Secretary of Labor Wilson to Take Charge in the Illinois Fields.

INDUSTRIES CLOSING

Steel Mills at Gary, Ind., and In Calumet Lay Off Workers.

By United Press
CHICAGO, July 28.—Illinois coal officials in conference today voted for the formation of a government committee to investigate the coal situation. They agreed that no change in the policy of workers should take place without the sanction of the government.

By United Press
WASHINGTON, July 28.—W. B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, has been named by President Wilson to take charge of the labor situation in the Illinois coal mining district. Secretary Wilson will probably be expected to make a report of the situation as he has found it. Whether President Wilson will act in the matter or not will depend largely on the result of this investigation.

To Call Conference of Workers.

By United Press
Union officials began consideration of the strike of coal miners in Illinois, Kansas and Indiana today. Thomas T. Brewster, chairman of mine operators, is reported to have telegraphed John Lewis, president of the United Mine workers of America, to call a conference of workers in Indiana, Ohio and Western Pennsylvania to decide whether or not they will accept the terms that have been proposed.

Operators of four states went into separate conferences early today to decide whether or not they would accept the terms that have been made. They agreed to telegraph their decision to Brewster in St. Louis.

Industries today were in some places drafting coal supplies. Closing down of many industries in the middle west, affected most keenly by the strike, began today, according to reports. Steel mills at Gary, Ind., and in Calumet, began to lay off workers because of lack of enough coal to keep the entire force busy. Some industries are reported to have resorted to burning oil.

IMPROVE LOCAL MINE

Blackfoot Output Will Be Increased—County May Be Self-Sufficient.

The Boone County coal mines can supply the entire Columbia demand, according to C. A. Gaither, the new manager of the Blackfoot Coal Company.

Two hundred tons a day is the winter demand of Columbia. At present the Blackfoot mines are producing only about 50 tons. However, efforts are being made to greatly increase this output. New headings are being made, new cages are being put in, and the number of pit cars is to be doubled. The electric wiring has been changed so that all the coal can be mined by machinery. Additional mines are being advertised for.

Mr. Gaither says that "Blackfoot Company is spending several thousand dollars in expanding its work." They have leased additional tracts of coal to the north of their present holdings. When asked if the local mines would be able to meet the entire demands of Columbia, he said, "Without a doubt as soon as they are running at full capacity. If the demand justifies it our company alone can produce 400 tons a day."

LECTURES ON MUSIC

Israelites Had Songs for Each Incident of Day, Says Rabbi Singer.

Rabbi Jacob Singer, of the Temple B'nai Jeshurun, Lincoln, Neb., addressed an audience at University assembly last night upon the subject "Music in the Bible."

Rabbi Singer pointed out that one studying this subject will find that music was the favored art in Israel in biblical times, and, once reaching that conclusion, some otherwise unintelligible texts and traditions will become clarified.

"Art," he continued, "is a manifestation of a peoples' experience and aspiration, and especially true of poetry and music because they are not representative but presentative arts. Music was one of the arts that was not subject to restrictions. The plastic arts were warned against because of their leanings toward idolatry. It was not until after the destruction of the Herodian temple that music was taken out of the Israelites' life, which was not an expression of hatred of art, but resulted from the great national grief, and solace was self-devised.

"The Jewish achievements in modern music are due to the old survival of the musical faculty," he said. "The ancient Israelites were a people of unusual musical temperament whose daily nourishment was song and sound. They had songs for all occasions: for meals, for digging of a well, departure, wedding, war, victory, wine-pressing time, harvest, pilgrimage and for sacrifice.

"Every faith has its appropriate music, and the difference between the creeds might almost be expressed in musical notation. Preintellectual for example, which divides the wild revels of Cybele for the stately ritual of the Catholic church is measured by the gulf which severs the dissonant clash of the cymbals and tambourines from the harmonies of Palestrina and Handel."

He offered a proof of the value of this knowledge of setting, when he turned to the Psalms of the Bible, and pointed out that the many untranslated words such as stand at the headings of the Psalms, such as "Selah," were merely musical terms that have been left untranslated because of their universal coinage.

"We cannot appreciate the music of the Orient or even understand it unless we contrast it with the music of the Northern Europe and Southern Europe, but once it is understood, it gives a vital setting for biblical study."

Rabbi Singer teaches history and theory of music at the University of Nebraska, and is a lecturer on music at the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati, Ohio, where he won the Kaufmann-Cohler prize while doing research work. He was sent by the Jewish Chautauqua System, which sends out lecturers all over the country to present to the public the work that the Jewish people are accomplishing in science.

SHERIFF IDENTIFIES KANSAS CAR THIEVES

Three Men Steal Automobile From Garage in Army City, Kansas.

NO REWARD GIVEN

Fourth Man, Not Implicated in the Theft, Is Released.

