SIGNS SUNDRY BILL Senators Say President Will Explain Shantung Settlement.

By L. C. MARTIN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Wilson's position on the Peace Treaty was the subject of a dispute among the senators in the Senate today.

Those who wanted reservations made said he might be willing to accept certain explanations and interpretations of the reservations proposed.

The administration leaders said he is unalterable against any reservations. The President is searching the minds of his Republican callers as to how much they will be satisfied with as part of his plan, according to a statement made by one of the senators who has called upon him.

President Pleased With Conference. By United Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Wilson is pleased with the results of his conferences with Republican senators, it was believed here today. He feels he has carried away many doubts in the minds of some of them.

No further indication has been shown as to how the President proposes to clarify the issue, a step which he told Hitchcock he believed necessary.

Senators who have conferred with the President intimate he will issue a statement on the Shantung settlement soon, as it might result in lessening the opposition. The Shantung settlement is the most criticized part of the treaty.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Reading of the prohibition enforcement bill was resumed today with both wets and drys offering numerous amendments.

An amendment that all non-potable preparations containing alcohol be labeled as containing alcohol was defeated. The amendment was offered on the grounds that it would point out the preparation contained alcohol that might be consumed for liquor.

Meanwhile the Senate judiciary committee continued consideration of its enforcement bill. Phases under consideration were the definition of intoxicating liquors, search of and seizure for stock and enforcement of the law.

And amendment to exempt home-manufactured wines for home use from the law was prevented from passage by prohibitionists on a point of order.

Flags and pennants hung from all the windows. Millions of people choked the streets. With General Pershing at the head, a composite regiment of American doughboys led the way down the Buckingham Palace road.

Beside the American doughboys troops representing the French, Italian, Belgian, Portuguese, Greek, Chinese and Siamese armies were in the parade.

Field Marshal Haig headed the British forces and was followed by the colonial troops. After the soldiers, 4,000 sailors and marines marched and after them 4,000 merchant sailors. Six hundred Waacs formed a part of the parade to show the part the British women played in making a victory.

The procession spent three hours passing one point. Open air gallery celebrations and singing of national songs and hymns occurred in every open space. The festivities will culminate at 9 o'clock tonight with a fireworks display in Hyde Park.

MANY STUDENTS ARE EXPECTED THIS FALL

More Inquiries From Students Asking Work Than In Previous Years.

WRITE FOR ROOMS

Reports From Realty Men Indicate Large Influx of People.

Reports from Columbia realty men indicate that a large influx of people is expected in Columbia this fall.

T. K. Catron of the Smith & Catron Realty Company says that he expects all vacant houses will be filled this fall. People are coming in every day looking for houses to rent. All the small houses of from four to eight rooms have been rented.

Reports from other realty men about town agree with Mr. Catron. One man stated that it is likely that new houses will be built in Columbia this fall to meet the demand.

The demand for houses may cause an increase in rents. Farmers throughout the state are making money and it is likely that more of them than ever before will send their children to the University.

J. K. O'Heeron, secretary of the Y.M.C.A., says he has received more than enough applications from students for rooms to fill the building this fall and that the surplus will have to be distributed among the rooming houses in town.

More inquiries from students seeking work this fall have been received than in any previous year said Mr. O'Heeron, and it is hoped that the people of Columbia will help all they can in giving these students work.

Miss Emma Cauthorn, acting advisor of women, says that there is a big demand from women for rooms this fall. Read Hall and Read Hall Annex are filled already, and others will have to be placed in rooming houses throughout the town.

Frank Chambers, registrar at the University, says that registration blanks have been mailed to all former students and that he is unable to say anything definite yet in regard to the number of students who will enter the University this fall. However, the indications are for a large enrollment and plans are well under way to handle the situation.

BEWARE, COLUMBIA TAX DODGER

A Tax Adviser and Collector May be Stationed Here.

A government income tax adviser and collector may be stationed in Columbia as well as in most of the other county seat towns in Kansas and Missouri under a reorganization of the system of collecting internal revenue.

President Wilson has approved the plan, according to a Washington dispatch.

The new plan is to decentralize the present method of collecting the federal tax and put the collector and tax expert in easy reach of the people.

Not only will the income tax be handled by these collectors, but they will also handle the soft drink luxury and all forms of internal revenue taxes.

The several thousand employees used in collecting whisky tax before the death of John Barleycorn will now be used in collection of the income tax. The use of a local agent will make the task of spotting the tax dodger much easier than it would be for the collector having his headquarters in some distant city.

