

COUNCIL WILL DECIDE ON HEALTH MEASURE

Model Ordinance Will Come Up Before Adjourned Session Tonight.

KELLOGG BACKS IDEA Present Trouble Is Caused by Lack of Proper Authority, He Says.

The City Council will hold an adjourned meeting tonight to take up the matter of the health ordinance, which consists of nine articles dealing with general health principles and ways of enforcing these principles in Columbia.

Special effort is being made by members of the council to secure an ordinance which will be at once effective and workable. Several provisions for health facilities are on the list of city ordinances at present, but these have not been collected and published since 1906, and several new things have been found since that time which may aid in city improvement.

The ordinance to be considered tonight contains some of the old ordinances with a few changes and additions. The city has always had a board of health, but during the last few years this board has felt handicapped by a lack of authority, according to O. D. Kellogg who will submit the ordinance.

A sanitary inspector is also provided for in the new ordinance. Three members of the council will serve on the Board of Health as arranged. This board will serve as a go-between and be of value in interpreting the ideas of the board to the council as well as the ideas of the council to the board.

"The objections to the old set of ordinances," says Mr. Kellogg, "are that they are not satisfactory and workable."

The reasons he gives for this are: the responsibility for looking after the public health has not been definitely placed; those at the present handicapped by the public welfare feel handicapped by a lack of authority and inasmuch as the city is engaged in a complete revision of its ordinances, it would mean saving of time for the ordinance to be put in a complete and final form.

The provision for three members of the council serving on the Board of Health will, it is thought, bring about the authority which at the present time seems lacking.

M. A. HART HEADS CONVENTION Columbia Pastor Honored at State Meeting for Missionary Work.

The Rev. Madison A. Hart, pastor of the First Christian Church of Columbia, was elected president of the State Missionary Convention of the Christian Church, held at Sedalia from June 12 to 15. The Rev. B. A. Abbott of St. Louis is the retiring president. The Rev. R. B. Briney of Kansas City was re-elected corresponding secretary for next year.

The Ministerial Association held its meetings on the night of June 12 and the morning of June 13. The afternoon of June 13 was given over to the woman's missionary work in the state. June 15 was devoted to Sunday school and general missionary work.

Mr. Hart returned to Columbia this morning. He said that more than 500 delegates attended the convention.

Convention Notes

Hold Big Press Club Frolic.

The fourth annual frolic of the St. Louis Press Club was the big amusement event of importance for all St. Louis Wednesday night. The visiting newspaper men and rural press representatives of Missouri were the guests of honor at the sunset to sunrise fun-fest at the Delmar Gardens.

E. W. Stephens and Bryan Together.

E. W. Stephens and William Jennings Bryan were seated on the raised platform for the guests of honor. Mr. Stephens looked quite chic (Becky Sharp would say) in his red, white and blue carnival hat perched on the northeast corner of his head. Mr. Bryan refused to don one of the merry maker's headpieces. It is said that he likes to show how well he looks with his hair parted in the middle.

Notables Leave Frolic Early.

All of the notable guests left the frolic about 10 p. m. But as I mentioned the affair was advertised as from sunset—others stayed later.

Fount Rothwell Lectures.

The first place Boone Countians hit for upon arriving here is the office of Fount Rothwell, collector of Internal Revenue, who knows more people and more dogs in Boone than any other person in the city. At the Press Club frolic Mr. Rothwell appeared in a new role: that of lecturer and narrator during the exhibition of a movie film, showing a Central Missouri fox hunt.

How They Get in the Hall.

Favorite indoor sport among St. Louis newspaper men at the nominating session of the convention last night—getting 45 reporters, copy-readers, editors and office boys by the doorkeepers with five press passes. This is how it is done. Five men with tickets enter Coliseum. Tickets are collected, given to one man who goes out and returns a little later with 4 new brethren. Tickets collected again. Four more enter. So on until the whole gang is safely seated in the hall.

J. E. Boggs a Busy Man.

The convention proceeded in "regular" fashion after 1 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. At that hour James E. Boggs, Boone County's political general, hove into town with Sheriff Bert Sapp as his right hand man. While primarily in town to see the big doings at the Coliseum Bert dropped around to pay his respects to Colonel Gardner and Mr. Boggs is as busy as ever talking his gubernatorial candidate from Macon. John T. Barker will finish one, two or three in the race for nomination for governor this fall, according to the Boone County Circuit Clerk, and one would have a hard time convincing him that Barker will occupy either the second or third place in the vote getting.

A Case of Mutual Ignorance.

Yesterday I interviewed a state senator from Massachusetts, a delegate. He registered (to use a "movie" term) much surprise when buttonholed as he left the train in Union Station. "Why I didn't suppose there were any newspapers west of the Alleghenies," he said. And then I made the same record for ignorance when I asked him the difference between Boston and East Boston. From the look he gave me I suppose the relation must be somewhat like that of Columbia and McKaine.

MRS. S. C. HUNT LEADS U. B. C.

Officers Chosen at Annual Election—August Meeting Place Selected. The John S. Marmaduke Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy held its annual country meeting with Mrs. Harry Keene, north of Columbia, yesterday.

Thirty members attended. The officers elected are: President, Mrs. S. C. Hunt; first vice-president, Mrs. J. M. Batterton; second vice-president, Mrs. T. F. Sutton; third vice-president, Mrs. W. W. Scott; recording secretary, Mrs. S. E. Smith; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bernard Hunt; treasurer, Mrs. Walter Robinson; registrar, Mrs. Hugh Baker; historian, Miss Mary Dyssart.

The next meeting will be in August at the home of Mrs. Walter Robinson. The leader will be Mrs. J. M. Batterton. "Historical Scenes of Omission and Commission" will be the subject.

