

CLASS OF '91 TO HOLD REUNION

Twelve Who Graduated in Arts to Meet Here May 31.

Twenty-five years ago, in 1891, twelve persons composed the graduating class of the College of Arts and Science of the University. All of the number are alive and are planning their first reunion, as a class, for May 31.

W. R. Gentry, a St. Louis lawyer, who is one of the twelve, is taking an active interest in getting all of his classmates back for the occasion. H. H. Kinyon, alumni secretary, has received a copy of the letter Mr. Gentry has sent to his classmates.

The twelve members of the class are: Miss Leila Britt, F. P. Divilbliss, John H. Hatton, R. P. Ingram, W. R. Jennings, Henry S. McLeary, George G. Pratt, J. L. Russell, J. F. Paxton, L. N. B. Gray, J. B. Dormann and W. R. Gentry.

COLUMBIAN IS ONE GIRL IN 100

Miss Aldeah Wise Chosen "Eligible" in Beauty and Brains Contest.

Miss Aldeah Wise, a Columbia girl living at 201 West Broadway, has been selected as one of the hundred candidates in the Beauty and Brains contest, being conducted all over the country by the World-Equitable Motion Picture Corporation. The contest has been running eight months.

The contest called for an equal amount of brains and beauty, and the candidates were required to write a letter, stating their reasons for wanting to become movie actresses. Eleven girls will be chosen from the hundred already selected. They will be taken to New York and trained for motion picture work. There were 8,000 entrants.

JOURNALISM WEEK GUEST CATCHES SPIRIT OF M.U.

BY A. W. DOUGLAS IN THE ST. LOUIS TIMES.

Not unlike that statesman who discovered the Ten Commandments were those Wise Men of the East who discovered Columbia and the University.

They came to tell an eager and a listening audience of seemingly guileless and "easy" undergraduates—young men and co-eds—of the wonders of advertising, and how there was nothing to that antiquated sentiment about blushing unseen and wasting your sweetness.

And it would have greatly surprised these notables, for they were the choice spicers of their profession, to have known how soon they were labeled and appropriately docketed in their respective pigeon holes of merit or demerit by those same lamblike undergraduates who sat still and quiet and smiled and smiled like good little boys and girls, with the ruthless yet enthusiastic judgment of childhood.

Now it chanced by undeserved good fortune that, like Mowgly, I was admitted to the blood brotherhood of these elemental children of nature, so that I might understand the language of their clan.

Now there are three kinds of business men who essay to tell of their ways: Those who do not know their business and tell it with much facility; those who know their business and cannot tell of it at all, and those who both know and can tell. Now it was something to see how outwardly polite and attentive these same undergraduates were to all, and how the members of the first two classes, after "a once over" were reckoned as the "buzzy decks" species of unattractive young females. But also to see how these same pitiless, unsparing yet impartial critics hung upon the words of the third class, eager for knowledge and new methods, was to note and know that these men, who had something to say and knew how to say it, already had niches in that hall of admiration where dwells the hero of the football eleven, the professor who is the real teacher, the all around good fellow and good sport, and, most of all, that ineffable, indescribable, fetching, fascinating bit of femininity, the Curly Wolf.

There was one of the third class of those who know their business or their profession and can tell it, who caught their elemental imaginations because, though of the world, and much of it, he was as one of them, and talked as though into his own.

There were a stray few who sought to give advice, to sermonize, to impress the young, to indulge in ponderous platitudes and banal bunk, and it was all over with them after the first inning. Not so with him of whom I spoke, nor with those of his tribe who were there. For they seemed to realize that they were in that rare atmosphere which can be found only in college walls, where free speech and pure democracy are the accepted things in an undergraduate world. Where all things and all men and the things that they present must stand the acid test of an elemental, unflinching thought that hesitates not at conclusions even unto their last analysis.

And so if there was much trumpeting about the futility of modest virtues, and of the new philosophy that places the candle upon the hill top, there was also much analyzing and much admiration—and what was good came out in the wash, and the rest was forgotten. And to those who have things to tell that are worth while it was something even more worth while to have an audience that comes only in such surroundings.

ASKS STUDENTS TO ENCAMPMENT

Walter Krausnick, Sergeant Company I, St. Louis, Extends Invitation.

A letter just received by Cadet Colonel H. B. Gibson from Walter Krausnick, a 1909 graduate of the School of Engineering, first sergeant of Company I, St. Louis, invites St. Louis students who are members of the University Cadet Corps to join the company at its encampment at Nevada, Mo., July 12 to 20. Mr. Krausnick met Colonel Gibson at a military encampment at Ludington, Mich., some years ago. Captain Carnack of Company I is well known among military men here.

Mr. Krausnick ranks as the second best rifle shot in the National Guard of the United States, and in his letter says he is going to teach the men of Company I how to shoot this summer. All St. Louis students interested may obtain information and literature from Colonel Gibson at the military office.

M. U. Woman Elected at Middle Western S. G. A. Meeting.

Miss Gladys Udell, president of S. G. A. of the University of Missouri, was elected treasurer of the Middle Western Intercollegiate Association for Women's Self Government at the meeting which has just closed at Lincoln, Neb. Miss Ingrid Nisen of Minnesota University was elected president and Miss Katherine Brooks of Washington University, St. Louis, secretary. About fifteen colleges and universities belong to this association.