The sheriff of Manhattan, Kan., arrived this morning and identified three men held by Sheriff T. Fred Whitesides as the ones who stole an automobile belonging to Will Henricks of Army City, Kan. The men were identified as Dewey Henricks, Roy Henricks and Harry Weed. The Henricks brothers are brothers-in-law of Will Henricks, owner of the car.

William Henricks, the fourth man of the quartet, who is also a brother-in-law of Will Henricks, was found to be innocent of aiding in stealing the car. Will Henricks, owner of the car, accompanied the sheriff and drove his car back to Army City, taking William Henricks with him.

The three men who were suspected and arrested by Sheriff Whitesides were the ones now charged with taking the car. Whitesides did not believe that William Henricks had a hand in the theft. He told him to take the car to the garage and then go to the courthouse. Henricks became frightened and ran away and was later captured at Hallsville. There was no reward for the capture of the thieves or the return of the car.

The story told by the owner of the stolen car today was that he had driven his car to Junction City and was forced to leave it in a garage to be repaired. After he left town the Henricks brothers and Harry Weed took the car from the garage. They picked up William Henricks at Salina, Kan. They told him it was a car they had bought. The men drove from Salina to Kansas City and then to Columbia.

When asked why he ran away when he knew he was not guilty, William Henricks said that the fear of being put behind the bars was too much for him and he "just had to go."

COUNTRY CLUB PLANS REVIVED

Representatives of Mission Hill Golf Club Here Yesterday.

Interest in the country club proposition which has claimed the attention of many local golf enthusiasts during the last three weeks was revived by an executive meeting of the Columbia Golf Club today.

Following the visit of a representative of the Mission Hill Golf Club, Kansas City, to Columbia yesterday, efforts are being made to formulate plans for the organization of a Country club, including a clubhouse, golf grounds and auxiliary features.

It is estimated that eighty acres of land will be required for the use of the club. Just where this location can be secured has not yet been determined. Dr. A. W. McAlester has offered to sell a site for the grounds at the east end of Hinkson avenue. He offers to accept notes of the country club association, when it is organized, for the purchase price, with 6 per cent interest.

Frank B. Rollins, with offices in the Boone County National Bank, stated this morning, that he had tentative plans under way for an offer to the club association. It is understood that his proposed site is near or adjacent to the present golf links. Mr. Rollins said that he expected to submit his offer within a few days.

"The money will be apportioned as follows: $155,000,000 known deficit for May and April; $125,000,000 estimated deficit for May, June, July and August; $200,000,000 for wage increase recently granted."

SPRING WOOL IS STILL HELD

50 Per Cent Increase Is Expected by Next Fall.

Boone County wool growers are still holding the major part of the spring clip in anticipation of a material increase in wool quotations in the near future, according to Roy Creed, manager of the wool warehouse at Eleventh and Walnut streets.

"While our storings have been comparatively small," said Creed, "the majority of Boone County sheep men have profited this year from past experiences. While 25 cents is the best quotation the independent grower can expect at present, it is a practical certainty that wool held until along in the fall will rise at least 50 per cent on market quotations."

MACEDONIANS LIKE COLUMBIA

They Like the United States as Soon as They Got to New York.

"They liked the United States as soon as they got to New York, and they kept on liking it when they reached Columbia," said James Moscow in speaking of his mother and sister, Mrs. Nina Gregory and Miss Xantippe Gregory, who arrived last week.

They had been on the way for two months, and were glad indeed to find a place where there is peace and where prices are not absolutely out of sight. They had planned to come to this country in 1914 but were unable to do so on account of the outbreak of the war. Their wait was not monotonous for their home town, Cortcha, Macedonia, was always changing hands. Now the Turks held it, then the Greeks and finally the French, who are still in power. The Germans lacked only fifteen miles of reaching it when they were checked.

"That didn't make it any more pleasant for my mother and sister, said Mr. Moscow. "One day my sister was standing in the door admiring the airplanes circling overhead, when suddenly a bomb burst not very far from where she stood. A number of houses were shattered, together with the dome of a magnificent church which was considered one of the most beautiful pieces of architecture in Greece."

"Prices here seem low, after one has been paying $1 a pound for flour which usually turns out to be something else. Often the food is so adulterated that it is hard to tell what it is meant for, and many times the people have been made sick from eating it. It is often impossible to get some things. Material for clothing is even higher than food. The government still portioned out the food to the people, even the vegetables and things that they raised themselves, at the time my mother and sister left."

When asked if they were homesick yet, the answer came back promptly, "No, there is nothing to be homesick for. Most of our people are here and there is nothing there but want and misery. In fact, nearly all the people there are anxious to come to the United States and would come right away if they only had a chance."

A few minutes ride from the business district of San Antonio, Tex., on the West End Trolley car, one may see a modest house with a small garden in front, located in a residential district, owned by Pancho Villa's wife. Not even her political enemies have ever molested her nor the United States government. Pancho Villa, as a good husband, has always managed in some way or other, to remit to her the regular money allowance, thus keeping Mrs. Villa and their only boy in a decent and leisurely condition.
