GOODBY BOOZE

The Supreme Court ruling against inter-state importation of liquor into prohibition states for personal use is only another indication that the net is drawing tight around King Booze. The decision reverses one handed down by a lower court and settles for once and all the disputes which have been waging over this issue ever since prohibition sounded its challenge notes.

Mail order liquor houses are hard hit by this ruling and must confine their activities to wet counties of their own states or to the remaining wet states of the Union.

There can be but one outcome. Liquor has its back to the wall and is seeking every niche of escape in a vain endeavor to stave off the inevitable. For it the end of all glory is not dust, but—mud.

Judging by the position in which some people wear their masks, we assume that they think the seat of the influenza germ is in the neck.

SAVE THE FATHERLESS FRENCH

Save the fatherless French children. There are hundreds of thousands of these children whose father's lie in Flanders Field, where the poppies do not bloom. Their mother's work has ceased with the closing of the munition factories.

Famine and cold have these children in their clutch.

Can't you hear their stifled cries and sobs?

Can't you see their wan, pinched faces looking to you?

Can't you see their out-stretched arms pleading for bread? Shall they fall by the wayside and perish while our children frolic and gambol in their furs and flannels, and indulge in candies and cream?

It takes only a few dollars ($36.50) to help a child for a year.

THAT POLITICAL PIE

We are prone to think of the politician's job as one of the biggest sinecures. We speak lightly of the assembling of the State Legislature as a meeting of politicians to divide the spoils of election.

A glance at the program to come before the Missouri Legislature reveals the fact that there is a startling number of difficult questions to be handled. Among these are the revision of the state statutes, the ratification of the federal prohibition amendment, the call for a constitutional convention, revision of the election laws, a state-wide bond issue for hard roads, the redistricting of the state, a workman's compensation act, the children's code, relief for the rural schools, and other welfare measures.

Truly, the legislator won't have much time to sit in the corner and pull the plums from his "political pie."

FOOD OR DEATH!

"Bolshevism is steadily advancing westward, is poisoning Germany. It cannot be stopped by force, but it can be stopped by food," says Woodrow Wilson.

Our President has requested $100,000,000 for food relief of America's friends, Germany proper and and will pay for her food, but that food must be made accessible to her. America must feed the Poles, Armenians and destitute peoples of the Balkan states.

Time is a vital factor. Every day of delay multiplies the problem.

THE ADDITION TO THE MOTT

More than $100,000,000 worth of sugar was saved by the people of the United States during the five months of restriction. Of this amount more than $4,000,000 worth was Missouri's share. In this case as in numerous other instances during the war period our state has added to her conservative motto, "Show Me," that of "Show 'Em."

THE OPEN COLUMN

Caring for the Athletes.

Editor of the Missouriian: The untimely death of an athlete always makes us wonder if over-training or careless training may have had any part in hastening the end. Athletic heart is brought on by training which is not carefully supervised. Girl athletes in many places are given but one examination, and that in the freshman year when they first enter their gymnasium class.

The whole system can in one year undergo changes which would make the continuation of exercise dangerous. To avoid all danger, let us see that the University gives at least two examinations a year both to men and women athletes.

The Book of Victory.

Editor of the Missouriian: The Savitar is a monument to the University of Missouri. Each page may be considered as a stone in a memorial to the students, the faculty and the life that goes on in the shadow of the Columns; each word the cement that holds those stones together.

The duly elected staff performs the work of the masons but the students, the essential units of the University, must furnish the materials, the tools and the incentive to build a fairer monument.

We are too prone to shift all responsibility to those whose names appear as makers of the book. This week, and for many weeks to come, the editorial and the business staffs are sending out a call for help. Subscriptions are needed, pictures must be taken, co-operation is vital.

Last year the War Edition inscribed forever the service of those who had responded to the call of the nation in the hour of need. This year the "Victory" Savitar will perpetuate the glory of those who gave and the service of the University as an institution. How efficiently that is done depends on you.
