

THEY FAVOR HONOR SYSTEM

Sophomore Farmers Like the University of Virginia Plan.
The sophomores in the College of Agriculture decided definitely last night that the time had come to take a stand on the honor system for students in that college.
The class voted favorably on a motion to approve the constitution presented last year to the Agricultural Club by a committee composed of men who had investigated the honor system in other schools including the University of Virginia. The secretary was instructed to advise the Agricultural Club of the action taken in the matter.

Stunt Week was discussed as it seemed that sentiment was equally divided it was decided to take up the question some other time.
The following officers were elected: President, W. C. Dunckel; vice-president, L. S. Kleinschmidt; secretary, E. M. Staude, treasurer, Willard Wider; sergeant-at-arms, V. H. Drum.

AD CLUB CARNIVAL APRIL 4

Men to Have Charge of Work Will Be Chosen Tomorrow.

The annual Ad Club carnival will be held April 4. Plans were begun at a meeting of the club at the Y. M. C. A. Building Monday. In order that all may get into the work the entire club will be divided into three committees on advertising, stunts and arrangements, the chairman of the stunt committee acting as the chairman of all the committees. August Dieter, president of the club, said that he would appoint the three chairmen Thursday.

A report was heard from the letters sent out by the club for names of prospective students of the short course in agriculture. A. J. Meyer, director of the short course, said that he thought the Ad Club letter brought about three times as many returns as the letters he sent.

County club presidents were urged to send news of students from their counties who are in the University to their home papers in order to tell what is going on at the University.

There are now fifty-five active members of the Ad Club.

Mr. Dieter is anxious that each person who is eligible to membership in the club give his name and address to A. M. Howard, secretary of the club, at the Co-op.

MEN OBJECT TO BIG HATS IN CLASS ROOM

SMALLER IN SPRING

Fashion Papers Say New Easter Styles Will Fit Close to Head.

Is your hat large or small? No, this doesn't refer to your new Easter millinery but to the hat you wear to classes now, for there is a movement to discourage the large picturesque type.

A suggestion was made to a professor that the women should not be allowed to wear hats to a certain class. Of course the suggestion was made by a man with no eye for the beautiful. The professor was sympathetic and announced that hats would be tolerated in the back row only. The only way in which he could be inconvenienced by the size of the hats was in taking the roll, for some kinds obstruct the view, making it hard to tell whether some members are there or not. Possibly the instructor has had large hats in front of him at church or at the theatre. Maybe he issued the edict because a fellowman asked for it.

In a class in another department large hats are tabooed. The women are not the ones to decide whether their hats belong to the large or small class, nor the men next to them. The decision is left to the men who sit back of them. If a man is out for an office where equal suffrage has an influence, the easiest way for him to get it is to call all hats small, regardless of height and width.

A better time for issuing this order could not have been chosen, for the flowers and feathers that were beautiful in the fall have lost so much of their glory that their owners won't mind going without hats until the spring styles come. Fashion papers say they are going to fit close to the head, but the lack of width will be made up for in some degree by the "stick-ups."

FRUIT DISEASES CAUSE ANXIETY

Bill for Appointment of Orchard Inspector to Be Pushed.

Fruit growers of Missouri, in order to raise the standard of their product, have caused the drafting of a bill on the inspection of orchards and nurseries which is to be introduced in the House of Representatives by W. E. McRoberts.

Col. Richard Dalton, president of the Missouri State Board of Horticulture, recently stated that unless some action is taken to stamp out contagious diseases among the orchards, the state fruit growers will be unable to send their products to the Panama-Pacific Exposition to be held in California. This will be true of any other state where they have quarantine laws, he said.

The bill which Mr. McRoberts is to introduce at the suggestion of the Missouri fruit growers aims to eliminate unclean orchards. It provides for a state inspector, whose duties will be to inspect all orchards he hears are diseased and show the farmer how to combat the pests. If the fruit grower refuses to clean up his orchard after sixty days, the inspector will have the trees sprayed at the expense of the owner. This, it is expected, will insure the growing of healthy fruit all over the state.

The bill is supported by many fruit growers and by the State Board of Horticulture.

The State Board is sending circulars to fruit growers telling what are the best things to do for crops at this time of year. The circular has been written by Ashleigh P. Boles, secretary of the board, and is based on suggestions he received from successful growers in this state. "If the fruit growers follow these suggestions," said Mr. Boles, "Missouri will soon be competing with such states as New York, Illinois or Washington."
