American Craft Leads Until Falling Mainsail Forces It to Drop Out.

BARELY MISS STORM First Victory of a Challenger Since the Livonia Beat the Columbia in '71.

By United Press
Aboard the United States Destroyer Goldsborough, July 15. (By wireless.)—The first yacht race in a series of five in the competition for America's Cup was won by Shamrock IV, the English challenger.

The Resolve, the defender was forced to withdraw after showing its heels to the opponent good part of the distance. The snapping of the throat halyards brought the mainsail half-way down. Inability to repair the damage made withdrawal from the race necessary.

The Shamrock crossed the finish border within the six-hour limit and was awarded the victory.

This is the first victory of a challenger for about a half century. The last victory was in 1871 when the Livonia triumphed over the Columbia.

Just after the Shamrock crossed the border a squall swept across the ocean.

Parley P. Christensen of Salt Lake City Is Choice of Third Party.

LABOR PLANS UPSET Amalgamated "Liberals" Stay Up All Night to Adopt Platform.

By United Press
CHICAGO, July 15.—The Farmer-Labor party shortly before dawn this morning nominated Parley P. Christensen of Salt Lake City, permanent chairman of the Committee of Forty-eight, as candidate for president.

Max Hayes of Cleveland, chairman of the executive committee of the Labor party was chosen as the vice-presidential candidate.

The nomination came after the Party of Forty-eight, disagreeing with the platform of the convention, withdrew and announced that they would continue their own convention today.

The joint convention of the amalgamated "Liberals" adopted the platform of the Farmer-Labor Party during an all-night session which did not break up until after 4 o'clock this morning.

Christensen was nominated by a vote of 225 amid a great sensation in the convention. This upset the plans of the labor leaders to nominate Dudley Field Malone of New York City. Christensen was chosen on the second ballot.

The Labor Leaders, chagrined, finally decided to accept the defeat and agree to the nomination.

CHICAGO CARS TIED UP

Girl Dies in Accident as Thousands Seek to Travel in Crowded Autos.

By United Press
CHICAGO, July 15.—The street car lines of this city were completely held up by a strike of 350 electrical workers today.

The strike was called at 4 o'clock this morning. No attempt was made to haul passengers after the current was cut off until 8 o'clock this morning.

The first car was driven after 8 o'clock this morning by a company of non-union men. There were few passengers.

An unidentified girl was killed and several people were injured in an accident as a result of the strike. A truck carrying thirty persons collided with a bus, injuring some of the occupants. Three others were injured when an automobile which was carrying people to the business district was overturned.

Steam roads will not be able to take much of the load from the street railways.

The elevated roads are expected to help some. Extra trains are being run. City officials are powerless. It is probable that the city utilities company will be able to help some. Mayor William H. Thompson may take a hand.

BUNKER HILL RELIC IS HERE

Old Rifle in Possession of Historical Library.

How would you like to grip the iron barrel of a gun that was used in the fight for independence at Bunker Hill, that lay between the bales of cotton and helped Jackson stop Pakenham's regulars at New Orleans? The State Historical Library has that gun. It was presented to the society by P. J. Hainey of Barnard in 1917.

This old gun in its long life of one hundred and fifty years has cruised the woods from Massachusetts to Missouri. It has been used against bear, deer and panther as well as against British and Indians. It also participated in the frontier shooting matches and many a man who used "Old Nig," as it is called, carried the turkey home with him.

The gun is fifty-nine inches long and has a barrel forty-three inches in length. It has the same lock stock and barrel which it had at Bunker Hill but it has been rebored for use as a shotgun and has been made into a cap gun instead of a flintlock. The tallow and patch box is still in the stock. The tallow was used to grease the balls and the patches to wrap them before they were rammed down into the gun.

The State Historical Society has two other old guns of interesting appearance but of a history less famous.

It also has a pair of revolvers which were carried during the Civil War by Maj. Emory Foster of the Union army. They are six-shooters and muzzle-loaders of such a length and solidity of construction that their use as clubs looks to be as deadly as their use as firearms.

