

DEBATE WILL DECIDE TIE WITH OKLAHOMA

Missouri Will Meet Adversary in University Auditorium Monday Night.

EACH HAS VICTORY

D. B. Curtis and Fred R. Suddarth Will Represent Home School.

When the debating teams of Missouri and Oklahoma meet in the University Auditorium at 8 o'clock Monday night to discuss the question: "Resolved, that the Federal Government Should Require Compulsory Arbitration (with the power to enforce decisions) of Disputes Between Organized Labor and Interstate Public Service Corporations, Constitutionality Granted," the result of the contest will decide the tie which now exists in debating between the schools. Each has a victory to its credit.

Churchyard;" or of the Omar Khayam stanza form which is exemplified in Fitzgerald's para-phrases of the Rubaiyat and in Swinburne's "Laus Venenis." Quatrains in tetrameter are a little questionable, Mr. Lewin said, unless all the lines are made tetrameter. The ballad form, in which the second and fourth lines are trimeter, is inadvisable. The most successful type of the quatrain in tetrameter form is that of Tennyson's "In Memoriam." Such a form as this is good for meditative verse, because it has a dignity and grace not found in the simpler and more dramatic ballad quatrain. Oscar Wilde also uses it in "The Sphinx."

Mr. Lewin gave as modern examples of the use of the Spenserian Stanza, Burns's "The Cotter's Saturday Night," Keats's "Eve of St. Agnes," Byron's "Childe Harold's Pilgrimage" and Tennyson's "The Lotus Eaters." Another effective stanza allied to the Spenserian is the ottava rima, used, by Keats in "Isabella" and by Byron in "Don Juan."

If the sonnet is used, he said, it would probably be most successful in the form of the sonnet sequence such as Shakespeare used. Other ex-

SOCIETY NOTES

Ellsworth Taylor has returned to his home in Newark, N. J., after visiting Miss Lindley Moore.

The Phi Mu sorority will hold open house from 7:30 until 10:30 o'clock Saturday night.

ARROW ROCK STOCK IS SAFE INVESTMENT

S. R. Bunch Receives Report on Well No. 6 Producing 500 Barrels Daily.

SHARES STILL AT $5 Expects Price to Soar to $10 in 60 Days—3 Per Cent Dividend in May.

Received a telegram this morning from Currier & Co. that they would be unable to get the data to me on the new 6-Mile Pool Royalties for a day or two on account of Mr. Currier still being at Tulsa completing the deal. They assure me, however, that we will get the data at the earliest possible moment, and I am at liberty to state that these units are now on a paying and producing basis.

They also wired me today as follows in regard to Arrow Rock: "We are receiving particularly encouraging news regarding the development of Arrow Rock. President McSpaden advises under date of April 10 that Well No. 6 has settled down since being bought in last week and he considers it the best producer in the Bartlesville District, and also advises drilling is about to be started in deepening wells at Bartlesville on Ocheata lease. A 3 per cent quarterly dividend to stockholders of record May 1 will go out promptly as heretofore. He is confident that he will be able to double present dividend within a very short time."

Currier & Co. advises as follows: (Bear in mind what the small capitalization, good management and rich holdings of Arrow Rock will mean with runs of nearly 500 barrels daily. Get all you can in now so you may share in the 3 per cent May 1 dividend.)

We are still selling these shares at their par value, $5. No subscription accepted for less than ten shares. I will be glad to meet any of those interested at the Daniel Boone Tavern or will call at their homes to discuss the matter if advised.

I EARNESTLY RECOMMEND DECISIVE ACTION AS I BELIEVE THIS IS NOT ONLY ONE OF THE BEST, BUT SAFEST OIL STOCKS ON THE MARKET TODAY, AND AS PREDICTED IN ANOTHER ARTICLE, BELIEVE IT WILL GO TO $10 PER SHARE WITHIN THE NEXT SIXTY DAYS.

I wish to say for Currier & Co. that they are only human and subject to error but so far in their advice to the public everyone of their predictions on rise of oil securities has been better than they had advised.

physical education. They will motor out to the picnic ground and spend the afternoon in playing games. Doctor Meanwell made the picnic for physical education students an annual affair at Wisconsin and is intending to establish the custom here.

Lieutenant Gwynne McCausland left yesterday for Fort Gordon, Puget Sound, after spending a week with his parents, Dean and Mrs. E. J. McCausland.

who will uphold the affirmative side of the question, are D. B. Curtis and Fred R. Suddarth. Oklahoma will be represented by W. T. Holleman and John McCoy Campbell. Judges for the contest have not been chosen.

A. P. Lewin, debating coach for the University of Missouri, is expecting a hard contest with the Oklahoma team. Oklahoma has always been rated as a strong opponent to meet in debate. However, he and the debaters are counting upon repeating the victory of last year, when Missouri won both the negative and affirmative decisions in a triangular debate on the "Single Tax" with Oklahoma and Texas universities.

