

TOMORROW IS FATAL DAY IN M. U. POLITICS

The corridors of Academic Hall have been filled even more than usual during the last few days, and politics are being discussed in every corner. Only once during each year of college does the campus politician have an opportunity to indulge in a campaign. Some of them are permitted to test the ability of their oratory to swing votes by a mass meeting speech some days during the week preceding election. Others hold their own little informal meetings, but all start training ahead of time in finger exercises preparatory to being able to give a good firm grip when someone says "I want you to elect Mr. So-and-so."

So when you go to the polls tomorrow you will have to select from the following list your favorite hero: President, Fred Maughmer, J. THE SHOWME HERE TO STAY

Retail Merchants' Association Indorses Comic Magazine.

The Retail Merchants' Association indorses the Showme as an advertising medium Monday night. The magazine will be on sale the latter part of this week. Arch Rodgers, editor, said yesterday. With the approval of the merchants, all doubts as to the permanency of the magazine vanished, he added.

Not only will the full number of issues be put out this year, but plans are being laid for next year. Every major high school in the state will be reached by the Showme next year, according to Rodgers. It is probable that a High School Number to stimulate interest in the University will be offered next year. Missouri Farm Mortgages Increase. According to the complete agricultural census of Missouri which was given out last Wednesday night, more than half the farms of Missouri are mortgaged. Although the value of farm lands, live stock and other farm products have made enormous increases since 1910, the mortgages have also increased. Ten years ago there were only 46 per cent of the farms mortgaged.

His Friends Call Him "Monk"

He's not perfect—
He won't take personal charge of the destinies of M. U.
BUT—
He is a "man's man"—
He is an "M" man—

He is just a friendly, four-square, Senior in the School of Commerce who is your friend and above all, a loyal supporter of the Tigers.

Can You Ask More?

That's the spirit of "Monk"

You Will Vote First Choice for Fred Maughmer

because you know that as student president he has the ability to put "pep" into Mass Meetings, because you know that he has the courage to act for the securing of proper room rentals, because he is bound to no clique but can and will interpret the desires of the whole student body.

Maughmer has the support of the strong men in every school. Among the hundreds that are actively supporting Fred Maughmer are the following. They urge that you cast your vote for Maughmer early.