SOUTHERN FARMERS ORGANIZING

Officials Here to Study Federation Methods in Marketing.

J. W. Willis, assistant extension director, and L. A. Olson, county agent leader, both of the Mississippi Agricultural College, were visitors at the headquarters of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation yesterday. They are studying the Farm Bureau Federation of Missouri as a preliminary to organizing a similar federation of Missouri and nearly all other states, the Mississippi planters have a marketing problem that can be solved by co-operation. The cotton grower is said to be practically at the mercy of the interests that own and control the gins and cotton oil factories.

Missouri has already set the precedent in the establishment of co-operative, farmer-owned cotton gins. During the past few months the New Madrid County Farm Bureau, with the co-operation of the College of Agriculture, organized one of the first co-operative cotton gins in the United States.

Farm Bureaus Extend Work

The Missouri Farm Bureau Federation has employed V. P. Smoot, a graduate of the University, to organize co-operative elevator associations. He has been engaged for some time in organizing county farm bureaus but will give his whole time in the future to marketing. CHAUFFEUR HELD UP COMING TO COLUMBIA

Strangers Win Sympathy From H. Burnham With "Sick Mother" Story.

CAR A STUDEBAKER Thieves Unable to Cross River at Rocheport—Sheriff on Trail.

Two strangers approached Harry Burnham, a chauffeur living in Moberly, last night and related a heart-throbbing story of a sick mother in Columbia. The strangers offered Burnham $25 or even $30 if he would make the trip from Moberly to Columbia. He agreed.

When the car approached Harrisburg, the men suddenly attacked the chauffeur. He was bound hand and foot, gagged, robbed of his watch and money, and left lying in a ditch near the road. The men took the car and proceeded.

Burnham was found at 1:30 o'clock this morning by a farmer named Hutton who brought him to Columbia. Sheriff T. Fred Whitesides, who saw the man immediately upon his arrival in Columbia, said his wrists were badly lacerated where the cords had cut them. Burnham was able to leave for Moberly at 9:45 this morning.

The car, a Studebaker six with one fender bent, was reported to the police as having been seen at 1 o'clock this morning near Rocheport. According to the report, the men were unable to cross the river at Rocheport. Sheriff Whitesides and Policeman L. T. Hopper left at 2 o'clock this afternoon to search in the vicinity of Rocheport for the thieves. They discovered that the men had been ferried across the river at Arrow Rock. Sheriff Whitesides telephoned the Kansas City police giving a description of the car and the men. The Chief of Police at Moberly wired the number of the motor.

A reward of $100 has been offered by Burnham for the capture of the thieves and the return of his car.

SEARCH FOR BOY UNAVAILING

No Trace Found of Joe Clark, Missing Two Days.

No trace of Joe Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Clark, 612 Mount Vernon avenue, who disappeared from his home Tuesday night, has been found, according to the authorities. Prosecuting Attorney George Starrett said this afternoon that he had had no word from Chief of Police John L. Whitesides, who went to St. Charles yesterday afternoon in search of Clark. Fire Chief Tom Walden and policeman W. R. Miller who went to Gordon's Lake yesterday afternoon reported that there was no evidence that Clark had attempted to drown himself.

Joe Clark is 22 years old. When he left home he was wearing a blue cotton shirt, blue overalls, an old gray felt hat, and heavy-soled shoes. He is of medium height, has light hair and fair complexion. Joe has suffered from epilepsy and it is feared that his mind may have become unbalanced.

Sunday he decided to go to St. Louis to visit an uncle. His parents tried to persuade him not to go. He went to the Wabash station to buy a ticket but the agent knew of his physical condition and refused to sell him a ticket.

The boy was angered because of this and determined to go on anyway. He started on foot. His parents went to Centralia in a car and then brought him home. Monday the boy seemed angry because his plans had been thwarted. He tied some wire to a rafter in an outbuilding and tried to hang himself. The wire was too long to draw his body from the ground but as it tightened it might have choked him had his mother not heard his groans and cut the wire.

Tuesday night the boy said that he was going for a walk. His father followed for a time, but later gave up and went home, expecting the boy to return. In the morning the police were notified.
