C. P. LeMire, E. W. Knobel, G. R. Hastings, G. A. Barton, Jack Mills, James Pixlee, C. R. Wilson, H. L. McWilliams, Paul Shepard, R. D. Groves, R. C. Wiggins, J. A. Clay and R. C. Kemper.

James J. Gallagher, Felix C. Duval and Floyd Lake played in several conference games but did not play in enough games to meet the requirements for an "M". Their work, however, was highly spoken of by the committee.

Three Major Games Here.

The football schedule for next year will include five major games, three of which will be played here, according to the ruling of the committee. One of these will be the Kansas game. The schedule will then be completed with three games with schools not in the Missouri Valley Conference.

"It was the sense of the committee that the schedule this year was too heavy," said Prof. C. L. Brewer this morning.

The committee also limited the basketball and baseball schedules to sixteen games each. Twelve of the basketball games will be with conference teams, and four will be minor games to round the team into shape. The baseball schedule is still a very indefinite matter, as it is not known what other schools in the conference are going to do in this branch of athletics.

The track committee has approved the Kansas-Missouri indoor track meet to be held in Kansas City in March. It has also decided that the University shall send representatives to the K. C. A. C. invitation meet in Kansas City and the M. A. C. invitation meet in St. Louis. Both of these meets will be held in March.

Plans for Track Meets.

The schedule for outdoor track athletics has been left until Friday to see what meets can be arranged with teams in the Missouri Valley Conference. In addition to the Missouri Valley Conference meet May 31, the annual outdoor track meet with Kansas at Lawrence, May 10, and the Western Conference meet June 7, the University intends to engage in a dual meet with some strong team on Rollins Field, and to go on one trip.

The Athletic Committee also discussed the place for holding the Missouri Valley Conference meet in 1914. For the last four years, it has been held at Des Moines. It is the general feeling of Missouri, Washington and Kansas Universities that the meet should be held next year in the territory of these schools. The committee would like to see it held at Kansas City.

Poultry Judging Class to Centralia.

The class in poultry judging under Prof. H. L. Kempster attended the poultry show at Centralia today. They studied breeds and types other than those owned by the University.

GIVES GLIMPSES OF THE LIFE IN INDIA

Henry J. Hadfield Interprets Kipling's Characters of the Peninsula.

READS SAILOR POEMS

Costumed Recitations Are Heard by Large Audience at Assembly.

Glimpses of the life of the British soldier, of the native camp follower in India, of the life of the ruling Britons and of the view the native Indian takes of his land, were seen by a large audience at Assembly this morning. Henry J. Hadfield, the British actor, gave costumed interpretations of several of Kipling's popular poems.

The actor gave his readings in a little electrically lighted booth on the stage. He began his program with a brief biography of Kipling.

Wearing the uniform of a British infantryman, he recited "Tommy Atkins" and "Gunga Din." The first is Kipling's interpretation of the feelings of a common British soldier who is felt to be in the way until time of war comes, when it is this same soldier that plays an unusual part. Through "Gunga Din" the actor interpreted the faithfulness of the native camp follower of the British army.

Shows Upper Class Britons, Too.

In "Paget, M. P." and "Study of an Elevation of Indian Ink," Mr. Hadfield interpreted Kipling's portrayal of the higher life of India—that of the English. The actor wore the costume of an Anglo-Indian.

From Indian life Mr. Hadfield went to the poet's interpretation of sailor life. "McAndrew's Hymn" is a romance of a ship's engineer, and was given in the uniform of a chief engineer. Sitting at his post the engineer recites the romance of the steam, and feels keenly the lack of appreciation of his service.

Then a Boarding House Ballad.

Then the actor's costume changed from that of an officer to that of a common sailor, and he showed the tragedy of the ordinary seaman in "The Ballad of Fisher's Boarding House."

In "The Ballad of East and West," given in the costume of an East Indian robber chief, Mr. Hadfield gave an idea of the conflict between the native and the Englishman in India. Then followed a recital of one of Kipling's exceptional poems. The poet delights in the songs of praise of the British soldier, but "The Recessional" deprecates the play of force.

