

"KNOW MEN!" SPEAKER'S ADVICE

Fred Rindge of New York Tells of Engineering's Human Side.

Striking at the point that three-fourths of the modern engineer's success is due to a knowledge of men, Fred H. Rindge, of Columbia University, New York, addressed the engineering students of the University yesterday afternoon on the "Human Side of Engineering." Mr. Rindge is a human efficiency engineer and secretary of the international department of the Y. M. C. A.

"The engineer is at the focus between labor and capital," said Mr. Rindge, "and if he can't see in both directions, he is lost. This idea is getting so universal that the more comprehensive definition of engineering has changed until now it means the art of handling and of organizing men; of utilizing men and the forces of nature for the highest benefit of the human race."

Emphasizing the importance of efficiency, the speaker pointed out that more than 30,000 firms in this country are doing welfare work among their employes and finding it the means of producing more with less time and labor. Some firms are requiring of a college man that we have two years' experience in handling men before he receives a position with them. Mr. Rindge suggested that schools of engineering spend more time on the human side of the profession even at the sacrifice of a little technicality.

Mr. Rindge yesterday visited the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Factory where he discussed practical industrial problems with the 340 workmen. He expects to meet all engineering classes in the University and to try to dispel the illusions which form a barrier between the theory and practice of engineering.

California. Rowell in a statement published today declared that Hughes was defeated because he failed to convince a large majority of the Bull Mooseers that he was the man who should lead them. One newspaper quotes Rowell as declaring that from now on the West will dominate the national politics.

N. Y. Papers Say "Lets Go Again."

By United Press
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—New York newspapers commented today as follows:

Herald—What is past is past. Let us rub off the slate and begin all over again.

Sun—The President elected is the President, not only of those who supported him but every patriotic and loyal American, and good luck to him.

Times—If Mr. Roosevelt had been the Republican candidate nobody can tell what would have happened. Roosevelt is a genius, a sort of elemental force. Hughes cannot be blamed for not being a Roosevelt. Besides, one is enough.

World—Woodrow Wilson will enter his second term with a clean slate. The old issues are dead. The old political alignments are broken.

Tribune—Tuesday's election demonstrated beyond a doubt the non-liberality of the union labor vote. The vote which re-elected Wilson came largely from the rural districts.

Otis, in the Los Angeles Times today, published an editorial declaring that Hughes was "double-crossed by the treachery of the Johnson political machine," and that this machine "had stuck a knife into Hughes and shamelessly slaughtered him."

Chicago Papers Less Optimistic.

By United Press
CHICAGO, Nov. 11.—Commenting on the re-election of Wilson the Herald said:

"What a neat little arousal Wall Street has experienced. From such sweet dreams of empire, poor provincial Manhattan has been awakened by the coarse Western cry. The narrow street will never be the same again.

Tribune—We do not pretend to find much satisfaction in an election which means four more years of anti-nationalistic Democratic rule. A good loser in this election must be a fool. If the opponents of Wilson were right before November 7, they are right today.

taken out because of injuries. Each man on the team fought to the end. Every inch of ground was fought for as only two equally matched elevens can fight, and as the end of the game neared and it was evident Missouri was fighting for a lost cause, the men never quit, but plugged away at the Aggies until the end.

Missouri had several chances to win in figures. The Aggies were completely outclassed, for the Tigers gained 217 yards to their opponent's 115 by rushing the ball, made fifteen first downs to the Aggies' seven, made forty-five to the Aggies' thirty-five yards on forward passes. But, figures do not tell the story of the game. The Aggies never failed to gain when they needed a few inches.

Missouri twice lost the ball with only a yard to gain for first downs, when the ball was in the Aggies' territory, and once, Peoples went in for a try for a field goal from the forty-yard line. The kick fell short. It was in the fourth quarter with only a few minutes to play. Six thousand rosters rose to their feet and cheered for three minutes at the Missouri boy's failure. The inability of the Tigers to gain when a yard was needed may be described as lack of punch; but it was more. The Aggies' defense could be pierced by no team. Their line outweighed Missouri more than fifteen pounds, and, when the Tigers tried gains, the Wildcats presented a stone-like wall.

Missouri started out with a rush and took the Aggies off their feet. Towards the end of the quarter, the Wildcats braced, and starting in the middle of the field, took the ball to the twenty-yard line. A forward pass across the goal line scored the touchdown. Skinner, who received the ball, had one foot on the boundary line.

Missouri was outplayed until the second half, when the Tigers started with a rush. But the Aggies again braced and prevented a score.

In the first quarter, Pittam was loose for another touchdown but slipped and sprained his ankle. The wet red clay was two inches deep on the field and helped the Aggies considerably. The work of Peoples, who stayed in the game after missing the goal, was far above the average. His tackling was perfect, and he boxed his ends well. Hudson started at guard but was removed when the Aggies discovered they could gain through him. Rider and Stankowski played a great game in the backfield.

By United Press

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 11.—Missouri dry leaders were jubilant this afternoon when it became apparent, according to available returns, that Missouri's wet majority will be less than 100,000. In 1910, when Prohibition was voted on, Missouri wets won by a much larger majority. The dry workers said today that the amendment would go through next time.

Union to Vote on New Amendment.

The Missouri Union will have a business meeting Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Union Building. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss and vote on a constitutional amendment, recently proposed by the board of directors. The amendment would change the cost of a life membership in the Union from $100 to $50. A mail vote on the question has already been taken among the alumni members, resulting in an unanimous vote for the lower rate. All of the resident members of the Union are expected to attend the meeting tomorrow.
