contest held before the Columbia-Fayette baseball game. The solicitors disposed of eighty-eight admission coupons.

E. B. Cauthorn, principal, in order to stir up interest and finances, issued 100 tickets to each class president. The freshmen sold 62 tickets; the sophomores, 48; the seniors, 50. The total, 258, provided the biggest crowd of the season.

The junior class won the banner at the athletic carnival held recently. It has 119 members and is the largest junior class at the high school in years.

WOMEN CAN'T BUY FLIES

Civic League's Offer of Twenty Cents a Pint Brings No Results.

Flies at twenty cents a pint, dead or alive, and then they can't be bought—that's the experience of the Women's Civic League. For two weeks they have had the bounty on flies but as yet no flies have been brought in.

"It may be that the fly season has not opened strongly," said Mrs. James M. Wood recently. "The children seemed interested though when we talked to them about the proposition. It may be that they haven't had time to get that many flies together—you know it takes a good many to make a pint. We have been at the courthouse from 8 o'clock to 9:30 o'clock for the last two Saturday mornings. We will be there again tomorrow to give the plan a final test. If no one shows up we shall have to change our plans."

WOODS AND LOOMIS TO KANSAS

Will Meet Jayhawkers at Tennis—Leland Stanford Coming.

C. C. Woods and J. F. Loomis are the members of the tennis team that will meet Kansas at Lawrence tomorrow, while the track teams of the two schools are contesting here.

The Athletic Committee of the University last night voted to bring Leland Stanford University tennis team to Columbia for a dual meet with the Tigers. Monday is the day set for the contest. There will be two matches in singles and two in doubles.

Leland Stanford holds the Pacific Coast tennis championship. Murray and Hahn compose the team that is touring the country. They are now on their way East. After meeting the Tigers, they are to play at the University of Illinois.

"Tennis on the Pacific Coast is a much harder game than we play here," said Prof. C. L. Brewer, director of athletics, this morning. "It means a great deal to the Tigers to meet this Stanford team. Charles C. Woods, captain of the tennis team, and either J. F. Loomis or S. A. Underwood will represent Missouri. All three may get to play."

Missouri will also be represented in the Missouri Valley Conference tennis meet at Washington University May 22 and 23.

BEN GREET HIMSELF TO COME

Englishman, Born on River Thames, Plays on Campus, Commencement.

Ben Greet, the actor-manager whose company of players opens Commencement Week with outdoor productions of English masterpieces, was born on the river Thames on a training ship, of which his father was the commander. The boy originally intended to follow his father's profession but forsook it to become a schoolmaster.

He later played with many great actors, including Mary Anderson. He first entered into the management in 1886, in which year he gave a series of open air productions. This form of entertainment has grown in popularity and each year Ben Greet has more demand for pastoral performances than he can fill.

The plays here will be given before the Columns or in the natural amphitheater on the West Campus just north of Switzer Hall. In case of rain, the performances will be in the University Auditorium.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be given Friday night, May 29. Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops To Conquer" will be presented at a matinee Saturday and that night Shakespeare's "The Tempest." These are the first of Shakespeare's plays to be given in Columbia this year. Ben Greet and his English company will come this time. Last year a smaller company of the Ben Greet Players gave a matinee performance of "The Comedy of Errors" in the University Auditorium.

Ben Greet himself will be seen in the roles which have won him renown in England and America. The productions have been brought to Columbia by Samuel Ayers, Jr. The seat sale will begin Monday, May 25, at the Missouri Store and Allen's Music Store.

LECTURES ON INDUSTRIES

J. K. Wright Gives Illustrated Talks on Farming Operations in Mo.

The shades were drawn and all was quiet in the office of the State Board of Agriculture. The newcomer stood just inside the door, puzzled. He was uncertain whether he was in the wrong place; had unwittingly in-truded on a fraternal initiation; or the room was darkened to keep the flies out, when the familiar voice of Jewell Mayes said, "Tickets, please." J. Kelly Wright was giving a practice illustrated lecture on his new stereopticon machine. He has added to his list of farmers' institute lectures two illustrated lectures showing Missouri's industries, especially those in agriculture.

Mr. Wright explained that one of the preachers here on Farmers' Fair week said: "We would have better pastors if they knew more geography this side of the Jordan." Mr. Wright will show in his illustrated lectures more of the geography of Missouri. He will show farming operations and local conditions in various sections of the state.

The second lecture will be on agriculture as a factor in rural education.