Miss Hulett to Wed Teacher.

A marriage license was issued yesterday to Albert Victor Davies of Fulton and Miss Imogene Hulett of Hallsville. Miss Hulett is the daughter of Robert Hulett. She is a graduate of William Woods College. Mr. Davies is an instructor of music there.

ALL'S QUIET AT STEPHENS; EVEN TEACHERS ARE GONE

Except for the swimming pool and the business office, Stephens College is practically deserted. All the students have gone away for the vacation season. Some of the teachers are still in Columbia, but the majority of them have gone elsewhere for the summer.

President James M. Wood is now out of town, but will be busy in the Stephens College office most of the summer. E. A. Collins and Roy T. Davis are in the field soliciting students for next year.

Three of the teachers at Stephens are now at Cambridge, Mass., attending the Harvard summer school. Miss Sarah Anderson and Miss Blanche Preston, who live in Boston and who teach the biblical studies at Stephens, are spending the summer in Massachusetts. Miss Anderson in Cambridge and Miss Preston in Boston. Miss Eva West, teacher of English, and Miss Josephine Barlow, the expression teacher, are studying at Harvard this summer.

The dean of the school of music, Basil D. Gauntlett, and all the music faculty are spending their vacation in Columbia. Mr. Gauntlett is teaching piano in the University, and Miss Fannie Mae Ross is studying under Mr. Gauntlett. Mrs. Reuben Lucas, who teaches voice, is spending the summer at her home in Columbia. Miss Mayme Giessing, the primary teacher in piano, is teaching a small class at the college this summer.

Willis Weaver, the chemistry teacher, and Miss Ardenia Chapman, who teaches home economics, are attending the University Summer Session. Miss Althea Holt, also of the home economics department, is attending the University of Chicago. The art teacher, Miss Madeline Flint, is taking a pleasure trip through the West. Mrs. Pearl Beauchamp, who teaches Latin, is spending the summer at Fulton.

Although the regular students and most of the teachers have departed, Stephens College is not a quiet place. About seventy University and Columbia girls are taking lessons in swimming, and they make enough noise to convince the neighborhood that the college is not dead. The girls enjoy the sport, and their number is increasing daily. The teacher has her hands full, with two classes for children from 8 to 14 years old and five classes for girls.

The receipts at the Columbia post-office for the year just closed exceeded the receipts of the previous year by more than $6,500, according to a statement by Postmaster J. H. Guitlar. A substantial part of this gain is due to the increased sale of money orders.

The amount of mail handled since the beginning of the Summer Session was larger than the amount for the corresponding period last summer, Mr. Guitlar said.

CLUBS WOULD PROTECT TREES

Local Organizations Say They Are Hampered by Lack of Laws.

The preservation of trees in Columbia is a question which has been considered by the local Civic League for the last two years. Investigation by the committee for the preservation of trees shows that there is no law by which the trees can be protected. Many states have in their statute books, laws regulating the protection of shade trees in towns and cities. Each of these states leaves the towns and cities free to supplement the state by local ordinance.

The committees of the local chapters of the Tuesday Club, the Civic League and the D. A. R. are co-operating to get similar laws in Missouri. In the meantime they can only endeavor to create a public sentiment favorable to the preservation of trees.

Prof. E. R. Hedrick suggests that if in each body of workmen engaged in cutting trees there was placed an expert pruner, the trees could be pruned without injury. This is a suggestion which the Civic League may consider. The next meeting will be June 27 at the Y. M. C. A. Building. Prof. H. L. Kempster will speak on poultry.

WORK ON PLATFORM BUSIES CONVENTION

With Wilson and Marshall Renominated, Democrats Thresh Out Problems.

SUFFRAGE PUT AWAY Franchise Is Held to Be Matter for States—Long Fight in the Committee.

By United Press.

ST. LOUIS, June 16.—Sleep bedraggled delegates greeted Ollie James, chairman of the Democratic Convention, when he dropped the gavel at 11:29 o'clock this morning beginning the third day's session.

Renomination of the platform was the sole remaining work of the convention. Many of the delegates were absent, and the galleries were deserted. There were more cheers today than last night over the nomination of Wilson and Marshall.

Unmeasured denunciations of hyphe-nated Americans, lauding of Democracy's achievements during its three years of administration, promise of additional labor legislation, fervid endorsements of preparedness and Americanism—these were the principal planks of the platform which the resolutions committee presented after a fight of twenty-two hours.

Suffrage caused a big fight, but was held to be a matter for the states.

Convention Adjourns at 3:11 O'clock.

By United Press. ST. LOUIS, June 16.—After adopting the platform the convention adjourned sine die at 3:11 o'clock this afternoon. The big debate was over the suffrage plank.

"NO FRICTION AT CONVENTION"

So Say J. E. Boggs and Bert Sapp, Who Attended From Columbia.

Circuit Clerk J. E. Boggs and Sheriff G. Bert Sapp returned last night from the Democratic National Convention in St. Louis, filled with the enthusiasm that usually results from attending such gatherings.

The two Columbia Democrats reached St. Louis too late to hear the keynote address of the convention by former Governor Glynn of New York, picked the Republican platform to James of Kentucky. "Ollie James just but heard the speech of Senator Ollie pieces," said Mr. Boggs.

"There was not a bit of friction at the convention," said Mr. Boggs. "More than once did Bryan, who was only a newspaper representative, break out to cheer the Administration and the Democratic candidates.

"The audience and delegates approved the Bryan loyalty to the party by howling their voices hoarse for about thirty minutes for a speech from the Commoner. So insistent were the galleries and some of the delegates that Ollie James promised to call on Bryan as soon as he finished his speech. The audience did not hear Bryan yesterday because he left the press gallery when James finished talking."