Mr. Hadfield concluded with "If," which he said was Kipling's latest and probably best poem.

12 IN BASKETBALL SQUAD

Number of Candidates Reduced by the Coach.

The basketball squad has been reduced by O. F. Field, the coach, to twelve men. They are: Edwards, captain; Taaffe, Craig, Jesse, Bernet, Goldman, Brodie, Palfreyman, Stern, Hyde, LaRue, Carson. These men were chosen from about twenty-five who reported.

Edwards and Taaffe are the only "M" men. Craig and Bernet were on the squad last year. Five of last year's freshmen team are on the squad.

Shepard, captain and star of last year's freshman team, and Groves, an "M" man, have announced that they will not come out this year. They are both football men and they say that their school work has fallen behind so much that they cannot spend any time on basketball.

The absence of these men, both of whom were expected to make the team, will be felt. Shepard was rated last year by coaches as one of the best basketball players ever in the University of Missouri and he was counted on to be one of the mainstays of the team this year. Groves played in almost every game last year.

The freshman team of last year is expected to furnish good material this year. Brodie, Hyde and Palfreyman are trying hard for places. Hyde is the only one of these three who has the build that delights basketball coaches—tall and rangy. It will take more than lack of height, however, to keep Brodie or Palfreyman off the team.

Craig and Bernet, last year men, are both showing well. Craig did not come out until the season was almost half over, but even then he showed so well that he made all the trips with the team. Carson and Goldman have been out of basketball for a year.

The athletic committee has decided to schedule sixteen games this year, the same number that were played last year. A long trip, on which Washington, Ames and Kansas will be played, is the plan of the committee.

The practice so far has been comparatively light, consisting mainly in passing the ball. Scrimmage will start Wednesday night. The team practices Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, Tuesday and Thursday in the afternoon, and Saturday morning.

TO CRACK SOIL WITH DYNAMITE

G. J. Kensinger Will Demonstrate in D. A. Robnett's Orchard.

A demonstration of cracking orchard sub-soil with dynamite will be given Saturday December 14 in D. A. Robnett's orchard, three miles from Columbia. The work will be done by George J. Kensinger of the Independent Powder Company of Missouri.

The object of cracking the sub-soil is to let the rainwater seep through better and to allow the trees to root deeper. The experiment has been tried successfully on young trees but Mr. Robnett's orchard was selected for this experiment because it is already matured. Only half of the trees will be dynamited and the department of horticulture will compare the fruit borne by these trees with that of the rest of the orchard.

According to Prof. J. C. Whitten, much soil otherwise good for fruit raising has a layer of tight hardpan under it which makes it poor. If this can be loosened up after the trees are matured many orchards now unfruitful can be reclaimed, and much land now considered worthless for fruit-growing can be used for orchards.

The theory is that with a well drained sub-soil the trees are better adapted to resisting disease.

MANLIUS E. HULTZ DIES UNEXPECTEDLY

End Comes at 1:30 This Morning—Apparently in Good Health Yesterday.

CAUSE NOT KNOWN

Manlius E. Hultz, a former Boone County farmer and citizen of Columbia for the last seven years, died unexpectedly at his home, 513 South Fifth street, at 1:30 o'clock this morning.

Some time after midnight she heard Mr. Hultz breathing heavily and attempted to arouse him. She shook him lightly but he failed to respond. Realizing that he was ill, she called the neighbors and telephoned for a physician. When she returned to her husband's bedside he was dead. According to Dr. J. E. Thornton, who was called, the exact cause of Mr. Hultz's death is not known. He was known to have suffered from heart disease and his family attribute his death to that.

Mr. Hultz was born in Boone County, near Columbia, December 8, 1851. Most of his life was spent on a farm. During that time he was interested in various business enterprises. He was at one time secretary of the Rocheport Road Association and at the time of his death was a member of the Board of Directors in the Boone County Trust Company. Mr. Hultz was a prohibitionist and took an active part in temperance work. He was a member of the Board of Trustees of Christian College.

He had no children. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lena M. Hultz; a sister, Mrs. R. J. Booth of Columbia, and a brother, Edgar M. Hultz, a farmer living near Columbia.
