SPINACH-FED BABIES THRIVE IN GERMANY

W. G. Shepherd Tells How Vegetables Take the Bottle's Place.

ARE MIXED IN BROTH

Carrots and Apple Sauce Are Used—Mothers Go to Holland for Milk.

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

ROTTERDAM, Holland, May 26.—(By Mail)—Right into the baby's cradle, at his five daily meal times, reaches the hand of the great German government, in wartime.

It snatches his milk bottle from him, empties out half the milk and fills up the bottle with breakfast food.

Twice a day, when bottle-time comes, this great hand keeps his bottle away from him and, with a spoon feeds him with apple sauce, crushed carrots and seived spinach.

You can't get the babies to talk about it, though their mothers have a great deal to say on the subject. But the fact remains that the babies thrive on their new menus and that perhaps the baby experts of Germany have found a new and better way to fill baby stomachs.

Need Certificate to Get Milk.

"Here's my little muchacho," said a Spanish lady from Germany who had, as she said, "brought him out to get him some milk." She displayed a little fellow of 8 months.

"In our town in Germany, if the doctor gives you a certificate, you may have a pint of milk a day for your baby.

"The doctor works with the government, you understand, and he makes every effort to persuade mothers to nurse their children at the breast.

"If he considers that a mother is able to do this, he will not issue a milk certificate and the mother will not be able to purchase milk.

"Nurses also are under government control and when they discover that a mother is able to nurse her baby it is her duty to notify the mother to that effect and it then becomes his duty to cancel the milk ticket.

Can't Get Much Milk.

"The milk that is issued is not enough for a baby, of course, but the scientists have worked out a way of mixing it with an oatmeal or wheat broth. This is fed from the bottle three times a day. But he must have food two other times every day and the scientists are busily instructing physicians and nurses, who in turn instruct mothers how to cook apples, carrots and spinach for the babies.

"We cook the apples or carrots until soft as porridge and serve it to the baby with a spoon. He hasn't a tooth in his head, yet, but he has learned to eat from a spoon. We put the boiled spinach through a sieve."

"What does he like best of the three?"

"Apples, because we always put a little sugar into the apple sauce. Carrots he likes also, but spinach! He makes faces at it, but when he cries for food, he can't always be silenced even with spinach.

Babies Get Fat on War Food.

"He grows fat on his war food, too. My other children always had milk five times a day, and as much as they wanted. They liked milk, as all babies do. But this baby is learning to eat things that he doesn't like.

"I don't like to see him have to do it. I feel sorry when I must feed him spinach. Think of it! And so here I am in Holland to give him all the milk he wants for a time. He laughs and coos every time he sees the milk bottle coming. He knows the difference between milk and carrots."

"Doesn't he?" she said, turning to the baby. He said something which was taken for "yes."

(Getting a breakfast for your home in Germany will be the theme of the next Shepherd German food story. It's a task worth reading about.)

WOULD HAVE SCHOOLS STUDY WASHING OF SOILS

The amount of damage which the soil suffers from working is but little realized by Missouri farmers, says M. F. Miller, professor of soils in the College of Agriculture of the University.

The muddiness of streams in Northern Missouri in particular indicates that the soil in that part of the state is washing badly. When the soil washes the cream of the land disappears, says Professor Miller. Some evidence that this washing is taking place is apparent in the gullies that are left after a rain, but little indication of the more serious "sheet" washing is given.

Professor Miller suggests that the teacher of agriculture in the rural school call the attention of the youths to what is taking place around them. The corn fields where the ground is left bare after a heavy rain and the wheat fields in the fall where the land is cut in little gullies are subjects for lessons in observation. Properly directed the country boy's attention to them will do much to conserve Missouri's soil wealth. They indicate the importance of keeping the land in such condition that it will not wash.

For this purpose three general rules should be observed:

- 1. Keep the soil up in organic matter or humus.
2. Winter cover crops should be used where possible.
3. When washing starts, stop it immediately with straw.

If these simple rules are followed, the amount of good done for the soil of the state will be inestimable, impressing upon the country boy in school the importance of the old adage "A stitch in time saves nine," in this particular relation to agriculture will bring permanent results when he puts these theories into practice on the farm.

WILL TRY TO REORGANIZE ROAD

Directors of St. Louis-Minneapolis Line Meet Today to Make Plans.

By United Press. MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., June 21.—Negotiations between the opposing factions may bring adoption of the proposed arrangement for reorganizing and refinancing the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railway company by placing a $20 assessment on each share of stock.

It is understood that if the other scheme to avoid the levy fails, the opposition then will agree to the original arrangement. Although five meetings were held, some time ago, the organization scheme was not put to a final vote, despite reports that proponents of the arrangement controlled 75 per cent of the proxies.

At the final meeting B. F. Spellman of New York, representing the opposition, said he had a new reorganization proposition which would eliminate the assessment feature of the original one. He added that the $50,000 underwriters' fees could be saved, and that the company "would go direct to its stockholders for the money needed."

After the meeting counsel for the railroad issued a statement saying that "the adjournment was to see if Mr. Spellman's clients can formulate a plan for raising the necessary $1,500,000 for reorganizing and refinancing the railroad which will be mutually satisfactory to all parties concerned."

Example of What Store "Service" is—NOT

This is an honest-to-goodness true record.

A young matron recently entered a great department store in a great western city.

She had a charge account there, but not wishing to charge the purchase of 25-cents worth of goods, she handed the sales-girl a $2 bill.

The little package was handed her—but with only 75 cents change. Through the mistake of someone, she was short changed $1. She called the sales-girl's attention to the mistake. The girl summoned the floorwalker. This regular customer of the store—who, remember, had had a promptly paid monthly account there for several years—was then put through quite a little "third degree." She was asked to return her sales slip and the 75 cents. She did all that. She was then assured that all would be made right and she departed.

Day after day passed. No explanatory letter, no $1.75—nothing. The matter was finally taken up with an executive of the store, in a very polite way. Still more time passed. Finally a curt, three-line letter was received by the young matron. The check for $1.75 was there all right. But here is what was not there—here is what hurt. There was not one word in that letter stating that the store management regretted all this petty annoyance caused a regular patron, who had been short changed by the carelessness of a sales-girl—and who thereafter had been embarrassed for days in department store red-tape.

Is that lady "sore" at that store?

You bet she is—and with good reason.

Is that STORE SERVICE?

It is N-O-T—From "Team-Work."—St. Louis.