285 PAY ENTRANCE FEES TO STEPHENS

Enrollment at the College Already Shows 20 Per Cent Increase.

ELECT INSTRUCTORS

Most of School's Faculty Chosen—Good Progress in Campaign.

Two hundred and eighty-five advance registration fees have been received at Stephens College for enrollment in the fall. Thirty-one of these were received last week.

"This is approximately 20 per cent heavier than the enrollment at this date last year," J. M. Wood, president of the college, said this morning. "It is especially significant when it is considered that seven years ago the first contract for the fall term was received on July 17 of that year."

Owing to the increase in enrollment of college students, the board of trustees voted to discontinue all secondary courses after June, 1920. In the present enrollment no new students are being received for the high school courses except those who can complete their high school work by that time.

Dr. Louise Dudley, head of the English department, who has been on leave of absence doing war work in France, will return in September and begin the work in that department.

Miss Elizabeth Stockton, a graduate of the University, who has been in charge of romance languages in Hardin College the last year, will be instructor in romance languages this fall under Miss Tastevin.

Miss Stickton was formerly an instructor in the high school department at Stephens. The professorship of textiles and clothing is to be filled by Miss Ardenia Chapman, a graduate of the University of Missouri, who spent last year in Columbia University in New York, doing graduate work.

Miss Trine Latta, in charge of the science department has resigned, and her place will be filled by Dr. Vinnie A. Pease of the University of Minnesota.

The changes in the conservatory of music are as follows: Miss Constance Graham, graduate of Northwestern University, has been elected instructor in piano and theory to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Miss Josephine McCammon.

Miss Gertrude Schneider of Northwestern University has been elected instructor in voice to take Mrs. R. E. Lucas' place.

Miss Agnes Husband, professor of vocal instruction, will still be on leave of absence, while doing war work in France, and Miss Frances D. Woodbridge, who had charge of the instruction the last semester of last year, will continue to take Miss Husband's place.

Chapter houses for the sororities will still be kept to aid in the accommodation of overflow students. The library building on Broadway and Price avenue will continue to be used.

"The heavy advance enrollment is a good indication," Mr. Wood said this morning, "that plans for enlargement of the college plant in the Greater Stephens College Campaign were not taken too soon. In fact it is quite evident that they were not taken soon enough."

"The campaign managers announce satisfactory progress is being made toward organization and publicity. They do not, however, anticipate taking of subscriptions before September 1."

Le Progres, a paper printed in Lyons, France, give an account of the work done by the American women in that place. Dr. Louise Dudley, who is to have charge of the English department at Stephens College this fall, is mentioned as one of the hostesses at the Hostess House.

.38 CALIBER BULLET REMOVED FROM BODY

Shot Found in Arch Vandiver Taken to Norfolk for Evidence.

DAVIS IS SATISFIED

Intimates Missile Was Not Fired From Gun Carried by Companions.

A .38-caliber bullet was extracted from the body of Arch Vandiver at the second examination held at the side of the grave in the New Salem Cemetery at 6 o'clock yesterday evening, according to authorities who were present at the examination.

Lieut. Raymond Davis who came here Wednesday to conduct the examination for the army authorities returned today to Norfolk, Va., with the bullet, which will be used as evidence in determining who caused the death of Vandiver.

"We are very well satisfied with the information disclosed by the two examinations," said Lieutenant Davis, and explained that he came to Columbia under orders to see that the army men would get a "square deal".

He hinted that the fact that the bullet was of .38 caliber rather than a larger caliber indicated that the shot which killed Vandiver was not fired from a gun the size of those carried by his companions. Whether the gun was in the hands of the plainclothes men or other persons may be a matter for a court to decide.

Vandiver's body was exhumed Thursday and taken to the Physics Building, where H. B. Wahlen made an X-ray picture of the body in an attempt to locate the bullet. After the pictures were taken the body was buried again. Friday morning the developed pictures showed some foreign object just below the stomach and Lieutenant Davis decided to have the body taken up again and remove the bullet.

Lieutenant Davis, County Coroner Ben Baker, Probate Judge H. A. Collier and Policeman William R. Miller were present at the examination in the New Salem Cemetery last evening when the bullet was removed.

The Norfolk police contend that the bullet which killed Vandiver was fired by one of Vandiver's friends who was in the car at the time of the shooting. The military authorities claim that the police fired the shot.
