

UNIVERSITY NEWS

Miss Mildred Morgenthaler spent the week-end with her parents in Hallsville. Miss Edna Musick of 609 Turner avenue, who completed her work in the University last term, is now teaching in the primary school at Morenci, Ariz.

O. C. McBride has been appointed an assistant in the entomology department of the College of Agriculture. Mr. McBride was graduated from the College of Agriculture last spring.

Three new books, the gift of Miss Kate Stephens, were received at the University Library this morning: "American Thru the South"; "Life at Laurel Town in Single Season Kansas"; and "Work-felows in Social Progression."

Charles M. McWilliams, who was graduated from the College of Agriculture in 1911, is a pioneer among farm agents. He was the first man to hold such a position under the Smith-Lever law. Mr. McWilliams resigned as farm adviser of Cape Girardeau County in 1918, but has recently accepted the office of county farm adviser for Randolph County, Illinois.

150 NOW IN BIBLE COLLEGE

Present Enrollment Shows Increase of 60 Per Cent.

The enrollment in the Bible College this term is with one exception the largest in the school's history. There are 150 students enrolled, an increase of 60 per cent over the enrollment for last term. There is a big gain in the number of University students taking the Bible courses, although the number of Bible College students has decreased. The year's total enrollment is 242, as against 209 last year. The social teachings of Jesus and the Bible as Literature are the most popular courses. University credit is given for almost all the courses.

R. J. CASSIDY INSURES HOME

Columbian Is One of Convert to Use Sheetrock Fireproof Wallboard.

The fact that Sheetrock Fireproof Wallboard, has been accepted in Boone County as a fire proof building material, is evident by the amount that has recently been distributed to rebuild homes that have been partially or entirely destroyed by fire.

Notable among those that have been converted to the use of Sheetrock Fireproof Wallboard is R. J. Cassidy, 1114 Paquin avenue, Columbia, whose home was recently partially destroyed.

In rebuilding his residence Mr. Cassidy is using Sheetrock Fireproof Wallboard in place of plastering on the walls and ceiling of the third floor. In case of a fire started from the shingles on the roof, it cannot go through the ceiling into the rooms. Or in case of a fire within the room, nothing will be burned, except possibly the furnishings and the floor.

In large towns, where fires are more frequent and dangerous, Sheetrock Fireproof Wallboard is used extensively for the walls and ceilings on all floors as an insurance against fire. The price of Sheetrock Fireproof Wallboard is practically the same as that of plastering or other wall coverings.

Sheetrock Fireproof Wallboard, handled exclusively in Columbia by the Boone County Lumber Company, is made of gypsum rock, is absolutely fireproof. It does not warp, shrink or buckle—keeps the heat in and the cold out. It is not merely a fireproof wallboard, but takes a decorative treatment of papering, painting or paneling, equally as well as plastering or other wall and ceiling covering.

Naturally then, its use will not only add to the beauty, safety and comfort of your home, but as it is indestructible, will last as long as a wall or ceiling covering is needed. Let us show you how easily it can be sawed and put up.

These pork products are obtained from the best hogs that can be bought. They are selected and inspected. The young hogs are from 8 to 10 months old and weigh from 200 to 240 pounds. We get a few hogs from state farms. Ask E. A. Trowbridge, E. E. Brown, Dean Mumford, Dr. Crisler about the quality of these.

The bulk of the hogs come from the Boone County farmers. Ask the farmers and shippers about the quality of hogs we buy.