Miss Alberta Thornburgh was a delegate with Miss Udell from Missouri.

The meeting next year will be at the University of Minnesota.

MORE TO ARMS IN ENGLAND

Last of Great Britain's Single Men Answer Call.

By United Press. LONDON, May 11.—Wednesday, the last of Great Britain's single men eligible for army service are getting into khaki. In all parts of the country, young men 18 years old reported today and changed their civilian raiment for army "duds." They will remain in training until they have reached 19, when they will be subject to service in actual warfare.

With the first drafts reporting today, it is expected that within a month every eligible single man, whether attested under the Derby recruiting scheme or liable for service under the Conscription Act, will have left civilian pursuits for war duty. Carrying out pledges to the married eligibles, made in the House of Commons, the government is rapidly taking single men from munition factories and other government positions. They are being replaced by women. The first groups of married men who attested for service under the Derby plan are now beginning to assume the appearance of trained troops. They have been in service more than a month. Their ages range from 19 to 26.

C. H. S. COMMENCEMENT MAY 26

Past and Present Members of School Board Will Attend.

As one of the features of the Columbia High School commencement exercises to be held May 26, all the past and present members of the board of education will attend. Dean Walter Williams of the School of Journalism, a member of the board from 1896 to 1902, will deliver the commencement address. There are twenty-three members of past school boards who still live in Columbia.

The first board of education was elected in January, 1893. The members were: R. H. Clinkscales, W. T. Anderson, John M. Samuel, E. A. Moore, T. B. Gentry and J. P. Moss.

Students Edit Louisiana Paper.

The School of Journalism has received a copy of the Reveille, a weekly publication issued by the students of Louisiana State University. The issue, that of May 4, is devoted especially to the convention of the Louisiana Press Association and the work of the university journalism department. It is written and edited by the students in Journalism.

against (24512) Elma C. Lloyd, Pearl Lloyd, Frank Lloyd, Sammy Lloyd, Bell Tapp, Ross Lloyd, Hallie H. Lloyd, Anetah A. Nichols, Laura Lloyd Crigler, Gussie Smith and Fledging W. Smith, Executor of the last will and testament of Simeon B. Lloyd, deceased. Defendants.

THE STATE OF MISSOURI, to the above named non-resident defendants, Frank Lloyd, Sammy Lloyd, Ross Lloyd, Hallie H. Lloyd, Anetah A. Nichols, GREETING: Now on this, the 1st day of May, 1916, in vacation before the June Term, 1916, of the Circuit Court of Boone County, Missouri, come the plaintiffs, by their attorneys, and file their petition in suit herein, and in said petition state, among other things, that the defendants, Frank Lloyd, Sammy Lloyd, Ross Lloyd, Hallie H. Lloyd, and Anetah A. Nichols are non-residents of the State of Missouri and that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon them in this state.

It is therefore ordered by the clerk of said court, in vacation, that the said non-resident defendants, Frank Lloyd, Sammy Lloyd, Ross Lloyd, Hallie H. Lloyd, Anetah A. Nichols, be notified by publication that the plaintiffs, by petition herein filed of date May 1, 1916, have commenced against them, and the other defendants herein, in the Circuit Court of Boone County, Missouri, an action at law and in equity in which said action the plaintiffs pray the Court that it issue an order up in said Court whether the purported last will and testament of one Simeon B. Lloyd, deceased, and purporting to have been witnessed by Simon H. Levy and William R. Shaefer, and purporting to dispose of the estate of said Simeon B. Lloyd, deceased, both real and personal) be the last will and testament of said Simeon B. Lloyd, or not, and that said instrument be rejected as the last will and testament of the said Simeon B. Lloyd and the probate thereof be set aside and for naught held and that said will be held to be the last will and testament of said Simeon B. Lloyd, deceased.

It is further ordered that said non-resident defendants be and appear in this court on the first day of the next term thereof, to be holden at the court house in the City of Columbia, Boone County, Missouri, on Monday, June 19th, 1916, to answer or plead to said petition, or in default therein said petition will be taken as confessed and judgment will be rendered against them.

It is further ordered that a copy hereof be duly published in The University Missourian, a daily newspaper, printed, published and circulated in said Boone County, and designated by plaintiffs' attorneys as most likely to give notice to said defendants; the last insertion of said order of publication in said newspaper to be at least fifteen days before the first day of said next term of said court.

A true copy from the record: WITNESS my hand as clerk of the Circuit Court of Boone County, Missouri, and the seal of said court. Done at office in Columbia, Missouri, this 3rd day of May, 1916. JAS. E. BOGGS, Clerk. By R. S. POLLARD, Deputy.

Religious Writers Send Works.

The State Historical Library this week received contributions from two of Missouri's most prominent religious writers—seventeen volumes of the works of Bishop William A. Quayle and four of those of Bishop Eugene R. Hendrix. Bishop Quayle, though a native Missourian, is now a resident of Minneapolis. He is a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, North. Bishop Hendrix resides in Kansas City and is a bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.