The University debaters obtained revenge for two straight defeats from Kansas University when they journeyed to Lawrence March 27 and came away with an unanimous decision. The question was: "Resolved, that the Terms of Settlement of this War Should Include the Establishment of a League to Enforce Peace." Missouri upheld the negative side of the question. Frank M. Lowe, Jr., Bernard Hurwitz and Floyd B. O'Rear spoke for the University of Missouri.

Frank M. Lowe, Jr., first speaker, showed that the League to Enforce Peace provides only for a delay of one year before the issuance of a declaration of war. He argued that such a short time could not prevent war. He said that the League to Enforce Peace tended to prevent peace by perpetuating the theory of balance of power and armaments. Bernard Hurwitz, second speaker for Missouri, argued that the scheme would be impracticable because it would be exceedingly difficult to determine the aggressor against whom the force of the league must be arrayed. The league provides for no central body to enforce its decisions. Floyd B. O'Rear, last speaker for Missouri, proposed the following measures for dealing with the problem of war fundamentally: Voluntary arbitration by The Hague, abolition of secret diplomacy, balance of power, armaments and an international commission to control the backward areas of the world's education.

Nineteen debates have been held between Kansas and Missouri since the arrangement of debating schedules in 1898. Of these debates, Missouri has won ten and Kansas nine. With the exception of the years 1906 and 1907, a debate has been held each year between the two universities.

Only two debates were on the schedule of the University for this year. The contest with Oklahoma University will close the season.

A. P. LEWIN SUGGESTS SUBJECT Advises Meters to Use in Competing for Dickey Prize.

Those competing for the Dickey Poetry Prize are advised by A. P. Lewin, of the department of English, to choose a subject connected in some way with war. He names as probably the most successful stanza forms the pentameter quatrain, the Spenserian stanza and the sonnet; and as the best continuous forms blank verse, rhymed pentameter and tetrameter couplets.

Quatrains in pentameter verse can be of the Heroic type, a good example of which is Gray's "Elegy in a Country amples may be found in Elizabeth B. Browning's "Sonnets from the Portuguese," Rossetti's "House of Life," Arthur Davison Ficke's "Sonnets of a Portrait Painter" and Rupert Brooke's five sonnets called "Nineteen-Fourteen."

Examples in blank verse that might be helpful to the writer choosing that form are Blake's "To the Evening Star," Wordsworth's "Tintern Abbey," Herman Hagedorn's "The Great Maze," E. H. Robinson's "Ben Johnson Entertains a Man from Stratford" and Robert Frost's volume of poems entitled "North of Boston." If rhymed pentameter is used, Mr. Lewin suggests that it be not the heroic couplet, but the couplet that runs on, as in Keats's "Sleep and Poetry," "Endymion," and "Lamia." Browning's "My Last Duchess," Masefield's "Biography" and Brooke's "The Great Lover." Tetrameter couplets, though not so good, might be successful. Mr. Lewin thinks, Masefield's "Everlasting Mercy," Brooke's "Grantchester" and "Heaven" and Walter de la Mare's "Miss Loo" illustrate the use of this form very well.

It would probably be unwise to present a single lyric. If this form is attempted, it is suggested that a group of lyrics be presented under a general title.

Y. M. C. A. STARTS WAR SCHOOLS Men of Draft Age Being Trained to Be Non-Commissioned Officers.

War schools for young men of draft age who desire to fit themselves by study and physical preparation to serve as non-commissioned officers in the second draft army are now being established by the Y. M. C. A. in the larger cities of the United States. Classes in military instruction are already in progress in Detroit, Brooklyn, New York, Minneapolis, Chicago, Louisville, Portland, Los Angeles and Baltimore, it is announced by the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A. in a bulletin issue today. Other city associations are planning to adopt a similar schedule.

The Y. M. C. A. War Schools are open to men of military age, though drafted men will be given the right of way in the school work. The idea, it is stated, was suggested by military officials because of the need of men with previous military training.

Classes in military drill and tactics are conducted by commissioned Army officers. Army French also is taught. In addition, the curriculum includes first-aid courses, which are of special value to men wishing to join the medical division. Radio telegraphy and telephony are open to those men entering the signal corps.

Columbia Girl in Loan Parade.
Three hundred girls from the Sargent School at Boston took part in the Third Liberty Loan parade there last Saturday. Miss Emma Murry, daughter of Judge and Mrs. John F. Murry, led the girls. All of the girls wore white and Miss Murry carried a large flag. The parade which was composed of more than 80,000 people, lasted from 1 o'clock until 9:30 at night.

D. A. R. Meeting Postponed.
The regular meeting of the D. A. R., which was to have been held Saturday, has been postponed one week on account of the Liberty Loan parade
