

COMMUNITY STORAGE OF SWEET POTATOES URGED

Vegetable Gardening Section of Horticultural Department to Aid Farmers.

"The sweet potato crop for Missouri this year will be the largest on record; conditions have been favorable throughout the year and the total acreage has increased," according to J. T. Gardner of the vegetable gardening section of the horticultural department, "and unless a great number of these storage plants can be erected, the farmers are going to be left with the crop on their hands on account of the market being flooded. The average marketing period lasts two months and without storage facilities they must get their potatoes to market within this time or have them spoil on their hands."

The storage plants are fairly simple; the basic principal being to keep the potatoes warm and dry at a temperature of 85 degrees for two weeks then at a temperature of 55 degrees for the remaining time which they are in storage.

Under these conditions the sugar content of the potatoes is increased from approximately 1 per cent to between 5 and 6 per cent and the starch decreases a little bit.

The scheme which the University is advocating to the farmers is to have them come in on a co-operative basis, as the majority of them have comparatively small acreage, sharing the expense involved and being able to receive more for the product by carrying the distribution over a period of nine months instead of two as is the case at present.

Mr. Page reports that in practically every community the farmers are very enthusiastic about the plan and many of these storage plants have been erected and many more are under construction. The greatest success has been met with in St. Louis County and in the South, east and southwestern parts of the state. There are approximately fifteen thousand acres of sweet potatoes in the state under cultivation.

ACTOR THRILLED BY ARREST

Held as Murder Suspect Because of Make-up He Wore.

ST. JOHNS, N. B. (By Mail to United Press).—Garbed as a railroad laborer and answering the description of a murderer, Edward Edwards, a movie actor, recently had a thrilling experience.

Lewis was taking the role of a navy. He was dressed in khaki pants, blue coat and soft hat. His hair is jet black and he is dark complexioned. He looks like an Italian laborer in his costume. Lewis was on location near here with a company of players filming a scenario for a Canadian motion picture company. He had been imported from New York City.

Lewis separated at noon from the rest of the group and started to walk along the railroad tracks where the scenes were being filmed, picking berries. He had walked about half a mile when he saw three men running toward him. Thinking they intended to assault him, he fled to the woods. The trio chased him, and after a pursuit of about three miles they captured him. He was taken, despite his protests, to the police station, and lodged in a cell. In the evening, the manager of the company came at his summons to the police station and formally identified him as a member of his company.

He had been arrested as a murder suspect. The man who noticed little, 5-year-old Sadie McAuley from St. John, on the pretense of picking berries, was described as dark complexioned, with jet black hair and wearing khaki pants, blue coat and a soft hat. Lewis answered the description in the letter. Lewis said he feared lynching if he had been in custody much longer, as feeling was intense.

The murderer of the McAuley child is still at large. The body was found seven days after the disappearance of the girl. It had been placed under a rock.

U. S. REPORT VALUES CROPS

Missouri One of Foremost Food Producers of Nation.

In the recent census report comprising the values of the crops in the United States and giving the relative standing of states as to the amount produced, Missouri takes her place as one of the foremost of the nation.

Corn, in which Missouri has always compared favorably and often excelled, is again the chief product of the "show me" state. Among the other products in which the state compares most favorably are oats, wheat, barley, rye, buckwheat, alfalfa, milo, runner, spelt and rice. These crops make up the cereals. The total value of this class is estimated for 1919 as $6,941,242,074 as compared with $2,665,539,714 for 1909. Of the total amount for 1919 Missouri produced $394,195,226. The states excelling Missouri are Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, and Nebraska.

Not alone in cereals does Missouri rank among the foremost. In hay, forage, vegetables and all miscellaneous crops she has an excellent record to compare with the other leading food producers of the nation.

ELECTION SALARIES HIGH

Officers Attending Polls Get High Wage Under New Status.

BENMARK, N. D. (By Mail to United Press).—Interpretation of the words "votes cast" in the election officers' compensation laws of the 1921 session may lead to legal controversies when salaries are drawn for the recall election in November.

The law reads that every judge, clerk or inspector shall receive six dollars, but when "the number of votes cast shall exceed one hundred the sum of one dollar for each additional one hundred votes cast or major fraction thereof." Judge Spalding of the State Supreme Court in writing the court's opinion in the Montrail County division case has interpreted the term "votes cast": "The voter, although he may use but one ballot, casts as many separate votes as many times as there are candidates or questions for or against which he votes."

In the coming recall there are three officers and seven questions to be voted on, a total of ten votes. In the city precincts where 500 men and women vote, there will be 5,000 votes cast, according to this interpretation, which means a compensation of $74 for elections officials.

At a general election where there are upwards of 40 officers to be elected the total vote would be 20,000, giving a compensation of about $240.

Under the old law election officials received 25 cents an hour or not to exceed 4 dollars. Officials in last November's election worked from 24 to 40 hours for this compensation.

LAW BODY TELLS STANDARD

American Bar Association Will List Good Law Schools.

The American Bar Association held a meeting in Cincinnati, Ohio, last week and passed the following resolutions:

1. The American Bar Association is of the opinion that every candidate for admission to the bar should give evidence of graduation from a law school complying with the following standards:

It shall require as a condition of admission at least two years of study in a college.

It shall require its students to pursue a course of three years duration if they devote substantially all of their working time to their studies, and longer course equivalent in the number of their working time to their studies.

It shall provide an adequate library available for the use of the students.

It shall have among its teachers a sufficient number giving their entire time to the school to insure actual personal acquaintance and influence with the whole student body.

2. The American Bar Association is of the opinion that graduation from a law school should not confer the right of admission to the bar and that every candidate should be subjected to an examination by public authority to determine his fitness.

3. The Council on Legal Education and Admission to the Bar is directed to publish from time to time the names of those law schools which comply with the above standards and of those who do not and to make such publications available so far as possible to intending law students.

CORN CROP IN N. Y. IS LARGE

Yield Is One of the Best in Last Ten Years in New England.

Corn is almost a record breaking crop this year in New York. It is one of the best crops in the last ten years in New England and is generally good throughout the country. In Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Alabama it is below average according to the weekly crop report just issued by E. A. Logan, agricultural statistician for the U. S. Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates.

Harvesting of corn has begun in Texas, Mississippi and Florida. Some new corn has been marketed in Arkansas. Cutting is in progress in Indiana, Minnesota and Michigan and cutting for silos is reported in Iowa and Wisconsin.
