Lieutenant Carlyle ("Chuck") Wilson, former student of the University and captain of a Tiger football team, was shot through the breast by a German machine gun on September 27, according to a letter he wrote to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson of Bethany, from a hospital in France. The letter said that he was improving rapidly, and, although he had been lying on his back since he was wounded, he would soon be out with his company again.

It was reported in France that Lieutenant Wilson had been killed in battle, according to a letter written by Arda Armstrong to his father, T. F. Armstrong of Columbia, October 4. A second letter dated two days later said that the former Tiger was still living but had a very small chance of recovering.

Another letter written October 15 confirmed the report that he was badly wounded with little hope of recovery.

EXPLAINS WAR WORK CAMPAIGN

Dean Walter Miller Tells of Its Importance in Great Conflict.

"The campaign now on is one of the most important features in the great conflict," said Dean Walter Miller Wednesday night in speaking of the United War Work campaign, before a meeting of the S. A. T. C. lieutenants, the district captains representing the University women and representatives of non S. A. T. C. men students who are to conduct this campaign among the students.

"Last March when the seven organizations made out their separate budgets," continued Dean Miller, "the $170,500,000 aggregate was the largest sum ever known before to be attempted for such work.

"But even that has been found to be inadequate, and $250,000,000 is the goal now.

"The things it is needed for are so vast I can sketch them in only a cursory way.

"In a word, it goes to take home to the men. The ultimate aim is to sustain the morale of the army, to keep it clean, to bring the home influences to work, and to bring them back not a whit worse but better than when they went away.

"This sum looks small when it is compared with the Liberty Loan, it looks smaller when compared with the work it does."

Dean Miller told of the homesickness that even he felt when he left home, when he boarded the ship which was to take him across and when he reached the foreign shore. How much more do the men feel this?

"At these times, these organizations come forth with influences to sustain the home-ties."

Dean Miller spoke mostly of the Y. M. C. A. work because of his intimate knowledge of it gained through his experiences last year in England, France and Italy. But he did not minimize the importance of the other six, the Y. W. C. A., the Salvation Army, the Knights of Columbus, the Jewish Welfare Board, American Library Association and the War Camp Community Service.

"If it were not for the Y. M. C. A. conserving the physical, mental and spiritual forces of the British Army," said an English officer to Doctor Miller, "the British Army would be a defeated army today."

"We undoubtedly contributed to the victory of the Piave," said Doctor Miller. "The Italians first doubted the need for the influences exerted by this type of army work, but after a demonstration on one battalion, they clamored for it.

"The appreciation shown by the men in the camps, and by the people of Europe was expressed by contributions. Surely the people here will give generously to the fund."

President James M. Wood of Stephens College spoke on the organization of the campaign. He is the chairman of the student division.

"The trying days are before us, rather than behind," said he. The $62,500 asked from the educational institutions of Missouri was apportioned before the original budget of $170,500,000 had been raised to $250,000,000. Therefore, we must make that our minimum.

"Every institution appealed to has replied with a generous, noble spirit, and I am sure that the University of Missouri will respond to its quota of $9,600 in the same way.

"Chicago University has accepted a quota of $25,000, the Iowa State College, $27,500 and the University of Illinois, $35,000.

"The appeal this year must not be on the emotional side, it should be a matter of business. Figure carefully what you can give, and give it.

"One of the items inserted lately was $13,000,000 for a chain of American universities and colleges and vocational schools for the men in Europe after peace is declared.

"It will be at least sixteen months before the men get back to this country after the treaty has been signed. This time should not be spent in idleness.

"Already $5,000,000 has been spent for textbooks, $3,000,000 for reference books and $5,000,000 for instructors. A college community should especially appreciate this."

Dean E. J. McCaustland, chairman of the University committee, told the plan of the University campaign.

The campaign will be from November 11 to 19 to solicit pledges, with December 1 set as the date when pledges are due.

"There is not the slightest inclination to force anything on anyone," said Dean McCaustland, but the quota set for individuals is the amount necessary for the University to do its share."

"The faculty has been solicited by letter, the S. A. T. C. will be through the military organization and the non-S. A. T. C. members through their organization."

Christmas Gifts That Please the Soldier

OF all years the Christmas giving of the 1918 season should be confined to useful gifts—gifts that serve a purpose. The man in the service can't weight himself down with articles not beneficial to his work. Send him such gifts as—will be one of the most welcome gifts to either soldier or sailor. It will cheer him up, and be the means of passing many a rest moment. We have all of the best sellers, and even if we haven't in stock the one you want we can get it for you.

FOUNTAIN PENS, GOOD BOOKS, NOTE BOOKS, WRITING PAPER, SHOES, ETC.

Herman's U. S. Army Shoes would bring joy to the feet of any soldier. Can you really think of a more practicable gift? They give that foot comfort so vital to the fighting man. Built to stand the wear and tear a pair would last him "until the boys come home."

The above are only a few suggestions. We have a line of silver "always Sharp" pencils that are decidedly appropriate.
