

FIVE ARE DEAD AS FIRE BURNS ST. LOUIS C.B.C.

Two Brothers and an Assistant Die in the Ruins of Catholic School.

DOES WORK QUICKLY

In Less Than Hour Blaze Wipes Out College, One of Oldest in U. S.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 5.—Five persons are dead and others missing as a result of fire which destroyed Christian Brothers College here today. The dead: Brother Carmack, 92; Brother Clement, 78; Louis Nolan, 35; Fire Lieut. Budde and Ladderman Kuehnert.

Brothers Carmack and Clement were burned to death in the infirmary. Nolan died of injuries received as he leaped from a window of the infirmary where he was a nurse.

A wall collapsed at noon and buried beneath it a dozen firemen. Some of them scrambled from beneath the wreckage. Firemen Budde and Kuehnert were struck by heavy timbers and killed. Three men are missing and are thought to be beneath the ruins, according to Fire Chief Henderson at 3 o'clock.

The monetary loss is given at $300,000.

The fire, which started at 7:30 o'clock spread rapidly and in less than an hour had almost completely destroyed the institution, one of the oldest Catholic schools in the United States.

Brother Carmack, among the oldest brothers in the order, was on the retired list and lived in the infirmary on the fifth floor. The infirmary was cut off almost immediately after the outbreak. The small death list was due to the rule which compels students to rise at 6 o'clock. There are about 300 students in the school. The destruction of the college probably means the disbandment of the institution in St. Louis.

NEW LINOTYPE IS INSTALLED

Herald-Statesman Machine Can Set All Missourian Headlines.

The Herald-Statesman Publishing Company has installed one of the best linotypes on the market. This is a Model 19. The chief characteristic of this machine is the added magazine which enables the operator to set the heads for the Missourian and also to set up display advertising. There are two magazines, each containing a font of type.

Thus, the new machine will be able to set five different faces of type, able to set five different kinds of type.

The installing of this machine will mean that the Herald-Statesman Company will have all the advantages of metropolitan newspapers in the setting up of type. The cost of the machine, including all the extra equipment, is $3,000.

The new linotype arrived in Columbia Saturday afternoon. H. M. Craig, superintendent, has set up the machine and been running it for the last 3 days. Today's issue of the Missourian is issued by the new linotype.

INVITATIONS SENT OUT

6,500 Trade Week Announcements Mailed to Boone County Residents.

Everything is "all set" for Trade Week, which starts next Monday, October 7, and lasts until Saturday night, October 14. Through the announcements of the Columbia merchants participating in the event, exactly 6,500 invitations to the people in Boone and surrounding counties have been set out or are being mailed tonight and tomorrow. In addition to this several of the merchants are sending out advertising matter to hundreds of people on their mailing lists.

Practically every line of business in town is represented and it is possible to purchase anything from a dishpan to a suit of clothes, a package of candy, or a set of furs. The variety of merchandise offered makes it easy for any family to obtain a complete outfit of merchandise for fall and winter needs—and at the same time have their railroad fares or wagon road mileage refunded.

SAYS STATE TRAILS IN SOCIAL WELFARE

C. A. Ellwood, at Commercial Club Luncheon, Attacks Political Misrule.

ASKS CIVIL SERVICE

Speaker Explains Plans for Conference to Meet Here in November.

"Missouri is lagging far behind in social welfare and social legislation," charged Dr. Charles A. Ellwood, professor of sociology in the University, who addressed the members of the Commercial Club, at their weekly luncheon today in the Virginia Grill. Doctor Ellwood spoke on the importance of the State Conference on Social Welfare, which will meet in Columbia November 26, 27 and 28, explaining its scope and telling how the Commercial Club might help make the meetings successful to the city as well as to the state.

"W. F. Kuhn, former superintendent of the state hospital at St. Joseph, told me that there was not a single hospital for the insane in Missouri worthy of the name," said Doctor Ellwood. "Those then in existence, he said, were mere barracks. This was eight years ago, but I am certain that the conditions remain the same."

"And conditions will remain the same until such institutions are taken out of the hands of the politicians. The present method of administration is fundamentally wrong, and not until we get civil service laws which will provide for the appointment of experts to take charge of those institutions will they be worthy of the name. It is the hope of the State Conference on Social Welfare that through education a way will be found to bring about these changes."

"The State Conference on Social Welfare," said Doctor Ellwood, "tries to do for the state that which civic leagues do for a city. The Conference is not a political body, although it is a progressive body. It is not made up of a lot of cranks, but of serious social workers, students and state officials who are earnestly interested in the best ways to better the state."

"It is not, however, simply a conference of state officials, and should not be confused with the State Board of Charities and Corrections which is an official body. The conference is a non-official body doing educational work and wants every good citizen of the state back of the movement."

"We hope to have as one of the speakers Thomas Mott Osborne, warden of Sing Sing prison in New York. Or, if it is impossible to have Mr. Osborne with us, Warden Tynan of Colorado, second only to Mr. Osborne in prison reforms, will speak before the conference. Some other speakers we hope to have are Prof. Graham Taylor of the Chicago School of Civics and Philanthropy, who is an advocate of applied Christianity; Fred Almy, president of the National Conference of Charities and Corrections; Julia Lathrop of the Federal Children's Bureau, and Doctor William S. Snow, national secretary of the Social Hygiene Association."

