OLD-CLOTHES MAN PROFITS FROM DEPARTING STUDENTS

"Has anybody here seen that gray suit of mine and that blue sweater? This makes about $50 worth of clothes that have been purloined from me during the year, and I'm getting darned tired of supplying the dear brother."

"Last I saw of that sweater or yours, somebody else was wearing it, and I haven't seen your suit for at least a week. Just now I'm looking for the raincoat that I bought last April and those ties that dad sent me from New York. Those ties cost $3 apiece, and I never wore them except on Sunday, and now some insect has got away with them."

Such kind words are now being heard around the various fraternity and rooming houses at this time of the year when some students have the advantage of leaving before the rest. The lucky person that gets through with his exams first and the seniors that leave right after Commencement make a tour of the rooms gathering up their own clothes.

Another source of discomfort is the old-clothes men that are now visiting Columbia. With their shrewd insight into human affairs, they know that the average student is even more "broke" now than at any other time. So they go around, offer a dollar or so for a perfectly good suit and are taken up.

Old books are another source of revenue. Some students hear the call of the "filthy lucre" and gather as many old books as they can and take them to the dealer, who pays about 10 cents on the dollar. The seller "should worry" if he sells a history book of someone else and the history final two days off!

So there are more reasons than one why students hate to see their friends leave town, especially if the friends leave early.

FOR ANNUAL CONVENTION HERE

Social Welfare Workers of Missouri Will Meet in November.

Officers of the Missouri Conference of Social Welfare Workers are planning for a big convention in Columbia the second week in November. This will be the sixteenth annual meeting of the society, and a large delegation from cities and towns of the state, as well as other states, is expected. Between 500 and 1,000 are already assured.

As usual the best speakers of the state on social welfare will be on the program, and in addition efforts are being made to secure some noted national men and women. Julia Lathrop, director of the child welfare bureau at Washington, D. C., is expected. Thomas Mott Osborne, warden of the Sing Sing prison, probably will be here.

"We have reason to believe that this year's convention will be the best we have ever had," said J. L. Wagner, secretary of the association. "The society, which until two years ago was called the Conference of Charities and Corrections, has been doing good work during the year."

"This year several new features will be on the program. A model Baby Week will be held by members of the Columbia Child Welfare Association. There will also be a meeting of the officers of state institutions connected with our work."

SCHWABE IS WESTMINSTER STAR

Columbia Boy Wins Title of Best All-Around Track Athlete.

J. S. Schwabe, Jr., graduate and former athletic star of the Columbia High School, came home last night from Fulton, bringing with him the title of "best all-around track and field athlete in Westminster College."

The title was won by Schwabe a freshman this year, in the annual June event staged at Westminster to award this title. Each contestant takes part in all events, the man holding the highest number of points being declared the best athlete.

Thirteen track and field events were scheduled. At the end of the tenth, Schwabe had won thirty-nine points, enough to win without the other three events. First place in the high and low hurdles, the discus throw and shot put, ties for first in the high jump and the broad jump, and second places in the 100-yard, 50-yard and 220-yard dashes were won by the Columbia star.

A silver loving cup was the trophy accompanying the title.

TRACTOR FOR HARG DISTRICT

Will Be for Hauling Rock From Quarries—May Work Convicts.

The commissioners for the Harg benefit road district purchased from B. C. Biggerstaff, representing the Hart-Parr Tractor Company of Charles City, Ia., a forty brake-horse-power, oil-burning and oil-cooled tractor for use on the roads in the Harg district yesterday. The tractor will be utilized in the hauling of crushed rock from the quarries and is made so that a ten-foot grader can be attached.

The commissioners are also trying to get convicts from Jefferson City to use in getting crushed stone from the quarries for the Fulton gravel.

SIMPSON NOT CAPTAIN—YET

But Champion Hurdler Probably Will Lead 1917 Track Teams.

That Robert I. Simpson, Tiger track star, has not yet been unanimously elected captain of next year's University of Missouri track team, was the statement given out at Rothwell Gymnasium this afternoon.

The Tiger track men are voting by mail. All of the votes have not yet been received. Though it is practically certain that the Bosworth boy will lead the 1917 track team, he has not yet been elected.

KIEL WILL MISS CONVENTION

St. Louis Mayor Will Go With Ad Club to Philadelphia.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 7.—Mayor Kiel of St. Louis is going to set an example for the "boosters" of his city this month when he journeys to Philadelphia with the Advertising Club of St. Louis to make a fight to obtain the 1917 convention of the World's Advertising Clubs for the Missouri metropolis.

In order to attend the convention in Philadelphia the latter part of this month, Mayor Kiel will "pass up" the Republican convention in Chicago. Not that the two conventions come upon the same date but the city official announced that municipal business would make it unwise for him to leave St. Louis twice this month and he thought that he could do more good by whooping things up in Philadelphia for the St. Louisans than listening to the nominating speeches in Chicago.

Mayor Kiel will work hard to land the 1917 convention for St. Louis and will explain the many advantages of his town as a convention city. The Philadelphia convention will start on June 25. In addition to the Mayor a number of prominent St. Louisans will accompany the members of the local organization on a special train.

WOULD HAVE PATENT ON STYLES

Bill Is in Congress to Allow Protection on Clothing.

Sometimes a Congressman introduces a bill "by request," which means that he does it as a favor, but without enthusiasm.

Representative Morrison, of Indiana, introduced a bill "by request" that illustrates how laws are being urged that will apply to every nook and crook of commercial activity.

It is House Bill No. 6458, to enable clothing manufacturers to patent styles. If a style dealer produces a coat-tail that catches the popular fancy is there any reason why he should not have exclusive rights to that coat-tail?

If you want to know what a nation of money-struggling neurasthenic noodles we are becoming, read this latest effort to extract royalties from button-holes, pleats, gussets, gores and drapings.

A lot of other things "not now registerable nor patentable under the copyright act" also come under the provisions of this bill. Just to mention: bottles, borders, jewelry, plumbing fixtures and bric-a-brac. To prove that the design is "new and original." Ah! that would be fun for the lawyers, and that is what laws are for.—Art Young in the July Metropolitan.

ENCOURAGES TOWN MERCHANTS

M. U. Advertising Instructor Urges Use of "Big Business" Ways.

"The small town merchant too often is of the opinion that it is impossible for him to compete with the mail order house in the big city," says J. B. Powell, instructor in advertising in the University. This idea is wrong, according to Mr. Powell, who says that if "big business" methods are adopted by small concerns the annual profits will be as large proportionately as those of large mail order houses which send out beautifully decorated catalogues.

Strict adherence to an accurate system of bookkeeping, competent clerks, store service and judicious advertising are some of the methods of "big business" Mr. Powell urges. About 5 per cent of the year's gross sales should be expended each year for advertising by the average business man. For the small town merchant the home newspaper is the best advertising medium. Care in the writing of advertisements should be one of the most important parts of the "big business" system, according to Mr. Powell.
