

MEMBERS OF THE MISSOURI PRESS ASSOCIATION IN KANSAS CITY

This picture of the editors of the State was taken while they were on a motor car ride at the Golden Jubilee meeting last week. The motor car ride included a trip over the famous Cliff Drive where the members of the association "posed" for a photograph.

At Stephens College

About fifty girls were turned away from Stephens College this year because of the lack of living rooms. Even now there are four girls there who have no rooms of their own but are living with other girls. Arrangements are being made for adding two new rooms to the building to accommodate them.

Because of the crowded rooming conditions at Stephens College, all but eight of the twenty-six teachers are living outside of the building this year. Heretofore practically all the teachers had their rooms in the college dormitory.

Showing the confusion in which outsiders sometimes hold college phraseology, Roy T. Davis, business manager of Stephens College, tells the following: "A visitor at the college asked one of the teachers if she had graduated from Columbia University. The teacher answered no, but that she could graduate in a very short time as she only had eight hours to finish. "Well," said the visitor, "I should think you would have stayed over one day and finished."

Following their annual custom, the old girls of Stephens College under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A., gave a "kid" party Monday night for the new girls. The old girls were dressed as little boys and the new girls as little girls. Children's games were played, and refreshments of ice cream cones and animal cookies were served. Symbolizing the friendship that is to exist between the old and new girls, an old girl was "married" to a new one. Miss Wanda Bryant of Abington, Ill., acted as the groom, and Miss Cathryn Curry of Kansas City, as the bride.

ROACH WONT ALLOW VOTE ON PROHIBITION

Secretary of State Says That Amendment Violates U. S. Constitution.

Secretary of State Roach last night refused to submit to state election officers the proposed prohibition amendment to the state constitution. Roach holds that the proposed amendment is a violation of the federal constitution because it undertakes to prohibit the shipment of liquor into the state.

In a letter to Charles E. Stokes of Clinton, who was largely instrumental in circulating the petitions, Roach claimed that the proposed amendment shows a clear intent to interfere with interstate commerce and is in direct violation of a clause in the Constitution which says that congress shall have power "to regulate commerce with foreign nations and among the several states."

That the proposed instrument clearly intends to interfere with interstate commerce is made doubly clear by the exclusion of liquor for medicinal, scientific and mechanical purposes, Mr. Roach continued.

The Secretary of State says he does not feel justified in putting upon the state the expense of an election upon a proposition which he deems absolutely void. He contends that all the subjects included in the proposed instrument cannot be enacted into one single amendment.

COWBOYS "RAID" A TOWN

Westerners—Girls, Too—Compete for $5,000 at Pendleton, Ore.

By United Press. PENDLETON, Ore., Sept. 21.—Cowboys and girls who didn't get the prize money they won in the ill-starred "stampede" in New York recently appeared before 60,000 cheering westerners here today to compete for $5,000 in cash prizes which they insisted in seeing before they would work.

When the big show started wild and woolly west came into its own. More than 100 broncho busters, wild horse tamers and steer bulldoggers began a three-day championship contest. The annual Pendleton Round-up opened bigger than ever.

Special trains brought visitors from San Francisco, Portland, Spokane, Boise, La Grande, Walla Walla, and many other cities. The biggest individual prize was offered in the cowboy's relay race. Eleven teams are entered. Some of the fastest riders are girls—Bertha Blanchett, Ruth Parton, Vera McGinnis and Mabel Le Long. The Weir boys of Monument, N. M., are favorites. All of these were in the "stampede," that flivvered in New York recently.