Purd B. Wright, public librarian of Kansas City, will speak on "The Library and the Business Man" at the meeting of the Commercial Club next Thursday.

COLUMBIANS TALKING OF A COUNTRY CLUB

Local Business Men Comment Favorably Upon Idea of a Rural Organization.

WOULD FILL A NEED

Desirable Sites Near City—Would Have 18-Hole Course and Courts.

That a country club for Columbia may be more than a possibility is indicated by opinions of business men of the city regarding it. Many feel that Columbia needs such a gathering place and that it should be started now. They refer to other cities of the same size which have a club under less favorable conditions than those existing in Columbia.

Columbia being a University community is particularly adapted for the formation of a country club, they say. Instances have been cited of other university communities of the Middle West of the same population and smaller which maintain well conducted clubs with a golf course and other fields for athletic sports.

Club For Men and Families.

"I think Columbia should have a country club if it can be conducted properly," John C. Holloway said yesterday. "I see no reason why it should not. A country club would include not only the men but also their families. That is one of its best features. There are some excellent locations for a club within a short distance of the city and I believe a movement for the formation of this club would meet with success. I am in favor of one."

"The right kind of a country club would be an excellent thing for this city," Ira T. G. Stone said. "There is a place in the social life here that can only be filled by a club. In addition to this, a country club with a golf link and a clubhouse would give the business men an opportunity to get out into the open. It would give them an opportunity to get out into the country and rest."

That there is a place in Columbia for a country club is the opinion of W. Emmett Smith.

City in a Receptive Mood.

"I have never thought of the possibilities of a country club," Mr. Smith said, "but I am in favor of one. Care should be taken in its conduction and organization, for it is a big undertaking. Nevertheless, I think there is an excellent field for one and I like the idea."

"There was never a time when Columbia was in a more receptive mood for a country club than now," C. B. Rollins said. "A country club has its good features and few bad ones. There are many things to be considered in the formation of a club but I think the organization is a possibility worth considering. It will take work."

Other business men of Columbia have expressed their approval as have several members of the University faculty. The country club when organized would have a clubhouse, a golf course—either nine or eighteen holes—tennis courts and possibly grounds for other outdoor sports.

Freezing conditions obtain in all of the upper Missouri drainage area; and in parts of Montana the temperature is near zero. Generally fair and cool weather will likely obtain in Missouri for the next two or three days.

The court met Monday and, according to the members, William T. Johnson, Ben Tate and J. T. Rowland, expects to finish all routine business today. ## M. U. SUMMER SESSION STUDENT KILLS SELF

Logan H. Tarlton Commits Suicide With Shotgun at Stanberry, Mo.

HE ATTENDED U. H. S.

Central College Graduate in 1915—Superintendent of High School.

Logan H. Tarlton, 29 years old, superintendent of schools at Stanberry, Mo., a student in the Summer Session of the University this year, committed suicide about 3 o'clock yesterday morning by shooting himself through the left breast with a shotgun he had placed against a tree in the yard of his boarding house at Stanberry. He was unmarried, and lived at Versailles, Mo.

Mr. Tarlton was in Columbia Saturday conferring with Dean W. W. Charters of the School of Education about obtaining additions to his teaching force. He said he had had trouble in his schools.

While a student in the University this summer, Mr. Tarlton took special work in management and athletic coaching. He lived at the Y. M. C. A. Building. In 1906 he was a student in the University High School. In 1915 Mr. Tarlton was graduated from Central College at Fayette, Mo., with a Bachelor of Arts degree. He had attended Central College four years and has conducted a students' store at Fayette. After his graduation he often returned to visit Miss Helen Pryor.

This morning Dean Charters received a telegram from the school board at Stanberry, asking that he recommend someone to succeed Mr. Tarlton.

65 IN GLEE CLUB TRYOUTS

Material For M. U. Organization

Average, Says Director Murray.
Sixty-five men appeared Tuesday at Rothwell Gymnasium for the University Glee Club tryout. With the fifteen men remaining from last year's club, a total of eighty men are candidates for the forty places in this year's organization.

"The material appearing for the first time this year is of average quality," said Director Chester Murray after the tryouts. "The University has never failed to find good material each year, however, and I feel, with the men remaining from last year's club to build upon, we will have a first-class club by the time of the first home concert."

The Mandolin Club tryouts will be held at 4 and 7:15 o'clock today in the Glee Club practice room in Rothwell Gymnasium. Tryouts will be held for men playing the mandolin, guitar, saxophone, banjo and cello. The results of both tryouts will be published the latter part of the week.

TO STOP STUDENT SALESMEN

Retail Merchants' Association Will Insist on License Ordinance.

An investigation of the selling methods of several University students who are soliciting orders for out-of-town tailoring concerns will be conducted by the Retail Merchants' Association, according to the secretary, Victor B. Jones.

"All persons soliciting for outside merchants must pay a mercantile license to the city under an existing ordinance," said Mr. Jones this morning. "The students who are violating this law will doubtless discontinue their transactions when advised of the fact."

Fraternity jewelers, who make regular trips to Columbia in the interests of the firms they represent, come under this ruling also, believes Mr. Jones, although their case is not so clear.
