SIGNAL PRACTICE COMPLETES WORK FOR BIG GAME

The Tigers are ready. The above was the declaration of Coach John Miller yesterday afternoon following the last long workout of the season. The work was practically all of the signal variety and two teams were kept constantly in motion. There was no sign of the freshman team, Coach Collins having dismissed his proteges after last Saturday's scrimmage.

There is no definite means of picking the lineup that will start from last evening's work. The coaches varied the back field at least a half dozen times during the afternoon. Captain Lewis spent considerable time in kicking. The line goes for a starting backfield is Packwood at quarter, Lincoln at fullback, and Fulbright and Lewis at halves. John Knight will probably be the first reserve to see duty. Knight has been coming strong of late and is almost certain to be in there before the final whistle blows.

Harry Viner, a member of last year's victorious eleven was a visitor at practice. Viner came all the way from Texas to see the game.

The Tigers will have a short workout this afternoon merely to loosen up the muscles, and will then rest until Thursday.

U. S. S. AND C. H. S. PLAY FINAL GAME TOMORROW

Supporters of Columbia and University high schools are looking forward to a hard struggle when the football teams of the two schools meet on the freshman football field at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The Returning Old Guard and Today's Students

Will find Harris' prepared to help make the 1920 Homecoming maintain the traditions of yester-years. You will find that Harris' dainties are present at reception and mixer; that Old and New in Harris' Booths are comparing the 1920 Tigers with those that "beat Kansas" in by-gone days and you will hear someone say from time to time "Harris' service is just like it always was—better than others."

Harris Patrons of former years will be interested in reading "The Booth of Romance"—the story of a Harris' Booth, it will stir old memories. A few copies have been saved for the Old Grads—ask the Cashier for yours.
