HOME-COMING DAY CELEBRATED

Welcome to Alumni and Parade Given Before Game.

At the football, mass meeting Friday night President A. Ross Hill extended a welcome to the alumni and out-of-town visitors. George Willson, last year's student president, and Judson Sanderson of the alumni spoke. Mr. Sanderson warned the students against conceding the game to Ames.

"Jack" Collier gave a little history of football in the University and spoke highly of the spirit that has always existed here. Dean Isidor Loeb told of his great confidence in the team.

Rothwell Gymnasium was the meeting place of many alumni Friday night at the home-coming reception. Everywhere were groups of "old grads" talking over old times. Dancing was the chief entertainment. Prof. and Mrs. C. L. Brewer and Miss Eva Johnson were the chaperons.

Yesterday the University and Columbia were "at home" to the old "M" men and alumni.

men and alumni. One feature arranged in their honor was a parade starting at the Columns at 1:30 o'clock. The University band led. Following the band the place of honor was given to President Hill of the University and the members of the Board of Curators.

Seniors, juniors, sophomores and freshmen followed in the order given. The route of the parade was from the Columns north on Eight street to Broadway, east to Hitt and south on Hitt to Rothwell Gymnasium.

Between halves Missouri's band marched on the field and formed the Missouri M. Ames' band, followed by sixteen rooters who did the snake dance and various stunts, marched around the cinder track and out onto the field where they played the Ames' school song.

THROUGH M. U. "ON A MULE"

Boy With Trick Animal Earning Money to Attend School.

Henry Harbaugh, an 18-year-old boy from Berdorf, Mo., was at the Kansas City Horse Show this week with his trick mule. Henry wants to attend the University of Missouri and is making his money to go to college by his trick mule, Zip.

Zip knows how to sit up on his haunches like a rabbit and walk around on his hind legs with Henry on his back and walk across the tank-bark arena on his knees and—oh, innumerable things. Also he can buck in the most humorous way—you're quite sure nobody but Henry could stick on.

There's an interesting story connected with Henry and Zip. Zip is an educated mule, and he is helping make Henry an educated boy. For the money that Henry receives for his talents and Zip's goes for Henry's education. The boy is half way through the high school at Avalon, Mo., and when he finishes he hopes to go to the University of Missouri.

Col. W. V. Galbraith, general manager of the horse show, got a letter from the trick mule's owner last week. The letter told about all the wonderful things Zip could do—and he can, too—and said if the colonel could find a place for him, please to let Henry know at once, as it's one hundred miles from Bedford to Kansas City, and would take some little time to ride. The boy, having no money to spend on railroad fare, proposed to ride his mule to Kansas City.

The boy starting training his mule five years ago, when he was 13 years old, and Zip was 3. Henry lived on a farm and he had no brothers and sisters. So he made a pet of Zip, and taught him all sorts of tricks. Then he began showing him at county fairs, and saving the money that he got to spend for education.

"You have to be patient—patient and kind," Henry said yesterday. "The first thing I ever taught Zip it took me two hours and a half. I wanted to see if I could make him lie down. I grabbed his opposite foreleg and held it up. I just had to tire him out, but at last he keeled over. Next day he did it in two minutes. He had learned what I wanted. It was easy after that."

Henry had never seen a trick mule, but he began thinking of other tricks. With infinite patience he showed Zip what was wanted. "Then he did it himself because he loved me," said the boy simply.

Henry never uses a whip to teach Zip tricks. He feeds him sugar, and is just kind to him and works with him and is patient. Now he learns faster than ever. You can teach an old mule new tricks, according to Henry.

Some Watch Game From Substitute Bench.

Some of the former "M" football men were on the substitute bench at the Missouri-Ames game yesterday afternoon. "Fat" Barton, Sol Hastings, H. L. McWilliams, "Cap" LeMire, James Pixlee and "Curly" Ristine were among these.

Ristine was captain of the 1909 team. The other five men have played together at Missouri, LeMire holding the captaincy of the 1912 team. McWilliams was the Tiger who scored the only points in the game which Missouri won from Kansas on Rollins Field last year.

Grain Judging Prizes Arrive.

Prizes won in the second annual students' grain judging contest, held last May are on display in the hall of the Agricultural Building. The prizes are three loving cups and four gold medals. The cups were given to the three men making the highest total score, while the medals were won by the grain judges.

Girls to Give Hallowe'en Party.

The University women will have their annual Hallowe'en party at Rothwell Gymnasium Saturday night. The girls of each district will dress in the costume of a particular nation. Interesting stunts have been planned.

Miss Margaret B. Drescher will re-class for grade school age at 4:15 in Hall Tuesday, October the twenty-seventh. The class for the high school age will meet at 3:15 and the class for grade school age at 4:15. These classes will meet twice a week, on Tuesdays and Fridays, for twelve sessions.
